FINNISH FLAG IS RAISED FOR FIRST OLYMPIC VICTORY

ANTWERP, Aug. 15.—The first winning flag to be hoisted at the Olympic Stadium today was that of Finland. In throwing the javelin, their team beat all comers and all records.

In the first throw the American team seemed easy winners. The Stars and Stripes marked the throws of Angier and Lincoln, a long way in advance of any other competitors, Lincoln's record being 57.86 meters, and Angier's 59.27 meters.

The second series, however, brought the northern nations, Sweden, Finland, Denmark and Esthonia, into play, and Lincoln's throw was soon far surpassed. With magnificent grace of gesture and power of arm, the Finnish team hurled their weapons past the world record mark, 60.64 meters, made by Lemming in 1912. One of their number, Myrra, reached the record distance of 65.78 meters and two other members of the team surpassed the 60-meter mark.

An Esthonian and a Swede took fifth and sixth places behind the Finns, and Angier had to be content with seventh place.

The day was one of wonderful beauty, the sunlight being tempered by a little breeze which was most agreeable to all competitors. The attendance, however, remain absurdly small. The stands were not half filled, and the whole great Olympic games, except for the babel of of languages, has the character of club sports.

Loomis and Desch in Front.

Frank Loomis and August Desch came out today as the survivors of seven heats in the 400-meter hurdle race, and a win in this event for America is assured. It was the heat won by Desch which provided the greatest excitement of the day. The veteran French runner, Georges André, led him over the last hurdle after having caught up a valuable distance, but the effort had proved too much. On the short straightaway Desch made a great sprint and reached the tape first by the width of his chest.

Loomis's race was his own from start to finish. He had the inside track with the big Swede, Carl Christiernssen, as his most formidable opponent. It was a battle of the fans for minutes before the race, for the American and Swedish supporters are by far the most numerous spectators of the sports. Each side yelled at the other, the Swedish battle cry thundering over the gay stadium with a peculiarly inspiring boom.

Loomis passed his rival at the second hurdle, and from there on the race was a procession. At the tape he was a meter in front of his nearest opponent and made the same time, 0:55 2-5, as Desch had done in his heat. Either may tomorrow reach the 0:55 of the world record.

Rudd and Hill Lead Eby.

The Americans did not show so well in the 800-meter race. They did not score any wins in their heats, and had to be content with places. It was a race for Englishmen, and Mountain, Rudd of South Africa and Baker won three of four heats. Earl Eby took third place behind Rudd and the Englishman Hill. Scott was second behind Baker, Campbell second behind the Frenchman, Gouilleux, and Sprott second behind the Swede, Lundgren.

Out of twelve preliminary heats in the 100-yard dash, four Americans each won his heat and in most cases with ease. In the quarter finals, however, Murchison succumbed to the West Indian Britisher, Harry Edwards, who made the time 10 4-5 seconds.

Paddock, after his usual preliminary ceremony of touching a piece of wood for luck on the way to the starting post, won his heat in fine style from a Frenchman in the same time. Jackson Scholz, running as ever with his head on one side, won with a good margin from the South African Oosterlak, and Morris Kirksen completed the winners.

For the semi-finals there are, therefore, three Americans and two Englishmen. Of the latter, Edwards is accounted the more formidable, though not the equal of Paddock.

All four American jumpers qualified for the finals by clearing the 1.80 meter mark. They were the only team to accomplish this feat, the other survivors being the two Frenchmen, two Englishmen and three Swedes.

The whole day's proceedings were of a most enjoyable character and the absence of any appeals or friction between the nations competing showed much more of the ideal spirit of the League of Nations than any meeting of politicians.

Cape Cod Towns Begin Commemoration of Pilgrims

WELLFLEET, Mass., Aug. 15.—Cape Cod folk today began the long series of observances with which Massachusetts will celebrate the tercentenary of the landing of the Pilgrims. This little fishing town, near the tip of the Cape, began an "Old Home Week," which includes the observance of the 200th birthday of the Second Congregational Church.

Tuesday will be "Governor's Day," when Lieutenant Governor Channing M. Cox is to deliver an address. Other events will be a reunion of old settlers tomorrow and a Pilgrim pageant on Friday.

The town of Truro will present an elaborate pageant of Pilgrim days on Aug. 25. Two days later Provincetown, on the tip of the Cape, where the Mayflower first made harbor, will begin a four days' celebration which will centre about the Pilgrim Monument.

HOLD UP GOV. COX AS MOTOR SPEEDER

One of Four Machines Swerves Across Trolley Tracks, but Escapes Smashup.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 15.—Governor James M. Cox was held up by motorcycle policemen on a charge of automobile speeding this afternoon on the State highway about two miles from the village of Jacksontown, while returning from Wheeling, W. Va.

There were four cars in the Governor's party and the numbers were taken. The constables wanted to take Governor Cox back to Jacksontown to appear in court, but he ordered his chauffeur to drive on. He had important conference engagements in Columbus and was in a hurry.

Adjt. Gen. Roy E. Layton, who was in one of the cars, charged tonight that there had been a plot among Republican officials of the little village to embarrass Governor Cox.

"I was told yesterday," said General Layton, "that Republicans were 'laying for the Governor' and wanted to cause his arrest."

Governor Cox had no comment to make about his experience. He was not formally arrested and it was impossible to learn tonight how far the charge of speeding would be pressed.

The holdup by the country policemen and an accident to one of the automobiles occupied by three newspaper correspondents, Robert T. Small, Clinton W. Gilbert and W. C. Howells, served to enliven the day. None was injured in the accident, which occurred about twelve miles outside of Columbus, but it was a narrow escape.

Accident in Rainstorm.

The accident happened in a driving rainstorm. The automobile, which was trailing the Governor's machine, tried to pass another car and found a small car coming from the opposite direction in the way. The driver of the correspondents' car swerved sharply, barely missing a telegraph pole, and ended across the trolley tracks which parallel the roadway at that point.

A limited trolley car was coming along at a high rate of speed and was stopped just in time to avoid a smashup. The correspondents' automobile was not going at a high speed.

Stories about the automobile speeding by Presidential candidates have appeared frequently in the newspapers. Senator Harding made a fast drive on his trip from Washington to Marion soon after his nomination, and Governor Cox has been on fast rides. The late Colonel Roosevelt and former President Taft have been put in the "speed" class. It is doubtful, however, if a President or a candidate has gone through an experience similar to that staged today.

The run from Wheeling to Columbus is about 125 miles and heavy cars frequently get above the speed limit, which is thirty miles an hour under the State law and twenty-five miles in some restricted zones. The road is a wonderful bit of brick and cement highway for practically the entire distance.

The four big cars carrying the Governor and his party had attracted attention in their dash to West Virginia yesterday. This morning the cars started for Columbus about 10:30 o'clock, an hour behind their schedule.

ONE ATTACKED WITH PISTOL

Part of Program Against Orthodox Church for Trying to Americanize Russians, Says Abbot.

Bolshevist sympathizers or agents, who are alleged to have committed several outrages on Russian Orthodox priests recently, including poisoning the chalice at the Church of the Transfiguration, 235 East Seventeenth Street, attempted at 11 o'clock yesterday morning to turn into a riot the service of prayer at the Cathedral of St. Nicholas, 19 East Ninety-Seventh Street, for the restoration of the Mosque of St. Sophia at Constantinople to the Orthodox Catholic Church.

About 1,500 persons, all standing, in accordance with the Orthodox custom, crowded the Cathedral at yesterday's services. Hundreds of non-members of the Orthodox Church had been invited to the service, that they might witness the peculiar pageantry of that church at its fullest solemnity and splendor in the Pontifical Mass celebrated by Archbishop Alexander of North America and the Aleutian Islands. The singing was by the famous Isba Chorus, of thirty-two voices, made up largely of refugee Russians, many of them of noble families.

Quiet prevailed throughout the audience, until Archbishop Alexander, after a discourse on the Americanizing program of the church, started to administer the communion.

"Yah, yah," cried a voice, as nearly as it could be understood, from the last rank of those standing at the rear of the Cathedral. This shriek was taken up by several others. Frightened voices rose in other parts of the auditorium, and some women screamed. For a minute there was danger of a panic.

Warned of Bolshevist Plan.

Because of warnings that Bolshevist sympathizers had planned to break up yesterday's services, the priests had asked for police protection, and policemen were stationed in the Cathedral, but the throng was so dense that they could not move easily. Men in the congregation, however, rushed for the disturbers and hustled them out of the church. Five of the riot inciters were pitched out upon the stairs, from which they fled east before the police arrived.

During the row, Archbishop Alexander calmly went on administering communion, tendering the chalice to T. Everett Harré, the author, among other converts who entered the Orthodox Church yesterday. Some of the priests suspected that it was especially for Mr. Harré that the demonstration was given. He has recently been making an investigation for the National Civic Federation on the subject of "Bolshevism in the Churches," describing recently the alleged manner in which radical clergymen in the Episcopal Church were seeking to indoctrinate their flocks with Bolshevism, and following this with an investigation of alleged Soviet sympathizers among the Methodist clergy.

None of the disturbers was captured by the police. Abbot Patrick, who preached in the English language at the services yesterday, said:

"We did not get a very good description of them except that they were not Christians."

Demonstration Aimed at Church.

Abbot Patrick said that it had been announced publicly that Mr. Harré was to be received into the church yesterday and that the demonstration might have been aimed particularly at him, since he had made a shining mark of himself for Bolsheviki because of his attacks on them. He was inclined, however, to regard it as part of a program of attack on the Orthodox Church by Bolshevist sympathizers.

"The malice is concentrated on us," he said, "because the Christian Russians are anti-Bolshevist almost to a man. They understand that the most powerful reagents against radical movements are our Church and the Roman Catholic Church."

The poisoned chalice incident occurred two Sundays ago, as described by Abbot

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., Aug. 14.—The world record for "looping the loop" by women aviators was broken here this afternoon when Miss Louise Brownell, 20 years old, of Cincinnati, flipped her machine over eighty-seven times. The best previous performance, made last year by a French woman flier, was twenty-five loops.

The record came as part of the ceremonies marking the dedication of the Curtiss Airdrome, formerly Hazlehurst Field, one of the principal army air posts during the war. Driving a Curtiss K-6, standard type, Miss Brownell went aloft shortly after 3 o'clock and quickly tilted her machine up to 8,000 feet. Directly over the field she began the loops.

While observers checked off each complete tip-over the young woman kept gradually losing height. She had got down to a scant 1,000 feet when, over Hempstead, her engine began to miss. Fearing an accident, Miss Brownell circled in a long slant down to her starting point.

"I didn't mind it a bit," was her comment as she climbed out of the machine to pose for a score of "movie" men.

FROM LADDER'S TOP HE SAVES 7 AT FIRE

DISMISSED FIREMAN A HERO

"Smoky Joe" Martin Calls Rescue Most Daring He Has Seen in 40 Years' Experience.

A born fireman who was dismissed from his battalion of fire fighters eight months ago, last night won his reinstatement in the department by saving seven persons in a tenement fire by an exploit that was described by Deputy Chief "Smoky Joe" Martin as "the most heroic he had seen in forty years of fire fighting."

By turning himself into a human extension to a dizzy ladder that fell six feet short of the fifth story ledge where the seven persons were perched, this fireman enabled an entire family to scramble to safety over his back, and then, by a gymnastic feat rivaling a circus thriller, he tumbled to safety on the topmost rung of the swaying frame. "Smoky Joe" was at the foot of the ladder to grasp the hand of this ex-fireman when he reached the ground, saying:

"My boy, in forty years of fire fighting I've seen a lot of human flies and a lot of rescues, but what you've done tonight beats any hero stuff I've ever seen. You ought to be in the Fire Department."

"I was in the department until eight months ago," the ex-fireman replied, "but I was busted for punching my battalion chief in the nose, and I want to get back."

Promises to Get His Job Back.

"Then I'll see that you get back," replied the Deputy Chief. "Just ask for a rehearing of your case, and there isn't a fireman in the department that wouldn't fight for your reinstatement."

Eight months ago Fireman Louis Tischler of Truck 6 was dismissed after trial on the charge of striking his battalion chief. His plea before the trial Commissioner was extreme provocation and, although he was advised several times to ask for a rehearing he was never able to get any action. Giving up all hope of being restored to an occupation that he liked above all others and of redeeming a former good record, Tischler took a job driving an automobile.

He was driving his automobile through Forsythe Street last night when he saw flames coming from every window clear up the face of a five-story tenement building at 122 Forsyth Street, and a group of screaming women and children clinging to a wide ledge belting the structure on the level of the fifth story windows. There was not a piece of fire apparatus anywhere in sight.

Tischler said that "something squirmed" in him and before he knew it he was running up the stairway in the tenement adjoining, at No. 124. He said he knew the Fire Department would be there in a few minutes and that he saw that the children of the family had to be taken from their perilous perch before they lost their heads and fell off.

Works in Dense Smoke.

Kicking open the door of a flat on the fifth floor, Tischler worked his way around the ledge to the adjoining building, but he found that he was five feet below the ledge where the family was grouped with their Sunday guests, waiting for rescuers.

"I knew then that I ought to have gone to the roof," said Tischler, "but there wasn't any time to go back. One of the kids was about to fall."

By wild gesticulation Tischler managed to make Vincenzo Gangi, the frightened head of this perching family, understand that he wanted to carry the smallest child along the narrow ledge to safety, and not Gangi's 200-pound wife, Josephine. Vincenzo finally managed to swing his 11-year-old niece, Ida Delassandro, down to the waiting fireman on the narrow ledge.

The former fireman was going back along the ledge to rescue an eight-year-old child, Roberta Delassandro, when a shout from below told him that Truck 9 was on the job and Captain Francis Roller was shooting up his longest ladder. Tischler waited for the ladder, although he could hardly see the working firemen through the smoke and flames that were now roaring through the entire building.

When its top pierced the smoke screen Tischler saw that it was waving perilously and that it was at least six feet short of the ledge. Seeing that there was no time to wait for another ladder, he dexterously swung himself to the top rungs and, as the frame swung back toward the building, he leaped upward and caught the ledge. The ladder slipped

AIM TO INVADE ENGLAND

Eventual Conquest of United States to Follow, It Is Asserted.

LEADERS REVEAL PROGRAM

Tell American Correspondent All About It When He Visits Captured Town in Poland.

KOLNO, Poland (By Courier to Diottowen, East Prussia), Aug. 14 (Associated Press).—Soviet Russia intends to seek an alliance with Germany to make war on France, and, if this is successful, to undertake a conquest of England and, eventually, America, officials of the Bolshevist régime told The Associated Press here today.

As soon as the Polish war, which is considered a purely Russian business, has been finished, a note will be sent to Berlin, they declared, demanding permission to transport troops across Germany for the French campaign. Upon refusal of this request, which is taken for granted, a revolution will be instituted in Germany, the success of which the Bolsheviki asserted they were prepared to assure by force of arms.

With these ends in view, the Russian soldiers, who have been told that all wars shall cease with ultimate victory over the Poles, are being subjected to a vigorous propaganda, which declarés that Frenchmen will be shot on sight, but that the Germans are friends who soon will become comrades of the Bolsheviki.

These admissions have been corroborated by information gathered by the correspondent in conversation with German representatives of East Prussian newspapers, who had interviews with the Bolshevist army chiefs at the front.

The Bolshevist leaders declare that, within three weeks, they will be in complete control of Poland, including the Polish corridor, which they intend to occupy, leaving a ten-kilometer neutral zone about Danzig.

When the correspondent reached here, after surreptitiously crossing the border at Czerwone and employing the aid of Poles and a farm wagon filled with straw, he called on the Polish Soviet Commissary, who recently was established in office by the Bolshevist military. Hans Scharnewsky, the Commissary, is a Polish Jew with protruding eyes and a blond mustache, and wears a white collar. He acknowledged the correspondent's greeting and then sat down at his dinner table, completely ignoring the American.

At the Commissary's side throughout the meal and during the correspondent's visit a Russian soldier armed with a revolver stood watch, and all the conversation was interpreted to him in Russian. The Commissary's assistant, who was a former German officer, said this Russian was a Soviet representative who watched all business transacted by Scharnewsky and reported to the Soviet Central Government, although he never interfered with the Commissary's procedure.

When the Commissary finished his meal, which consisted of soup, a steak smothered with onions, potatoes and beer, he stalked to his office, directing the correspondent to wait. After an hour he returned, demanded the correspondent's passports, to which he gave a cursory inspection, and then returned to his office.

After waiting two hours, the correspondent wandered about the town talking to the inhabitants, among whom were many Jews. He was told they did not know whether they were going under Russian, Polish or German rule, but they said they had heard rumors that there would be a plebiscite in all this territory in the near future in which the people would be permitted to vote whether they desired to adhere to Russia or Germany. The inhabitants declared such a vote would be overwhelmingly in favor of Germany.

Everywhere the people asked for news of the war and other information of the outside world, saying they did not receive late newspapers and that all intelligence came from the German border through conversations with the German guards, who sometimes gave them German newspapers.

There is no commerce with the rest of Russia by telephone, telegraph or railroad and the inhabitants of villages along the frontier have been existing solely on the products of the farms. They declare that unless commerce is soon revived with Germany they will experience great suffering.

When the correspondent was unable after several hours to see Scharnewsky again, he prepared to depart, but an orderly from the Commissary's office directed him to remain another hour, by which time a high official was expected

Russians Hoist the German Flag Over Soldau; Say Polish Corridor Will Be Returned to Germany

BERLIN, Aug. 15.—Over the Town Hall of Soldau, the first town in the "Polish Corridor" occupied by the Bolsheviki, is flying not the red flag, but the black, white and red emblem of the pre-war German Empire. This in territory which, of course, was allotted to Poland by the Versailles treaty.

When the Bolsheviki entered, the German inhabitants cheered them. The Polish authorities had left and the place of Mayor was seized by a German, who formally greeted the Russian local commandant. According to the correspondent of the Vossische Zeitung, the latter said:

"I vow we won't leave this old German land until it has again been assured to Germany."

In the evening the Russian regimental band gave a concert, playing in addition to its own folk music German military marches. The town is now described as having a festival appearance, decorated with flowers and German flags.

The self-appointed German delegation also went to General Rewa, commanding the Twelfth Russian Division, states the correspondent of the Lokal-Anzeiger, who replied to an address of welcome:

"I swear this district shall never again be Polish. We only recognize the frontier of 1914."

Asked if hostilities would cease with the Minsk negotiations, the General replied:

"We have received no orders to cease and everything is favorable for the advance on Warsaw. How far we shall advance into the Polish corridor is the affair of the army chiefs, but we have received orders to treat Posen as German territory and therefore shall not enter it."

Another General, the commander of the Fourth Army, speaking to the correspondent of the Vossische Zeitung said:

"The Fourth Army is advancing into the Polish corridor and will only leave when it is occupied by the Germans."

The new Mayor has been charged with the task of appointing a Municipal Executive with the condition attached that no Pole can be a member.

The correspondent of the Lokal-Anzeiger says it is not known whether this is the policy of Moscow or only of the Russian General. In any event it is perhaps unnecessary to point out that it constitutes a challenge to the Versailles Treaty.

MOVEMENT BEGUN TO OUST PILSUDSKI

HIS SPEECH AROUSES POLES

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, Aug. 14.—In Posen a new Government has been formed under the leadership of Roman Dmowski, leader of the National Democrats, with the object of overthrowing the Pilsudski Government and "organizing the country."

In this country, where the press is rigorously censored and there is no Parliament, rumor is the chief source of information, and rumor has been busy for some days past with the news of this new Government. But matters have been brought to head by a speech which Dmowski delivered on Thursday at Posen, in which he called for certain changes and reforms, which left no doubt as to his ultimate political aim.

Political tongues are wagging furiously over his prospects and what his success would mean. The army as a whole is devoted to Pilsudski, the present chief of the State, but the Posen regiments, which are among the finest in the Polish Army, might declare for Dmowski. It is also hinted that Dmowski is being backed by a certain allied country which sees in him a chance of continuing the war against the Soviets, while others say that his chance can come only if excessive terms are imposed by the Soviets and a reaction follows.

Certainly should Dmowski succeed in overthrowing the Government, Poland would have little prospect of peace, either external or internal, for Roman Dmowski is a reactionary. He stands for a great Poland and would never submit peacefully to the terms, which are likely to be imposed at Minsk. He is a journalist-politician, some 55 years of age. He was long leader of the Polish Party in the Russian Duma and was long in favor of the Rusian solution of the Polish question. He never held office as Minister in resurrected Poland, but as leader of the National Democrats, which party represents the middle class and reactionary tendencies, he exercised a powerful influence here and at Paris, where he was one of the Polish peace delegates. His chief political tenet otherwise is bitter opposition to Pilsudski.

It is impossible to gauge the strength of any current in Poland situated as the country is at this moment, but the people are becoming very excited about the new Posen movement and it may yet have far-reaching consequences, if it does not fizzle out.

Still Confidence That Frontal Attack or Outflanking Move Will Be Countered.

WARSAW, Aug. 14.—Today seems to mark a new epoch here, as Warsaw may be said to have gathered itself up for the first time for its great fight. The knowledge of the army's retreat upon its defensive positions around Warsaw became general yesterday and overnight people seem to have vanished. All diplomatic representatives, except the Italian, Danish and Lettish, have gone, leaving only liaison oficers behind them. The Italian Minister will probably stay on, even though the Bolsheviki enter the city, as will also the Papal Nuncio, which ought to give intense satisfaction to Catholic Poland.

The English Minister, Sir Horace Rumbold, has gone to Posen, as have all the others, and this is taken to mean the Government will go there should it have to evacute the capital. The editorial offices of the Journal de Pologne, a French paper appearing here, has also been transferred to Posen, the last Warsaw edition having appeared tonight. All the centres where people most foregathered, the hotels, cafés, the Stock Exchange and telegraph office, are all strangely quiet and deserted.

But there is one old man who still keeps his post. He is a tottering old man who wears a medal and a blue cap with a white Polish eagle, which denotes he is a veteran of 1863, the year when Poland raised a rebellion against Russia. He still appears daily in the café and when any high Polish officer passes he rises somewhat feebly, tries to click his heels and raises his hand to his cap. I imagine he will still display his medal and the white eagle of Poland should the Red ruin fall upon his city.

Otherwise the people are showing a decided tendency to pull out, although with the departure of the crowded diplomatic train tonight all now remaining will have to fend for themselves.

Swarming Across the Vistula.

Though the popular resorts are deserted, the Alexandrovski Bridge across the Vistula is more crowded than ever and displays an even more varied medley. A curious note was struck today at the sight of a large harvest cart piled high with boxes on the top of which sat a nun with great composure, evidently the forerunner of some convent being evacuated. The congestion, however, is terrible and at points debouching on to and off the bridge, the police and soldiers on the point of duty are worked until their nerves and tempers give way.

As one watches all this moving countryside swarming across the bridge, and thinks of how the Polish Army is back upon the Vistula line, one reflects somewhat grimly that Polish imperialism, too, has its wesward movement, for the

Polish Peace Parley at Minsk Is Now Believed to be On

WARSAW, Aug. 14 (Associated Press).—The Polish peace delegates who will confer with the Russian Soviet representatives at Minsk were expected to arrive in that city late tonight. In diplomatic circles it was said that if the schedule was followed the delegates would get some sleep and would be prepared to open negotiations tomorrow (Sunday).

The Americans accompanying the Polish peace delegates will inquire concerning the fate of Captain Arthur Kelly of Richmond, Va., and Captain Merion Cooper of Jacksonville, Fla., members of the Kosciuszko Aerial Squadron, who have been missing more than a month.

WARSAW, Aug. 15 (Associated Press).—An official communication issued by the War Office today says:

"In the northern section a severe struggle is developing. Near Plonsk our detachments have dispersed three Bolshevist regiments, taking 230 prisoners and machine guns. A lancer regiment in an attack completely annihilated a Bolshevist detachment. The action is developing satisfactorily.

"We have retaken Novo-Miasto and Smardezwo.

"East of Warsaw the 3d and 16th Soviet Armies, having received orders to storm the capital, began attacks toward Radzymen, which was taken, only to be recaptured by an attack of the White Ruthenian Division. A desperate struggle continues in this sector."

The Bolsheviki launched their first attack against Warsaw's defenses yesterday, but were repulsed. Early in the morning, after light artillery preparation, they attempted to break through the Polish lines in the region of Radzymin. The Poles not only killed many who neared the barbed wire entanglements, but took some prisoners.

Poles Drive Through Foe's Line.

In the region east of Cholm, forty miles east of Lublin, the Poles broke through the enemy line at Ignatow and pursued the Bolsheviki to the right bank of the Bug, according to an official statement on the fighting issued last night. The Poles occupied Dorouhusk and Swieze-Rubieszow.

Polish cavalry, strengthened by infantry detachments, is fighting in the region of Radziechow and Chatojow, west of the Styr River, with General Budenny's Bolshevist cavalry, which outnumbers the Poles, this statement says.

The Polish front command, for the purpose of shortening the line of defense, has ordered a retreat to the Bug River and in so doing the Poles have again evacuated Brody. On the Southern wing, the statement declares, all attacks along the Stripa were repulsed by the Poles.

Soon after midnight yesterday morning artillery firing to the north was distinctly heard in the city and military observers said it was in the region of Radzymin. Wounded from the front now are being brought to Praga, the section of Warsaw lying on the left bank of the Vistula, in carts and automobiles. At Praga the wounded are transferred to street cars with two or three trailers, which haul them through Warsaw on the way to hospitals in the rear.

Polish Battle Line Shortened by Half.

AT THE FRONT WITH THE POLISH ARMY, Aug. 14 (Associated Press).—The Polish-Bolshevist battle line today covered about 700 kilometers, extending from the Rumanian frontier northwest to the Prussian border. When the Bolshevist offensive began five weeks ago the line was approximately twice 700 kilometers and was quite irregular.

The front stretches diagonally across Poland. It is slightly bowed in the centre, with a buckle in the Warsaw sector, where the Bolsheviki stand just on the other side of the capital's protectors. Slight gains for the Bolsheviki were announced today in the extreme north on the Russian right, and in the south, where the Poles are readjusting their lines for the purpose of shortening the front.

Near the Prussian frontier, where Bolshevist cavalry is endeavoring to reach the Vistula, the Poles evacuated Rypin, but to the southeast, near the Warsaw front, local Polish successes are reported. Plonsk, Novo-Missto and Nasielsk, to the northwest of Warsaw, for which there has been fighting, now are in the hands of the Poles. At last accounts the Poles also held Radzymin, to the northeast of Warsaw, after it had changed hands several times. Southeast of Warsaw the line is now passing beyond Lublin to the Bug River to Sokal to Kamionka-Strumilovo to Bialykamien and along the Stripa.

The Bolsheviki are striving to reach the Vistula River, apparently to carry out their encircling movement upon Warsaw from the south. Their objective is Lemberg, from which they are distant at the nearest point about thirty miles in a rough country.

It is reported that General Budenny, the Bolshevist cavalry commander, brought up several divisions of fresh cavalry recently to participate in the Lemberg drive and the operations in the region of Lublin. The Bolsheviki are also reported to be reinforcing northeast of the Vieprz River, chiefly with infantry.

The Bolsheviki threw 77mm. shells at intervals during the day from what observers believe is a German gun. Machine guns rattled, and occasionally there was rifle fire.

To the northwest, nearer Warsaw, the Bolsheviki are using shells which sound like 155s. There is more artillery activity in the Warsaw sector than in any other part of the line, owing to the fact that the Reds have been halted before the city and apparently are bringing up several big guns.

At various places today the Bolsheviki used airplanes to direct their artillery fire, which was effective at times. Observers expressed the opinion that Germans apparently were supervising most of the artillery work.

Seek to Destroy Polish Armies.

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—The news from Warsaw and from the whole field of operations is of the most ominous character. It leaves no room for doubt that the Russians are executing a great plan of campaign, directed not only to the capture of the capital, but to the destruction of the Polish armies.

They are making a concentric attack. The most dangerous tentacles are those which are composed by the northern armies, advancing at the moment between the East Prussian frontier and the River Vistula, that is to say, west of Warsaw, which, with its surroundings, is becoming for the sixth time in its history since the eighteenth century, a vast battlefield.

According to one reliable report, they have already reached Plock on the Vistula northeast of Warsaw and half way between Thorn and the capital and into the Polish corridor. Squadrons of cavalry are slowly feeling their way and protecting the rear of the advancing infantry further south, whose immediate purpose is to seize the line of the Vistula and cut the railway which, to the south of the river, links Warsaw and Thorn and Danzig.

The threatened fate of the capital is clearly indicated by the fact that all the foreign ministers left today, the personnel having departed some days ago. Notwithstanding this suggestive migration, however, the new military governor of Warsaw takes a hopeful outlook, according to the correspondent of Vossische Zeitung, of the imminent battle of decision. He declared:

"Warsaw's defensive line is in the north and east fully completed, and I am of the opinion that the enemy's might will be broken on this line. The thunder of guns now about to begin against this line will not frighten the inhabitants of Warsaw. It is possible that if he is not in adequate possession of heavy artillery the enemy will seek to surround the city, but even against this eventuality Warsaw is armed."

Away in the north the Bolsheviki have occupied Soldau, the first place of real importance they have yet reached in the Polish corridor and therefore on territory which before the Versailles Treaty was within the German Empire. Its capture was only effected after a fierce battle thus described by an eyewitness, the correspondent of the National Zeitung:

"At 11 in the morning the Russians reached the periphery of Soldau and opened fire on the town. The bombardment lasted until 6 in the evening. The Bolsheviki advanced in open order against the Polish positions. A Polish armored train which had taken part in the battle during the morning was compelled to withdraw from the Russian artillery fire. The Polish defense immediately outside the town was led by a French Major.

"Throughout the afternoon the battle raged with changing success, but in the early evening the Russians brought reinforcements from Mlawa, where two divisions are concentrated with a full brigade. They surrounded the Polish positions and the defenders had to cut their way out. The Russians continued to shell Soldau, and the church and market house were hit.

"In the evening a French General appeared on the frontier and told the German post that he wished to surrender, but demanded to be treated as a neutral because he was a member of the Interallied Commission. This request was flatly refused by the Post."

The correspondent adds that in Mlawa the Russians have already carried out socialistic measures. Several business establishments were sold. Upon large estates from which the owners fled crops have been reaped and divided by the Bolsheviki among the peasants.

Warsaw Fort Under Bombardment.

Copyright, 1920, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

PARIS, Aug. 15.—German-manned Bolshevist batteries, emplaced on the hillside above Modlin, are bombarding Novo Georgievsk Fortress, which is the most formidable defense of Warsaw. The fall of Novo Georgeievsk which is rumored to be imminent, would leave only Fort Alexandrovsk defending Warsaw from the North.

PARIS, Aug. 15 (Associated Press).—Warsaw was still holding tonight, as far as is known, but the battle raging under the walls of the city is increasing in violence. From the vague and scant news reaching Paris the Poles are making a good fight, but seemingly all they can hope for is to delay the fatal hour of the city's fall. The Reds are continuing to advance and have reached a point less than ten miles from the capital.

Military opinion in Paris does not visualize how any counter-offensive operations are possible in the Warsaw region now, except in the event, which is considered most improbable, of the Poles having been able, notwithstanding the advance of the Red cavalry toward Thorn, to keep or to send northward forces capable of maneuvering on the right flank of the Reds' column which is operating southward along the Narew River.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The Bolshevist official communication of Saturday received here today says:

"In the direction of Plonsk we have occupied Serock (about thirty miles north of Warsaw). In the direction of Nova Georgievsk we have advanced to the line of Narspolsk-Serock.

"In the direction of Warsaw we have occupied the town of Novo Minsk (twenty miles east of the capital on the railway). Our troops are engaged with the enemy to the east of the town of Cholm."

WRANGEL REBUKED DENIKIN FOR FAILURE

Told Him in Letter of Resignation, Now Made Public, Why His Army Collapsed.

COULD HAVE SAVED KOLCHAK

But Lacked Military Prudence, Was "Poisoned by Ambition" and Was Surrounded by Unworthy Aids.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 (Associated Press).—The Russian Volunteer Army, commanded by General Denikin, collapsed because of the failure of its commander to take adequate military precautions, according to charges contained in a letter written to Denikin by General Baron Peter Wrangel, now recognized by France as foremost anti-Bolshevist leader in Russia.

A copy of the letter reached official circles here today and makes public for the first time the inside story of the break between Wrangel and Denikin. It also throws light on the volunteer forces which marched to the very gates of Moscow only to be hurled back and scattered beyond reorganization. And it tells, too, of the destruction of Admiral Kolchak's forces and charges that Denikin failed to heed warnings that might have prevented that disaster.

Written upon the occasion of General Wrangel's retirement from Russia in April at the request of Denikin, the letter said:

"Having tasted power, poisoned by ambition and surrounded by dishonest hangers-on, the struggle so brilliantly started by you and so unworthily lost in coming to an end. Into it have been thrown hundreds of thousands of Russia's best sons, innocent of your mistakes. Their salvation and the salvation of their families depend on the help of our allies who have promised you that help.

"Finish the work that you have commenced and if my staying in our country in any way hinders you in its defense and saving those who trusted you, I will leave it without a moment's hesitation.

Believed in Him at First.

"I joined the volunteer army and voluntarily placed myself under your orders, believing at that time that you were an honest soldier, placing the welfare of your country above personal interests and ready to lay down your life to save the fatherland.

"On Jan. 6, 1919, I proposed to you that you should move my army to help Admiral Kolchak. My proposal was rejected. * * * What I foretold was prophetically fulfilled.

"The fortune of war smiled on you. Your honor grew and with it your ambition increased. Coinciding with a whole series of our victories, your order subordinating yourself to Admiral Kolchak would appear to prove the opposite. History will showto what extent this step of yours was voluntary.

"You wrote that you subordinated yourself to Kolchak. But ambition, intoxicated by success, was not able to carry out this sacrifice. Kolchak, left to himself, was defeated and started to retire eastward. Treacherously abandoned by us, his troops were annihilated.

"Even when the volunteers were victoriously advancing to the heart of Russia and your ears seemed to hear the pealing of the Moscow bells, alarm crept into the heart of many of your subordinates. An army taught to loot and drink and the example of whose leaders demoralized the troops—such an army could not save Russia.

"Not having an organized rear, not having prepared a single fortified position behind the lines and not a single point of resistance, retreating in a territory where the civil population had learned to hate it, the Volunteer Army, having begun its retreat, fell back and nothing could stop it.

"As the enemy's successes developed and the poorness of our strategy and policy became evident, Russian society commenced to see things clearly. Louder and louder became the voices demanding the dismissal of several persons of the higher command, the knowledge of whose actions became public.

"In the desire of old army chiefs, the army and society to see me at the head of troops acting in the main theatre, you saw a new danger for yourself. Even before the occupation of Tsaritsin, when I was Chief of Staff of my army, General Yousefovitch suggested concentrating a large mounted force in the Kharkoff region under my command. At this meeting you expressed an opinion, worthy of you, that we were trying to be the first in Moscow.

"In your failure you do not see your mistakes but only the inconstancy of the mob looked for a new god.

"Greater became the alarm and discontent. Society and the army understood perfectly the causes of our defeat and the complaints against the higher command became more and more persistent. We saw how your power lessened and authority slipped through your fingers. Clinging to it in absolute blindness, you set out in search for treachery and mutiny.

"Two agents, the Kartashef brothers of the Intelligence Department of your staff, conducted a special campaign against me among the Cossacks and spread reports of my intention of bringing about an upheaval with the aid of 'monarchists' and of my desire to take 'German orientation.'

"The reports of my intention to create an upheaval energetically spread by your staff even went abroad. In Novorossisk I was visited by Mr. Mackinder who had arrived from England with wide powers and who informed me that he had received a telegram from the British Government requesting information as to the veracity of rumors of this proposed upheaval. At the same time Mr. Mackinder ventured the suggestion that these rumors might find their cause in the unfriendly relations existing between us and which were very widely known. He asked me whether I found it possible to be perfectly frank with him on the subject. I replied that 'I could not admit the thought of any action against my chief, under whose orders I had voluntarily placed myself,' and authorized him to inform his Government that my past military service was sufficient guarantee for what I said.

"In my report dated Dec. 31, I informed you in full of the conversation with Mr. Mackinder, and this document which I placed in your hands should have been, it seems, sufficient to disarm your fears. You did not even reply to me.

"Not seeing the possibility of being able to help in the defense of our country, having lost confidence in its leaders whom I respected and under whose orders I voluntarily placed myself, I resigned and went to the Crimea."

POLES GO FORWARD IN GOOD SPIRITS

Copyright, 1920, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

WARSAW, Aug. 15.—I have just returned to Warsaw after several days along the front, northeast, north and northwest of the Polish capital.

All signs of disorder have disappeared. In every indication a strong hand is directing affairs. Loaded wagon supply trains are on all roads. Civilians, including women, are digging trenches. Wire entanglements are everywhere. Troops, tired by the long retreat, in the majority of cases now are rested and re-entering the line in good spirits. Generals everywhere are visiting and encouraging the troops through personal example and intimate conversations.

I saw Premier Witos in the front line. Troops are marching to the front singing. The morale of the Polish troops is good.

Lloyd George Informed They Will Not Be Changed Because of French Hostility.

LONDON, Monday, Aug. 16.—The Daily Chronicle's political correspondent says Lloyd George, who has been spending the week end in the country, will attend the House of Commons today and make a further statement on the Russo-Polish situation.

Kameneff, Chief of the Soviet delegation in London, has sent him a communication saying:

"Notwithstanding the hostile acts of the French Government, which is allied with Poland—acts which make the situation of the Soviet Government more difficult and are calculated to prevent the holding of a peace conference—the Soviet Government does not consider it necessary to alter the conditions of the armistice and of the peace preliminaries with Poland which were communicated to the British Government and to the British people."

It is hoped that news of the negotiations at Minsk may be available for the session of the House.

VIENNA, Aug. 13 (via Geneva, Aug. 14).—I learn from an official Polish source in Vienna that the Polish Government, though sending delegates to Minsk, will refuse disarmament as demanded by the Russians.

Rather than accept such armistice terms, which would destroy Polish independence, the Poles will fight to the bitter end and confidently hope that the Warsaw battle now beginning will mean the turning point, like the Marne miracle.

RIDICULES AMERICAN NOTE.

Soviet Organ Here Calls It Destructive of International Relations.

The American note on Russia and the Soviets is ridiculed in the publication Soviet Russia, of New York, which describes itself as the "official organ" of the self-styled "Russian Soviet Government Bureau" here. After declaring that the note puts this country in opposition to England, Japan and Italy, and charging that chaos has been created by mishandling of Russian relations by the Entente, the article continues:

"If the policy of the American note should prevail as the policy of the Allies there would be no hope of peace in Europe. * * * The European masses will make peace in spite of the insatiable imperialistic ambitions of their own rulers and in spite of any interference by the American Government. * * *

"The domestic affairs of the Russian people are no concern of the Government of the United States, and we do not desire to enter into any controversy with American officials upon matters concerning which they are so lamentably ill informed. * * * The principle advanced in the Amercan note, if generally acted upon, would be destructive of all international relations."

KEMAL AND SOVIETS REACH AN AGREEMENT

Moscow Wireless Tells of Successful Negotiations, but Does Not Reveal Subject.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 14.—George Tchitcherin, Russian Bolshevist Foreign Minister, has sent a wireless message to Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist leader, announcing the arrival at Moscow of Nationalist delegates. M. Tchitcherin says the Nationalists "have agreed in principle with the Soviets."

Mustapha Kemal has also received a message from Bekim Samy Bey, at Moscow, stating a provisional agreement has been reached with the Soviets.

It is not known exactly what the negotiations between the Turkish Nationalists and the Soviets concern, except that the words "Armenian boundaries" are mentioned in an intercepted message sent by Mustapha Kemal to M. Tchitcherin.

Constantinople advices of July 24 announced that considerable Russian Bolshevist forces were overrunning Armenia, apparently with the purpose of joining the Turkish Nationalists.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 14.—A special dispatch to the National Tidende from Helsingfors says that according to the Isvestia, the Moscow Soviet organ, the Bolsheviki have issued a decree ordering that hostilities against the Polish population be carried on through organized workmen. The Russians have also ordered remorseless terror against wealthy agriculturists in occupied districts and against all Poles who in any way have fought against the Bolsheviki.

All agricultural produce is to be confiscated. The establishment of the Russian proletariat on the land is to be furthered by all means, Russian colonies being started everywhere. The Polish population is to be forced to surrender all arms and Red troops are to garrison all towns and villages till quiet is restored.

A special committee has been appointed in order to carry out the speedy and effective colonization of Poland.

to arrive. The correspondent ignored the order.

The villages about Kolno appeared prosperous enough, although the peasants were ragged, barefooted and despondent, and presented a poverty-stricken appearance. In the fields were fat cattle tended by girls, while boys and women were harvesting wheat. Along the road were many iron crucifixes at wayside shrines, at which the pious populace worshipped.

In Kolno there is less evidence of the recent war than in the towns of East Prussia, where broken statues, scarred houses and ruins of blown-up buildings still bear witness to the damage done by the Russian invaders in 1914.

Threatens England and France.

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—There has been placed at my disposal an interesting interview which a neutral correspondent with the Russian forces had with General Rewa, commander of the Twelfth Division. After stating that the time was coming when Russia would settle accounts with France and England if they failed to recognize the Soviet Government and make peace, the General said:

"Lloyd George and Millerand are just playing with Russia. They don't really want to make peace. So long as Wrangel receives munitions from England and moral support from France we cannot believe in the Entente's sinerity to have peace. We Bolsheviki believe we are bringing liberty to Western Europe. That is why we shall make peace only with Soviet Poland."

FRENCH NOTE HELPS RUSSIAN SITUATION

His Suggested Recognition of Soviets Would Be Opposed by All Proper Means by Two Other Powers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Nothing could have had a better effect upon the Polish-Russian situation than the publication of the cordial response of the French Government, the text of which was printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES this morning, to Secretary Colby's note of Aug. 10. The French note is doubly appreciated here because the French Government did not wait until the Colby declaration had been communicated to it officially, but lost no time in notifying the United States and the world that France was in accord with the American doctrine enunciated by Mr. Colby.

It was not until today that the official text of the French communication was delivered to the State Department. This official text was not made public. The faverable manner in which the American declaration has been received by the French Government and the French press has done much to eradicate the rather painful effect produced in Washington by the action of the French Foreign Office in giving to the newspapers a supposed communique of this Government which set forth an entirely erroneous view of the American position toward Russia and Poland.

In the official explanation of the American attitude by Secretary Colby and the hearty indorsement of that attitude by France is found new hope for Franco-American co-operation in the common desire of the powers to save Poland and check the sweep of Bolshevism.

The danger spot in the critical situation arising from the Polish defeat by the Russian armies is the attitude of British labor, according to opinion here. Every proper step will be taken by the United States to convince Mr. Lloyd George that a surrender to the Laborites in their demand that the Red Govermnnet at Moscow be formally recognized by Great Britain would be extremely unwise. The first and, it is believed, the best step has already been taken in the American declaration of policy which has brought from France an enthusiastic indorsement.

Agreed Against Sending Troops.

There is no disposition here to find fault with the insistence of the British Labor Party that British forces should not be sent into Russia. That is in accord with the position of the United States. It is also in accord with the position of Lloyd George as explained by him in his speech in the House of Commons last Tuesday. He gave assurances then that his ministry did not contemplate putting troops into Poland or into Russian territory. He said plainly that if Soviet Russia imposed terms upon Poland that would destroy the independence of that country, the British Government would furnish military supplies and send military advisers to Poland, impose economic pressure upon Soviet Russia and would feel free to support Wrangel in South Russia.

An examination of the French, British and American positions shows that these three former associates in the world war are not so far apart as has been supposed. If Lloyd George should refuse to give formal recognition to the Soviet Government at Moscow the chief obstacle to an agreement for a common policy toward Russia and Poland would be removed. Lloyd George informed the House of Commons that in the event of Soviet determination to crush Poland "we certainly should appeal to America." With France anxious to bring this country into any arrangements for action in the situation, the assurance of the British Prime Minister shows that the chance of the European powers consulting the Washington Government before making any move that might precipitate an international crisis is excellent.

There is a similarity between the French and British positions with regard to dealing with the Wrangel Government of South Russia. France has already recognized General Wrangel's Government as de facto authority, but has indicated that it will not immediately send material aid or troops. Lloyd George proposes to lend support to Wrangel also in case the Soviets insist upon wiping out Polish independence.

The United States has not recognized the Wrangel Government and has no intention of doing so. But there is sympathy instead of criticism for the French recognition of the Government of South Russia. The United States Government hopes that General Wrangel will succeed in his effort to overthrow Bolshevist rule and bring about the formation of a central Russian Government that will reunite those parts of the Czar's domain whose separation from the empire was not arranged by the treaty of Versailles. So France's recognition of the Wrangel Government, and Great Britain's intention to aid Wrangel with supplies and the imposition of a blockade against Soviet Russia, in case it is necessary to save Poland, are not out of harmony with the aims, at least, of this country.

In the opinion of the Washington officials most concerned, the main efforts of the powers should be directed to making known to the Russian people that there is no intention on the part of the powers to destroy Russian nationality. That was the primary purpose of Secretary Colby's note of Aug. 10. It is contended here that if this purpose is firmly impressed upon the Russian people, and the powers do nothing that will give a contrary impression, Bolshevist rule will begin to fail. All the information in the possession of this Government goes to show that the Bolsheviki are a very small minority of the population of Russia—Lloyd George quoted Bertrand Russell on Tuesday as saying that they numbered only 600,000 in a population of 120,000,000—and the belief prevails in Administration quarters that if the vast majority of Russians can be convinced that their country is in no danger from outside nations they will assert themselves against their Bolshevist masters, whose difficulties are increasing and will continue to increase when Winter comes.

What steps the State Department has taken to get Secretary Colby's declaration of policy before the Russian people is something that officials decline to discuss. It is intimated, however, that this phase of the game that is being played has not been overlooked. The difficulty lies in the fact that the Moscow Government, in spite of its professions of democracy, controls the press in Soviet territory and will not permit the publication of anything in any way critical of Bolshevism. It is felt here that if it could be shown that the publication of the American note in Russia was having the effect of convincing the people it reached, the other powers would be willing to give a trial to the American plan.

GERMAN AIRMEN SPY FOR RUSSIANS

Silesian Workmen Hold Up French Troop Trains Till Menaced with Machine Guns.

PARIS, Aug. 15 (Associated Press).—A German aerial service has been organized, according to advices to the French Foreign Office, to supply the Russian Soviet staffs with all military information concerning Polish strategic movements that German pilots can perceive in their flights from East Prussia over Polish territory. The Foreign Office said today that the entire arrangement was outlined in a document which fell into the hands of the Polish authorities.

The Russian forces are also being supplied with enormous amounts of munitions and food across the East Prussian frontier, according to reports to the Foreign Office from the French Military Mission in Warsaw.

Workmen of Ratibor, Silesia, forty-four miles southeast of Oppeln, yesterday stopped and sidetracked a French troop train, according to the Oberschlesische Zeitung today. Three other troop trains were stopped elsewhere, the newspaper says.

LONDON, Monday, Aug. 16.—Workmen in Upper Silesia regard France's recognition of General Wrangel, the anti-Bolshevist leader in South Russia, as equivalent to a declaration of war on Russia, and accordingly will refuse to recognize the French representatives on the Plebiscite Commission, contending they are neutral, says The Daily Mail's Kattowitz correspondent. Six trains of French troops from the Teschen area, the correspondent states, have been held up at Gleiwitz by workmen who feared they were going to help Poland. The French commander, he adds, then issued an ultimatum demanding a clear passage or he would use machine guns. The workmen are said to be armed.

The Belgian Government has forbidden the shipment of a quantity of ammunition which has arrived at Antwerp from France, destined for General Wrangel, according to an Antwerp dispatch to The Daily Mail. This action, it is believed, was due to announcement by Belgian workmen that they would refuse to handle the shipment.

SCHNEIDEMUHL, Prussia, Aug. 15.—An Entente provision train on the way to Poland, manned by a mixed crew of English and French, was detained for several hours in the freight yard here pending an investigation. News of the pending arrival of the train had spread, and, although the authorities barred the way to the station, several thousand persons assembled and demanded that the train be halted.

Aside from four machine guns and some soldiers' clothing, no war supplies were found on the train, and the local Workers' Council allowed it to proceed. During the investigation there were fisticuffs between Germans and the train crew. It is officially declared these clashes were not serious.

Schneidemuhl is the junction point for the railway running from Danzig to Thron and Posen.

PROHIBITION FIGHT OPENS IN SCOTLAND

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—American prohibition orators and "Pussyfoot" Johnson himself will play a prominent part in the great fight which begins tomorrow to make Scotland dry on the installment plan.

Under an act of Parliament passed some years ago, the vote may be taken this year in local areas to decide whether there is to be any interference with the liquor trade. Each district can make one of three choices. It can go absolutely dry, it can decree a reduction in the number of licenses, or it can stay as it is.

Before voting on these alternatives takes place, however, 10 per cent. of the citizens must declare in favor of a poll, and the preliminary contest, which begins tomorrow and continues until Sept. 30, is concerned with obtaining this necessary number of signatures. There is no doubt that in many areas they will be forthcoming, and dry advocates believe they will also succeed in making a number of districts absolutely arid. Brewers and distillers, however, are putting up a strong fight to have trained a corps of ex-officers in the art of public speaking and answering objectors, so as to be able to offset the prohibitionists' attack.

WARSAW PREPARED TO MEET CRISIS

army is safely back upon the Vistula and almost everywhere within prepared positions. Here it awaits development of the Bolshevist plan, which may be either a frontal attack upon the bridgehead or an outflanking movement across the Vistula. It is believed now a frontal attack can be shattered if the army is well led, and this shattering will be followed by a Polish advance, which offensive, it is believed, will be inevitably embarked upon should the Russian Army attempt an outflanking movement.

The defensive works have been largely dug by the Posen regiments which formerly were a part of the German army, and they are said to be splendidly executed and well wired. Much will depend upon the leadership. It is recognized as a pity that greater co-operation and good will was not shown toward the French officers who were attached to the various commands, but the army is the only thing which Warsaw can depend upon until the cessation of hostilities, so we must all hope for the best what time we also make plans for escape, for we live in a very confused, threatened, drab and deserted city.

The Polish delegation to arrange the armistice and peace terms left here this morning to meet the Russian parliamentaries on the Brest-Litovsk road. It consists of four military members headed by General Kulinski, six members of the Diet and three experts. The delegation being led by Dombski, Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs; the usual retinue of advisers and typists and what not, travels with the delegation, while a full courier service between Minsk and Warsaw will be installed.

But, while this is really the most important item of the news, public attention is perhaps more concentrated on the military doings at the bridgehead of Novo Georgievsk and Warsaw. Large numbers of troops and transports were passing along the streets yesterday. They were mostly cavalry, making for the Alexandrovski Bridge, by means of which one passes over to the front.

They were a fine bod - of men, finely mounted, but the eye was caught mostly by a woman rider marching with lancers. Bareheaded, she rode her horse magnificently, sitting astride and dresesed in a khaki blouse and dark green skirt. Her only arm was a heavy service revolver.

In front of the great Russian Cathedral, too, busy scenes were enacted tonight. Troops were bivouacked in the big open space, their rifles stacked and each soldier with a trench hat, the greatest number so equipped that I have seen here yet. Like all Polish soldiers, these sang in groups their strange Polish melodies, and left one wondering whether any other soldiers in the world sing so beautifully such beautiful songs as theirs. Above them rose the great Byzantine domes of the Cathedral, while from behind the main entrance came the dim light which lit up weirdly the sacred picture above the doorway. But these soldiers are in position and those great domes may be the objectives of Bolshevist artillery, for Warsaw's crisis is upon her.

American Relief Workers Stay.

WARSAW, Aug. 14.—Representatives of the American Legation, welfare organizations and missions at a meeting tonight decided to remain in Warsaw until the Government gives the word to evacuate. Meantime all preparations are being made to leave the city at a moment's notice.

Some of the Americans express confidence that the Poles will be able to prevent the Bolsheviki from taking the capital, now that the Polish forces are fighting with their backs against the wall on their own ground. The British and French Ministers have departed, but the military missions remain in Warsaw.

Gold and silver are being taken from the city owing to the rapid gain of the Bolsheviki in the last few days in their movement to encircle the capital. The Government National Bank is removing to Cracow, 158 miles south-southwest of Warsaw.

BRITISH LABOR MEN GO TO WIN FRENCH

BRITISH OPINION IS CALM

Garvin Characterizes Labor Threat as "Bombastic, Hysterical and Ridiculous."

LONDON, Aug. 14.—William Adamson, Labor Member of Parliament, and Harry Gosling, leader of the transport workers, have been chosen by the Council of Action of the triple alliance of labor to go to Paris and consult leaders of French labor and the chiefs of the French Socialist parties relative to their attitude toward Russia.

The council has called on trade unionists throughout Great Britain to supply information regarding munitions upon which they are now working or transporting.

The purpose of the Council of Action in sending representatives to Paris is to secure a common understanding between the labor forces of France and Great Britain with a view to co-operating to prevent war against Russia.

London Opinion Unruffled.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—English opinion has refused to be ruffled unduly by labor's spectacular performance in setting up a Council of Action. It recognizes clearly that the principle of the thing is all wrong, but Englishmen are inherently loath to dwell on the principle of anything, and they cannot help seeing the humor of labor's vehemently demanding what they already had.

A cartoonist this afternoon draws Lloyd George shouting, "We must not fight," and adds the line, "Why doesn't some friendly soul point out that they are all on the same side?"

That is how it strikes the average Englishman and he refuses to be worried by talk of an actual British Soviet being already in existence.

Lloyd's News, indeed, believes that in many industrial centres local Councils of Action are being established and expresses the opinion that extremists like Robert Williams and Smillie will see that this machinery once set up will be kept in order permanently, but it states its inquiries among the rank and file show neither individual members nor executives are going to be led away so easily over other schemes of the extremists as they have been on the particular issue of war with Russia.

The Observer also points out the impossibility of constitutional labor leaders who see their own advent to power by no means an impossibility assenting to a method of coercing the Government that would inevitably be used against themselves, and J. L. Garvin in denouncing the Council of Action as "bombastic, hysterical and ridiculous," says:

"Men like Thomas and Clynes ought to remember that arbitrary talk about desperate remedies sets a double-edged precedent and cuts two ways. They know perfectly well that the Prime Minister and the vast majority of the nation are as thoroughly against war with Russia as they are. It is the nation's will and not their will that is going to settle this matter. They are like a mob of excited passengers shouting to the man at the wheel. He is steering them out between two dangers where they see only one."

J. H. Thomas himself, in his regular weekly contribution to The Sunday Times, naturally defends the Labor Party's move, but reveals how curiously tangled his motives are at any rate. He begins by acknowledging that if Poland's legitimate territory is attacked, England is bound to give her every assistance in her power, but he points out that war with Russia would bring such financial and military difficulties as might in the present temper of the workers lead to a social upheaval. He turns off to criticise the French policy and Winston Churchill's hint of co-operation with Germany against the Bolsheviki, and goes on to admit that labor's direct action threat is "nothing less than a challenge to the Constitution." However, he says:

"In this case I am profoundly satisfied that war against Russia under the existing circumstances, and greatly to assist Poland not to maintain her independence but to carry out an imperialistic policy, would be such a crime—indeed, such a calamity—that almost any action taken to stop it would be justified."

The Premier himself Thomas acquits of militaristic tendencies. "There can be no doubt," he says, "that the Prime Minister is battling with difficulties on the Polish question both internal and external. Listening to him the other night in the House of Commons, I could not help but feel that no one was more anxious for peace." He ends rather lamely with the hope that Lloyd George will realize the nation is sick of war and that the Bolsheviki will "recognize the one great need of the world—peace."

REVEAL GREEK PLOT TO RESEAT CONSTANTINE

Athens Authorities Report Discovery of Details Involving Attack on Venizelos.

ATHENS, Aug. 14.—The newspaper Estia today gives details of the discovery by the authorities of a plot for the restoration of ex-King Constantine, involving the assassination of Premier Venizelos, which the newspaper says has been hatching in Zurich and Athens for the last two months.

A search of the offices of the reactionary newspaper Athenaiki is said to have resulted in the discovery of an announcement of the attempt to assassinate M. Venizelos before the news of the attack on the Premier reached Athens from Paris.

Regarding the death of M. Dragoumis, former Greek Minister to Petrograd, who was shot dead while endeavoring to escape from a military escort, the authorities say it has been ascertained that he insulted the escort and offered resistance.

Most of the Opposition leaders who were arrested after the attempt against Premier Venizelos will be court-martialed, it is announced.

PARIS, Aug. 15.—The general condition of Premier Venizelos of Greece, who was attacked by two men and wounded last Thursray, was reported today to be very satisfactory.

THOMPSON ATTACKS MILLER

Declares Ex-Judge Connected with $250,000,000 Corporation.

State Senator George F. Thompson, who is preparing a petition for a contest in the primaries for the Republican nomination for Governor, made a political attack yesterday on the candidacy of ex-Judge Nathan L. Miller of Onondaga, who was recommended as the nominee at the unofficial Republican Convention at Saratoga last month. Senator Thompson says that Judge Miller is attorney and a director in a company proposed as part of a merging corporation, one company of which sells material used on the roads of the State, and that William Hamlin Childs and others "forced a reluctant convention" to name Miller.

"Four of the greatest and most important chemical companies in the country, including the Semet Solvay Company and the Barrett Company, have merged and are about to announce the creation of a $250,000,000 concern," asserted Senator Thompson. "The man recommended by the Republican State Committee for the nomination for Governor is attorney for and one of the Directors of one of these great corporations.

"William Hamlin Childs and Horace Wilkinson, who did heroic work at Saratoga in forcing a reluctant political organization to recommend their candidate, are Directors of the Barrett Company. This company makes and sells 'Tarvia,' used by the State for building roads. The State has been a customer of one of the merging companies.

"It is proper at this time to inquire whether or not the proposed holding up of the announcement of this merger until after the primaries is to determine whether or not the people of the State of New York, by their votes at the primaries, will consent to become the fifth great corporation in this $250,000,000 concern; to determine whether or not they wish to permit a director of one of the merged concerns, Nathan L. Miller, as the State's business manager, to determine the policy of the State in relation to this newly created organization."

Senator Thompson said his petition will be ready for filing today. He announced that his speaking tour throughout the State will begin tomorrow.

Pink Seeks to Run for Congress.

Louis H. Pink, of the Democratic County Committee, Brooklyn, will oppose William F. Geoghan, the organization Democratic candidate for Representative in the Sixth Congressional District. As the time for filing petitions will expire tomorrow, Mr. Pink will appeal to voters to write his name on the ballots. Mr. Pink was formerly a member of the Board of Education and is a director of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, and attorney for the Red Cross and Brooklyn Bureau of Charities.

Old standards have been reexamined and revised in every path of life since the war began. Standard stocks and bonds that for generations sold above par are down in the seventies. # PRESIDENT URGED TO RUSH AID TO POLES

PHYSICAL SUPPORT SOUGHT

Bolsheviki Menacing Civilization, Audience Is Told—Gerard Wins Cheers.

The fall of Warsaw and the situation of the whole Polish Republic threaten civilization and democracy as much as the Germans did in September, 1914, according to speakers who last night addressed 3,000 American citizens of Polish descent who gathered in Carnegie Hall and indorsed the Administration's policy toward the land of their extraction.

After they had been warned that Bolshevist triumph in the Polish field meant the coming of the peril of another world war, the auditors unanimously adopted a resolution commending the President's statement of America's position, but appealing that "material aid" be despatched to Poland as soon as possible. In this connection William Fellowes Morgan, President of the Merchants Association, went a step further—declaring that "we should send some physical support to help those people within that battle area."

Among the speakers were James W. Gerard, ex-Ambassador to Germany; Gaston Liebert, French Consul General, and Samuel M. Vauclain, President of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, Philadelphia.

The demonstration was arranged by the American Committee for Aid to the Republic of Poland, and was timed to coincide with similar meetings held in 800 cities. In response to ecclesiastical proclamation, Poland's plight was set forth at yesterday's services in 900 churches. Colonel Francis Fronczak, Buffalo's Health Commissioner, who headed the committee in charge of the meeting, presided.

Warns of Peril to America.

"It is the desire of this meeting," declared Colonel Fronczak, "to awaken American opinion to a sense of what is going on in Europe, for, although not at our immediate door, it is leading to the United States. The cause for which Poland is bleeding is not here alone. It is a mutual one, and concerns us Americans as fully as England, France and other Continental Powers. Poland is making the vicarious sacrifice of civilization. May your consciences stir you into action. If Polish freedom dies tomorrow, yours will be threatened.

"You read in the papers today that Warsaw is about to fall. If it does, permit me to call your attention again to the proclamation just issued at Warsaw: 'Bolshevist victory on the Vistula threatens all western Europe and a new world war hangs over the world like a storm cloud.' Wake up, Americans. Humanity, right and truth call you. Are you afraid of war? It will come to us as it came to Poland. It is on our very threshold. Not only the future of Poland, but our own future, the future of the United States, is at stake tonight on the Vistula River.

"We should do everything possible, as we are a greater State than all others. We can and should send ammunition, artillery, guns, airplanes, medical supplies, of which we have such great quantities going to waste. Moral aid alone cannot and will not suffice. Moral aid will not buy bread for the starving children and women of Poland. Moral aid will not clothe the naked, rebuild destroyed homes, cure the sick. Material aid is needed to repel the enemy of civilization from Poland. Material aid is needed to till her soil, rebuild her railways and restart her industrially."

Sees Poland as Sacrifice.

Mr. Liebert said that his Government, through Premier Millerand, already had stated that France and America were one in their viewpoint as regards Poland, "but we have got to protect the Western World against the doctrines of Bolshevism, the doctrine of Asiatic barbarity, and Poland is sacrificing herself just now for that great task, which is the protection of humanity."

"I am happy to know," Mr. Liebert continued, "that at this very hour the Chief of Staff of Marshal Foch is in Warsaw. He is there helping with his advice, and it seems that there is a certain similitude between the present situation and the situation in France in September, 1914, when the foe was at the gates of Paris. Let us hope that the battle which is now raging near Warsaw will end for the foe just as the battle of the Marne ended for the Germans."

A great burst of applause greeted the introduction of Mr. Gerard, who began his address by tracing the history of Poland, especially of Polish aid to the establishment of American liberty.

"That old Poland," said Mr. Gerard, "was destroyed through weak kings and corrupt nobles, and the new Poland created by the World War—a country founded on equality and which will endure—is tonight threatened by the wolves of murder racing down from the Russian steppes. They threaten not only Poland, but everything that makes our material and spiritual world. They have banded to destroy civilization, to destroy the family, to destroy religion.

Pays Tribute to the President.

"Our great President, an invalid today because of his labor for humanity, has placed us in this crisis by the side of our old ally, France. He has correctly characterized the Bolsheviki. He tells the world what they mean, what their rule means, and, just as in the great war, all America stands behind the President. The new-born Republic of Poland lives!"

"It has been rightly said that Poland is fighting the fight of civilization," said Mr. Morgan. "It is fighting for the United States as well as it is fighting for the people within its own borders. Therefore it is only proper that we here in this country should do all that we can to help Poland win that fight.

"I must say that when I heard the message which the President sent across the waters to encourage the people in Poland my heart beat faster than it did before. We must send moral aid across the water, but, my friends, we must send something more than moral support. I am not an office holder, and I do not expect to be one, and therefore I can speak my mind, and I say that we should do something more than send messages. We should send some physical support to help those people within that battle area."

The speaker brought his speech to a close at this point. The audience, interpreting his declaration as a call for the sending of troops, arose from orchestra to topmost gallery and cheered for minutes. Mr. Morgan was followed by Mr. Vauclain.

"As Mr. Gerard told you in concluding his address, Poland must live," said Mr. Vauclain, "and I wish to assure you that Poland will live. You need not be afraid of the United States. The United States will stand behind anything which it has said or which it has done.

"Governmental affairs move slowly, but they move or grind to the fineness of the 'mills of the gods.' The Government of the United States is not placing on a placard in every city of the United States what it is going to do, but those who are responsible for the affairs and the obligations of this Government, I have no doubt, are exceedingly busy upon this question.

"The appeal which we are going to send tonight to this Government will have its effect. But more than this appeal, the conscience and the obligations which the officers of our Government feel that they are under will guide us in the proper line. And you need not be afraid of a change in the political status of this country—whether the Government be Democratic or Republican—because when it comes to liberty, life and independence all political ties are forgotten and every American citizen stands for his country, and stands for those who wish to live likewise in liberty and in the rights of their own lives."

Text of the Resolution.

At the close of Mr. Vauclain's address the resolutions were offered to the meeting and passed at once. The document, in part, was as follows:

"We pledge as American citizens to our Government our loyalty and announce our willingness to make every sacrifice to uphold our Government to the furthest limit in its endeavor to preserve the freedom of humanity; that the United States Government, in keeping with the declaration of the Secretary of State, in view of the impossible terms and conditions laid down by the Bolsheviki, extend to Poland further moral and such material aid as will strengthen the position of the Polish Government and make possible the conclusion of an honorable and just peace; and that we announce to the Republic of Poland in its hour of agony and distress our sincere sympathy and heartfelt support, to the end that the Republic of Poland may once more stand forth as the victor for civilization and democracy against the disorders of the East."

In a message regretting his absence Governor Smith declared that "we in America have the deepest sympathy for the people of the Polish Republic. I regard it as important to the safety of Europe that the Republic of Poland should continue as set up at the close of the World War, and I am sure that we as Americans should do everything within our power to preserve this new republic, whose people have stood for liberty and democracy throughout the centuries."

Message from McAdoo.

"The distressing situation of the people of Poland in the great crisis now facing them," wired W. G. McAdoo, "makes a profound appeal to the sympathy and support of the American people. I regret that I cannot voice my own sympathy in person at your meeting Sunday evening, but I hope that as a result of the meeting the largest possible measure of American sympathy may be secured for the people of Poland in their distress."

"Permit me to express my sincere sympathy with the objects of the meeting, and my hope that the struggle of the Polish people for political independence may be successful," was the message of Senator Calder.

Senator Wadsworth wrote: "The American people entertain a deep sympathy for the people of Poland. I earnest hope that our Government and the people will extend to the republic of Poland all possible diplomatic commercial and moral support to the end that the new republic may stand and prosper for the benefit of the Polish people and for the inspiration of all who love liberty under the law. My best wishes for the success of your meeting."

Messages also came from Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby, who expressed regret at not being there, and from Theodore Roosevelt.

POLES MEET IN OTHER CITIES

Gatherings in Chicago, Boston and Elmira Urge Aid by America.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Seventy-five thousand persons of Polish descent took part in fifty-five mass meetings throughout Chicago today, at which resolutions were adopted condemning Bolshevism, calling attention to alleged Bolshevist propaganda in the United States, maintaining that Poland "cannot make peace without becoming enslaved to Bolshevist rule," and thanking President Wilson for his stand in regard to Poland.

Copies of the resolutions will be telegraphed and also carried by delegations to the President and other officials in Washington.

In addition to the mass meetings, half a dozen parades were held and prayers for Poland's success were given at dozens of churches.

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—A resolution addressed to President Wilson and requesting that the United States Government "extend to Poland further moral and such material aid as will strengthen the position of the Polish Government and make possible the conclusion of an honorable and just peace" with the Bolsheviki was adopted by a large gathering of citizens of Polish extraction in Faneuil Hall today.

ELMIRA, Aug. 15.—People of Polish birth or extraction at meetings held here tonight, voted to petition their Congressmen to support their country in compliance with the report made by Secretary of State Colby.

Resolutions asking that the United States extend "further moral and such material aid as will strengthen the Polish Government and make possible the conclusion of a just and honorable peace" were adopted at a mass meeting of 10,000 Polish sympathizers in Military Park, Newark, yesterday afternoon. The meeting was preceded by a parade of 5,000 members of Polish organizations. Ex-Congressman R. Wayne Parker was the principal speaker at the meeting.

HARDING MANAGERS DISAGREE ON POWERS

PLANS NEW AGGRESSIVE

Expected to Attack Nomination of Cox as Dictated by Bosses in Speech Thursday.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 15.—Chairman Hays of the Republican National Committee will return here Tuesday for another conference with Senator Harding.

In view of this conference, following the one of last week and former Senator Weeks's visit here yesterday, there are some indications here that all is not going well at Republican national headquarters. It is an open secret that there is uncertainty over the relative functions of the "steering committee" of the National Executive Committee and the National Chairman, and that unless this misunderstanding is cleared an open conflict may break out.

To this Senator Harding is understood to have given many hours of thought and conference during the last two weeks, and it is believed to be probable that in deciding he must assert himself as the actual as well as the titular head of the party.

The members of the Steering Committee are Harry M. Daugherty, former Senator Weeks, Charles D. Hillis, A. T. Hert and Raymond Robins. It was created to act in an advisory capacity between national headquarters and the staff at the Harding headquarters as well as the candidate.

The grounds of the disagreement are said to be the division of the direction of the campaign between Mr. Hays and the Steering Committee. Present indications are that this committee has had little to steer, that Mr. Hays alone is at the helm and that, instead of charting the course, the committee has had little work to do aside from swabbing decks and pulling ropes with the rest of the crew.

It is understood that the members of the Steering Committee are wondering when Mr. Hays will see fit to put them to work. At the time of their appointment, Senator Harding was thought to have made a strong selection in recognizing Daugherty, his pre-convention manager; Weeks and Hillis, who have proved their value to the organization in the past; Hert, who was an active figure at the Chicago convention, and Robins, the Progressive.

Prepares to Assail Cox Nomination.

Senator Harding is understood to be laying plans for an aggressive fight against the Democratic Party in answer to Governor Cox's speech yesterday at Wheeling, assailing a "Senatorial cabal" in the Republican Party. It is believed that the Republican candidate will denounce the group in the Democratic Party which brought about Governor Cox's nomination at San Francisco when he addresses past and present members of the Ohio General Assembly who are scheduled to make a pilgrimage to the front porch next Thursday.

It is probable that the Senator will make this one occasion for an attack on elements in the Democratic Party represented by Tammany Hall, Nugent of New Jersey and Brennan of Illinois and link them with Governor Cox's candidacy.

William Merriam Chadbourne of New York, a prominent follower of Roosevelt in 1912, held a long conference with Senator Harding. Mr. Chadbourne has been active in efforts to enlist the old Progressive vote for Harding, and on July 1 gave a dinner at the Harvard Club in New York, at which a large number of the former followers of Roosevelt pledged themselves to the Republican candidate.

Predicts Miller's Election.

Following the conference Mr. Chadbourne said:

"I feel that in the next four years, to increase the efficiency and reduce the expenses of government, there must be a reorganization of the executive departments and adoption of the budget plan. To accomplish this, co-operation of the Executive and Legislature must be had. The present Republican Congress has indicated, by passing the budget bill, its desire to effect this, and if we can secure the right co-operation of the White House, instead of its opposition, great improvements will be possible.

"After my talk with Senator Harding I am convinced that he is better fitted, by experience and point of view, than anybody else to secure that co-operation in government which is so important, and of which we so greatly feel the lack. Senator Harding, I am sure, will call to his assistance the best intelligence in the country, and by his tact and sane judgment will translate the result of this common counsel into action. I am sure that the Progressives who were Roosevelt men, first and last, are all on Senator Harding's side.

"A word on New York. The situation is very satisfactory from the Republican point of view. New York will be one of the chief battlegrounds of the campaign. The Republicans have a full understanding of their responsibility, and they are going to name for Governor Judge Nathan L. Miller, who will go into history as one of the great Governors of New York, ranking with Roosevelt, Hughes and Cleveland. He has had a brilliant official career, is one of the leading lawyers and is now President of the State Bar Association."

The Star Woolen Company of Boston and Cohoes Falls, N. Y., reports to Senator Harding the result of a poll of the textile industry, covering New England, the South and all parts of the country. About 2,500 ballots were sent out and about 1,800 were returned. The result showed that the Southern vote was 66 2-3 per cent. for Harding; that he had a large majority in Ohio, and that in the industry outside of the South 95 per cent. the answers were in his favor.

One question was, "Are you in favor of a 'moist' administration?" About two-thirds of the replies were in the negative.

Senator Harding's discussion of print paper and of the forestry policy of the United States in his address to the Ohio editors Friday brought an immediate telegram of congratulation from the American Forestry Association of Washington.

AMERICAN SHIPS LEADING.

Now Carry More Than 60 Per Cent. of Our Ocean Freight.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—More than 60 per cent. of the total cargo carried in vessels entering and leaving United States ports during the first six months of 1920 was in American bottoms, according to a survey issued tonight by the Shipping Board.

Of 15,558 vessels included in the summary, aggregating 36,931,700 deadweight tons and carrying 37,398,184 tons of cargo, American ships numbered 9,550, with 51,534,620 deadweight tons, and carried 22,724,217 tons of freight.

While many of the American vessels are carrying return cargoes to American ports, foreign vessels are, to a large extent, entering in ballast and clearing with more cargo in proportion to the number and tonnage of the vessels employed.

OWEN ASSURES COX OF BRYAN'S SUPPORT

West Virginia Leaders Tell Governor Factions There Have United for Him.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 15.—Governor James M. Cox got back to Columbus late this afternoon, much pleased with the reception tendered to him yesterday in Wheeling, W. Va. On his arrival here he went into conference with Senator Owen of Oklahoma.

Among other messages Senator Owen brought was a firm conviction that William J. Bryan will remain regular and help to elect Cox, thus leaving few, if any, of the prominent Democrats off the reservation. Bryan is now away on a Chautauqua tour in the West. Senator Owen is satisfied, he said, that on his return Bryan would make it plain that he would support Governor Cox. The Senator and Bryan are close friends, and the Nebraskan was ready to support Owen for the nomination for President at San Francisco.

The Democratic leaders in West Virginia, among them former Senator Chilton, told Governor Cox today that his addresses in Wheeling would result in the solidification of the party in that State and would win thousands of votes from the ranks of the progressive Republicans. The Governor was told that the factions had agreed to make a truce and support him solidly, forgetting personal squabbles.

That was the talk in Wheeling late last night and today among the leaders who heard Governor Cox and watched the effect of his addresses on his audiences. It was, these leaders said, the kind of fighting language which the progressive voters wanted to hear. Cox, they held, would make a very strong run throughout the mining districts of West Virginia.

There was so much enthusiasm over the reception given to Governor Cox by the people and over his effectiveness as a campaigner that he was urged to return to West Virginia on Labor Day. The matter is under consideration, and if Governor Cox can fill the engagement without interfering with plans for his swing into the Far West he may speak on Labor Day at Parkersburg, the home of Ambassador John W. Davis, who will be there to greet him.

Republican leaders in Wheeling were not as confident of a "sweeping victory" today as they were before Cox made his first appeal to the voters there. There was talk of heavy wagers which had been laid by Republicans on the prospect of party victory. Some of the West Virginia Republicans admitted having made bets that Harding would win in Ohio. There was a good deal of talk about "going broke" if Harding did not win.

Governor Cox's discussion of the labor problems, his assertion that no shot had been fired in settling disputes in Ohio while he was Governor, and his declaration that certain interests were financing the Republican campaign so that the bayonets of the Government might be on their side in labor disputes, were topics much discussed in West Virginia today.

Senator Owen discussed with him today the charge Governor Cox made that the Republicans were plotting to alter or destroy the Federal Reserve banking system if they got into power. The Senator had a fund of information concerning his views of the Federal Reserve system to tell the Governor.

Governor Cox began to get messages today indicating that there had been a very favorable reaction to his addresses in Wheeling. He was congratulated upon having delivered a "fighting speech" which would make the Republican leaders worry.

Mrs. Abby Scott Baker, political manager of the National Woman's Party, was in town today, and appeared somewhat excited over messages she had received from Nashville, Tenn., concerning Senator Harding's latest stand on ratification of the suffrage amendment. She said Harding's telegram to the Tennessee Legislature stated that he could not urge any one who had conscientious scruples because of the legal phases involved to vote for ratification. Such a stand, Mrs. Baker held, might defeat all of the good accomplished by the stand first taken by Senator Harding.

Mrs. Baker went to Marion tonight to see Senator Harding and urge him to change his mind.

THOMAS DECLINES TO RUN.

Colorado Democratic Senator Refuses to Seek Renomination.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 15.—It was reported last evening that Charles S. Thomas had yielded to importunities of many Denver friends and would enter the primaries as a Democratic candidate for nomination as his own successor in the United States Senate. At a late hour last night Senator Thomas refused positively to file his acceptance of the nomination, and petitions to secure the placing of his name on the primary ballots were likewise withheld from filing.

Discussing his refusal to make the race, the Senator gave the following explanation:

"Petitions nominating me for the primary election were circulated by some of my good friends Saturday. I feel flattered by them, of course, but after giving the matter due consideration I have determined not to change my mind.

"There are several reasons why I am not going to change my mind. In the first place, I announced more than a year ago that I did not care to stand for re-election; and then I am not in harmony with the party on the League of Nations.

"Under these circumstances I could not honestly and conscientiously again become a candidate."

decide if the charges are pressed against the Governor. The roads had been made slippery by a heavy rainfall, and traffic was not heavy, as a result of the unfavorable weather for motoring.

Cox Misunderstood at First.

Jacksontown is known as the town where many arrests for automobile speeding are made. When the four big cars headed into the town an elderly man, in shirt sleeves and with a Constable's badge displayed prominently on his shirt, held up his hand.

"Hey!" he shouted. "Hey, there!"

The cars were going slowly through the town and Governor Cox, thinking that someone was cheering, turned and acknowledged the cries with a bow. There was a crowd of perhaps 150 townspeople collected in the square about the post office and there was a ripple of laughter.

As each automobile passed him the old Constable yelled "Hey, there!" Other words he may have spoken were inaudible because of the noise of the motors.

The incident had been forgotten when a motorcycle mounted by two men roared along the road and in front of the Governor's car. There was a sharp order to halt, and the chauffeur came to a dead stop. Constable Joe Shipley then stepped up.

"I want you fellows to come back to town and go to court," he said. "You've been speeding."

Governor Cox looked at the man, surprise apparent in his face. "What's this about?" he asked.

The other motorcycle Constable broke in on his companion. "They told us to get all four of 'em," he said, pointing to the other cars.

Governor Cox was impatient, as he had engagements to keep at Columbus.

"If you want me you will find me at the State House in Columbus," the Governor said.

The Constable shook his head. One of the party then whispered to him: "That's Governor Cox." Again the Constable shook his head and exclaimed: "I don't care who he is; he's got to go back."

Governor Cox, doubly impatient by this time, motioned to his chaufeur to drive ahead and the four big cars started on the way.

"Ain't you goin' to come back?" demanded a Constable, but his voice was drowned out as the motors picked up speed.

Constables in Pursuit.

There were two intensely angry Constables. For a few moments they stood in the roadway making the demand on the occupants of each car: "Ain't you goin' to stop?" Then, as the automobiles passed on, the Constables scrambled onto their motorcycle and started in pursuit.

For half a mile the motorcycle circled in and out among the automobiles so that the officers might obtain the numbers of the licenses. Several times the Constables shouted for the cars to stop.

Finally a second motorcycle appeared from the direction of Jacksontown, going at terrific speed. It swung past the automobiles and then joined in the task of obtaining license numbers. With this job completed the Constabled turned their motorcycles about and disappeared in the direction of the town.

In the automobile with Governor Cox when the incident occurred was John A. Dwyer, Democratic leader of Toledo, Ohio. The other cars were occupied by newspaper correspondents and General Clayton.

Jacksontown is noted for the number of arrests made for automobile speeding. There are the usual stories told about it—how the town grows and prospers on the fines and gets a lot of satisfaction and amusement in watching the emotions of the prisoners when they are brought into court.

There are some who believe that the holdup was staged today by Republicans to annoy and embarrass Governor Cox, and also to get him publicity which might do some injury to him. Others feel that the holdup was only another of the "jokes" pulled off by the townfolks.

DISORDER AT MANY POINTS

Sinn Feiners Battle with Troops for an Airplane—Cork Mayor and 65 on Hunger Strike.

LONDON, Monday, Aug. 16.—Andrew Bonar Law, the Government spokesman, is expected to make an important statement on the Government's Irish policy in the House of Commons today, according to a Dublin dispatch to The London Times.

Hope is expressed in Dublin, adds the dispatch, that it will be a message of peace, carrying with it consent of the Government to the Irish demand for a full measure of self-government.

Dublin still insists that E. Wylie, legal adviser to Viscount French, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, decided to resign, but delayed action on the understanding that Mr. Bonar Law would make the statement referred to in the reports.

DUBLIN, Aug. 15.—Henry Harrison, Secretary of the Irish Dominion Home Rule League, has received many letters from moderate men throughout the country, including Ulster, endorsing the league's suggestion that a conference be held to endeavor to secure settlement of the Irish problem. The letters come from men of all parties, and there are several from Catholic and Protestant clergymen.

Reports of reprisals by the police and soldiers, which are coming in in increasing numbers, and which it is feared will further arouse the people and make a settlement more difficult, are greatly exercising the moderates. Telegrams are being sent to Andrew Bonar Law and other Unionist members of the House of Commons, urging that a stop be put to these reprisals.

A claim from the Inspector General of Police for £2,000 as compensation for the destruction of the Raheny Barracks by fire was formally burned by the Chairman of the North Dublin Union here tonight.

Many recent raids by both British troops and Sinn Feiners have created much unrest in County Leitrim, Province of Connaught, and a regiment of soldiers has been quartered at Carrick-on-Shannon.

Owing to the boycott of Nationalists in Belfast, Leitrim merchants are refusing to give orders to Belfast commercial travelers. Because of the boycott of the police, several leading Sinn Feiners are reported to have received letters threatening their lives unless they supply the constabulary with provisions.

Nothing was talked of today in Dublin except last night's fight, which resulted when a crowd attempted to rush the gates of Dublin Castle. The tension today was extreme.

Military precautions against a possible renewal of the disorders were taken this morning, but were relaxed later in the day. Republican Volunteers will take charge of maintaining order in the streets tonight.

An official report of Saturday night's events accuses civilians of attacking soldiers on a prearranged systematic plan. It adds that unarmed soldiers were dragged from street cars and ill-treated, and declares that one soldier was thrown into the Liffey.

Concerning the attack on Dublin Castle itself, the report says:

"Shots were fired at the guard room in the old police barracks in the Castle yard. The guard and pickets returned the fire. As far as is known nobody was hurt, but hearing that their comrades were being molested a number of troops broke out of the Castle, carrying the handles of their entrenching tools, and chased the crowd in the direction of Cork Hill. They were immediately recalled."

ROME, Aug. 13.—It was stated at the Vatican today that nothing was officially known there relative to the experiences of Archbishop Daniel J. Mannix of Australia since he had been landed at Penzance by an English destroyer, which took him from on board the White Star liner Baltic. Nothing regarding his plans for the future had been communicated to the Holy See, it was declared.

Count Sal's, British Minister to the Vatican, called there this morning and paid his usual weekly visit to Cardinal Gasparri, Papal Secretary of State. No details of his talk with the Cardinal are known, but it is said that they conversed on the Mannix incident and measures adopted by the British Government to prevent his landing in Ireland.

LORD MAYOR OF CORK ADOPTS HUNGER STRIKE

Dublin Hears He and Ten Associates Will be Tried on Charges of Sedition.

CORK, Ireland, Aug. 15.—Terence MacSweney, Lord Mayor of this city, and ten men who were arrested with him Thursday night, have refused food since they were placed in a military barracks, and have been joined in their hunger strike by other prisoners.

DUBLIN, Aug. 15.—The Lord Mayor of Cork, Terence MacSweney, and other members of the Cork corporation arrested last Thursday, will be tried on the charge of sedition, according to a statement made here today.

Belief is expressed by the military that in Thursday's raid on the Cork mansion house they secured the arrest of leaders of the "Republican Brotherhood." They consider the arrested men responsible for an active part in the Sinn Fein campaign, against which the military has started an offensive.

It is understood, however, that the Sinn Fein has long expected this offensive and doubtless has destroyed all evidence.

Dublin Castle today issued an official report to the effect that sixty-five prisoners in Cork prison had been on a hunger strike since Aug. 11. Of these twenty-two were convicted of various offenses and transferred from England to complete their sentences. The others, according to the statement, were being detained pending a decision whether they shall be tried or discharged.

15,000 IRISH PROTEST TREATMENT OF MANNIX

Speakers at Mass Meeting Declare England Made "Most Stupendous Blunder."

Protests against the removal by British authorities of Archbishop Mannix of Australia from the liner Baltic and the passage of what was styled by speakers as "the eighty-eighth and most inhuman coercion act imposed by England upon the Republic of Ireland" were voiced amid the acclaim of 15,000 Irish sympathizers at a meeting held in Madison Square Garden last night. Ex-Justice John W. Goff presided, and the speakers included Major Michael Kelly of the Sixty-ninth Regiment, Frank P. Walsh, Lawrence Ginnell, former member of the British Parliament and an elected member of the "Irish Republican Assembly," Monsignor Joseph Mooney, the Rev. Michael J. Murphy, a Methodist clergyman; Dr. Norman Thomas, a Presbyterian clergyman, and the Rev. John Talbot Smith.

Flags of the so-called "Republic of Ireland" alternated with flags of the "Indian nation," which were sold by dark skinned attendants. The Mannix incident was described as "the most stupendous blunder it is possible for a Government to make." Speakers predicted the "speedy crumbling of the British Empire."

"The English navy has at last achieved a great naval victory," said Justice Goff, "by its piratical raid on a peaceful steamship and its capture of an old Archbishop. They can stop Archbishop Mannix from landing in Ireland, but they cannot stop his ideas."

A cablegram was drafted to Archbishop Mannix, denouncing his detention as an unparalleled outrage, possible only in Turkey and Ireland. "We are protesting tonight," continued the cablegram, "against our own Government's entering into any partnership whatever with a nation guilty of the autocratic and savage acts which England has committed."

The following resolution was adopted:

"The citizens of New York, in mass meeting assembled at Madison Square Garden on August 15, 1920, denounce the action of the British Government in passing and applying to Ireland another infamous coercion law which is destructive to every vestige of human rights and civil liberty and does violence to the cause and principles for which the World War was waged; that it indicates the intention to destroy by barbarism the republic Ireland has established, and thereafter to rule Ireland by savage force, and thus to destroy in so far as she can the Irish race in Ireland.

"That to every American citizen it should be cause for gratification that the United States refused to enter the League of Nations wherein it would now be in partnership with a government which has inaugurated in Ireland a system of 'savage oppression' in order to stifle the Government of the people which Ireland has established by the suffrage of her people.

"We further denounce the piratical raid of the English Navy upon a peaceful passenger ship and the removal therefrom by force of Archbishop Mannix, in order to prevent his intended visit to his native land, as an act of unbridled and indefensible tyranny, and an open defiance of President Wilson's proposal of freedom of the seas, and we assert our confidence that the power of the British Government, both by land and sea, will be unable to prevent the entrance of his idea into Ireland and England and other parts of the British Empire as well, and that his outrageous arrest and detention will not defeat or destroy the republic which he so ably championed in Australia, and for whose recognition he so eloquently pleaded in the United States."

BATTLE IN IRELAND RAGES OVER AIRPLANE

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CORK, Aug. 15.—One soldier was shot dead and another seriously wounded at Clonbanic, County Cork, in a battle between a party of Sinn Feiners and some soldiers guarding a damaged military airplane. This machine, which was carrying dispatches from Fermoy to Kerry, had been forced to descend owing to engine trouble and the pilot having reported the matter to the military authorities at Kantuck, a detachment of soldiers was dispatched to guard the airplane.

Before dawn yesterday morning they were attacked by a large band of armed men, whose object was to gain possession of the machine. The Sinn Feiners opened a brisk fire from several sides, but the troops replied vigorously, wounding a number of the aggressors. For three hours the attack was maintained, but the soldiers stood their ground and at length beat off the Sinn Feiners, who retired carrying their wounded comrades.

DUBLIN, Aug. 15.—Four constables were fired upon at Tralee last night and two of them were slightly wounded. At midnight military stores and wagons at the Tralee station were set on fire and destroyed. There was much firing by the military and police in the town. The printing office of a local newspaper was destroyed by fire.

LIMERICK, Aug. 15.—There were serious street fights and other disorders here from midday until this evening. One constable, a man named Natah, was shot dead, but according to the townspeople he was killed accidentally by a comrade.

The outbreak began with an attack on two detectives in People's Park.

BELFAST, Aug. 15.—Another outbreak is reported from Londonderry, where serious results were prevented only by prompt police intervention.

In the course of Saturday night there was much indiscriminate revolver firing here and attacks on isolated pedestrians. Rival factions turned out ready for a fray, but the police inspector was quickly on the scene with his men, and prevented further rioting. Soldiers searched Sinn Feiners for arms and cleared the streets of demonstrators.

An attempt has been made to destroy the Tyrone County Court House at Omagh, but it was only partly burned.

General Allgood has assumed command in Northwest Ulster. He has ordered four battalions strung out as far as Sligo.

Harding Wins N. Y. U. Straw Ballot.

New York University reported yesterday these results of a straw vote for President: Harding, 561; Cox, 321; Debs, 112; Christiensen, 31, and Watkins, 16, giving Harding a majority of 78 of the 1,044 votes cast. Students at the five centres of the university's Summer school—Washington Square, University Heights, Wall Street Division, Finch School and the Washington Irving High School—voted. Women students cast 241 votes.

The Case of Ponzi

So the marvelous scheme of making money quickly and without the hard work, the thrift, the wise investing and patience required of all those who found lasting fortunes, has come to naught.

Patience builds more fortunes than are ever reared by genius. The real fortune builders are the patient men and women who lay the foundation for their future, bond by bond, year in and year out.

But what about the men who have put the savings of a lifetime with Ponzi? What about the rest of us? Have we learned the great lesson that high interest rates indicate doubtful security, and that it does not pay to neglect the old-fashioned considerations of safety?

Careful investors are starting their fortunes every day by placing their funds in an investment which, without any sacrifice of security, brings them 6% year in and year out.

Can you afford not to investigate such a security? We have prepared a booklet which outlines an ideal conservative investment and we will send it to you without obligation on your part.

PONZI TO BE FREED, BUT FACES REARREST

Will Have to Provide $25,000 More Bail on Additional Charges.

Lawyers Are Preparing His Defense, Which Family Hnts May Be "Financial Dementia."

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—Charles Ponzi will be released from the Cambridge Jail tomorrow morning, a new bondsman having been found to furnish the $35,000 required—$25,000 on the Federal charge and $10,000 on the State complaint.

Ponzi will be immediately rearrested, however, and his freedom will be extremely short unless the bondsman stands ready to furnish further security.

The further bail will be required on fifty-three counts, charging the taking of money under false pretenses. At least $25,000 additional bail will be required.

Ponzi's wife motored from their Lexington home this afternoon in the limousine recently purchased by him. She was accompanied by two of the several armed guards who have been protecting the Ponzi home for the last two weeks.

She remained with her husband from 3:15 to 4 o'clock, and both the greeting and the departure were affectionate. She left with her husband the contents of a huge bundle after the articles had been duly examined. They included haberdashery and a supply of cigarettes.

Attorneys Preparing Defense.

Meantime the "wizard's" attorneys are preparing his défense. A report, coming from the Ponzi family circle, is that he will enter a plea of "financial dementia." Persons who have known Ponzi during the last ten to twenty years have declared that he was invariably working on schemes for compiling great riches.

The authorities are more and more convinced that he has secreted a large sum of money. It became known today that late last night Edwin L. Pride, Federal Auditor, and Post Office Insector Dakin secretly raided the home of Miss Lucy Meli, who was the Italian's private secretary, at 27 Temple Street, Revere.

The purpose of the raid, it was declared, was to uncover clues that might aid in discovering the Italian's alleged cache or even to locate some of the supposedly hidden cash itself. A large number of papers were taken. The raid followed a visit by the two officials upon Ponzi in his cell last evening.

Large sums of money alleged to have been taken in by the Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company are also proving elusive and the authorities are now giving special attention to the departure of G. W. A. Linblad, who has been associated with the company and who sailed from New York for an European port several days ago.

State Treasurer Accused.

Defiant in the face of accusations that he has used his office to augment the advertising business which he conducts, State Treasurer Burrell has refused to make public a list of banks containing State funds. A few months ago Burrell's predecessor, Charles L. Burrill, withdrew the State's funds from the Hanover Trust. State Treasurer Burrell, who has returned them has admitted that he had received advertising from this bank.

Prominent citizens plan to visit Governor Coolidge tomorrow and ask him to call Mr. Burrell before him and his council and force him to name the banks containing State funds, particularly those in Boston.

Some Think Ponzi Only Tool.

BOSTON, Aug. 15 (Associated Press).—Was Charles Ponzi the head and front or only the "front" of the millions-over-night swindle that flourished unhindered for eight months in the heart of Boston's financial district? This was the subject of countless open forums on Boston Common and street corners, in the foreign quarters and wherever the Sunday holiday allowed big and little groups to gather.

Recent activities of Federal and State authorities, halted only by the week-end rest, coupled with intimations from various sources, have caused a general expectation of developments early this week that will answer the popular query.

One needed to listen only to any group of disputants to hear voiced the two popular opinions. One side had it that Ponzi was a real Napoleon of finance, for how otherwise could he have gained the confidence of men who made a profession of banking and investment?

Others argued that Ponzi was only a sidewalk capper for a gang that profited directly or indirectly by the noise he made and that the brains of the enterprise were elsewhere than under the skull of the Italian who, if threats of certain of his countrymen are to be taken seriously, is safer tonight in the Cambridge jail than he would be in his home in the bankers' colony of historic Lexington.

Since the armistice Boston has been infested with agents seeking to interest small investors by promising big profits. High wages in industrial centres, anxiety of many to increase their incomes in keeping with the climbing cost of living, along with the below-par quotations on Liberty Bonds, helped to make New England a fertile field for those who promised quick and big returns.

In many cases these agents found their best argument in the assertion that while old established banking houses made very small returns to their depositors, the banks themselves were able to make enormous profits by frequent turnovers of the money of their depositors. It was proposed by some agents that small investors share in these big profits by permitting their savings to be invested for them.

BEDFORD GIRLS TO GET MAIL

Acting Superintendent Asks Women to Write to Them.

Special to The New York Times.

BEDFORD, N. Y., Aug. 15. — Mrs. Frank L. Christian, Acting Superintendent of the State Reformatory for Women in Bedford, issued an invitation today to the public to correspond with several lonely prisoners, who yearn for a letter from some one. Over a score of inmates never receive any mail and have nobody to write to.

In order to avoid receiving a deluge of mail from male flirts, Mrs. Christian made it plain that letters from men will be strictly barred. Any girl or woman desiring to write cheering messages to Bedford charges can send her name and address to Mrs. Christian. Those wishing to correspond must have their character vouched for by a clergyman. When the conditions are complied with the names of one or more friendless prisoners will be given to the applicant, who then can write direct.

"The girls here were given paper and pencils," said Mrs. Christian, "and now we find many of them have nobody to write to. If some respectable women outside will correspond with our girls here it will aid in their uplift and help keep their minds occupied."

PLANS A RADICAL BAIL FUND.

Civil Liberties Union Proposes to Raise $300,000.

Plans for the creation of a national bail fund of $300,000 to free radicals, prosecuted under the sedition laws, were announced yesterday by the American Civil Liberties Union. It is the idea to have the fund administered by a committee of trustees, and the statement of the Union adds:

"The trust fund has two distinct advantages over the individual writing of bail bonds. First, no publicity will attach to the name of the person supplying bail, and second, the administration of the fund will relieve the persons putting up money from most of the details attendant upon individual handling of bail. Very important, too, is the fact that the chances of loss are very greatly reduced, because the subscribers to a national bail fund would share together any loss which might be entailed by the forfeiture of a bond.

"The management of this national bail fund will be in the hands of a committee of trustees who will be solely responsible for its administration. The trustees, under the articles of agreement filed last week, are L. Hollingsworth Wood, Albert DeSilver and Norman Thomas. An Auditing Committee, to check the work of the trustees, is also created, consisting of Oswald Garrison Villard, Arthur Garfield Hays and Harold A. Hatch."

Citizens' Co. Moves Much Freight.

The Citizens' Trucking Company, formed by merchants here to move freight from coastwise shipping piers after union truckmen had decided to give sympathetic aid to the longshoremen's strike, announced yesterday that in the last week sixteen trucks had moved nearly 1,500,000 pounds of freight. Frederic A. Molitor, Chairman of the Citizens' Trucking Committee, plans to handle the cargoes of ten coastwise vessels during the coming week.

MAY BUY NORTH SHORE LINE

Forming of Company to be Discussed at Luncheon Today.

Efforts will be made by persons interested in the resumption of service by the New York and North Shore Traction Company, which suspended operations last May because the company was losing money, due partly to opposition in buses, to have it placed on an operating basis again. The bondholders of the company have refused to advance further funds to resume service, and unless the road is bought by civic and realty interests the property will be salvaged.

Believing that inasmuch as the line could be purchased at its physical value, the question of forming a company to acquire the line will be discussed tomorrow at a luncheon in the Café Boulevard.

Dives from Second Floor Window.

Joseph Cuccio, 19, living with his parents on the second floor at 875 Longwood Avenue, the Bronx, dived through a bedroom window in his night clothes yesterday morning and was taken to Lincoln Hospital suffering with contusions on the neck, arms and legs. His family said Cuccio had recently returned from a sanitarium, where he had been sent after brooding over a love affair in which he had been jilted.

CLOTHES LINES SAVE WOMAN

They Break Her Fall from Third-Story Windown.

Numerous clothes lines strung out from the rear of the building at 321 East Tenth Street saved Mrs. Tillie Spanglap, 50 years old, from death when she fell from a rear window in her apartment on the third floor yesterday morning. Mrs. Spanglap's fall was broken by the lines of both floors below her own. Dr. Ehrlich removed her to Bellevue Hospital, where it was reported that she probably had suffered fractures of the skull and right leg.

ROTARY CLUB Activities

A Blockade on Misunderstanding!

HUNGER has been responsible for many crimes, running the gamut from the harmless white lie right up to impulsive murder. They say a person can be starved into almost anything. That's why they blockade misbehaving countries and starve them into sanity. It's a less tragic way than war. But it happens too seldom.

However, there are blockades of smaller dimensions, which, if used in civil life, would obviate much trouble; would increase the well-being of the world; would bring satisfaction in a wholesome way to both sides of a controversy.

Rotary Suggests a Blockade.

As a starter, the Rotary Club of New York suggests a blockade on misunderstanding. It believes that with misunderstanding eliminated, the unrest which alternately simmers and breaks into live flame would dwindle to insignificance. And there is but one way to eliminate misunderstanding—by talking things over before they get to the bare fists stage.

A class in school thinks its teacher is suffering from enlarged cranium and over infliction of authority. It bears with her just so long—then lets loose. The teacher, on the other hand, thinks the class is waiting to annihilate her and pick her bones. Misunderstanding!

Privilege and Underprivilege.

The underprivileged boy grows up to believe that the world is dead against him. He resolves to short-change the world whenever he gets a chance. The world, looking at the underprivileged boy, says: "Well, what do you expect?" and puts its money in a safer place. Misunderstanding—which the Rotary Club is gradually correcting in its extensive Boys' Work campaign.

Capital and labor are still at it—hot and heavy. For years Capital drank cream and Labor skim milk. Capital's cream has been slightly reduced; some of the cream is in Labor's milk now. But still Capital can't understand Labor's taste for cream, and Labor can't understand Capital's corner on it. Misunderstanding! Rotary says: "Put a blockade on it!"

The Road to Profit.

The man who buys imagines every price tag is a blackjack waiting for his innocent and sparsely covered scalp. The man who sells takes it for granted he'll be called a profiteer, even though he may have a hard time paying his rent. Misunderstanding! Which the business men represented on this page—Rotarians all—are blockading by practising in their daily lives the rotary motto: "He profits most who serves best."

One of these days a masked figure of heroic proportions will come along and engage in mortal combat with Misunderstanding, and, when the victor removes his mask, lo! we will find that his name is TRUE CO-OPERATION!

On Business Fashion

QUEEN ELIZABETH squeezed her waist to seventeen inches. Miss 1920 is not ashamed of twenty-seven. Just a question of fashion, governed by vanity.
There is a fashion in business, governed by common sense. Once upon a time the cubby-hole desk, the feather duster, and the letter press held office sway. Where are they now?
Once upon a time shorthand for vacillating, hesitating, exasperating dictation was the fashion. Now it's The Dictaphone. What the vacuum cleaner is to the back-breaking broom and the wireless to the messenger on horseback, The Dictaphone is to old style dictation.

THE HONORABLE POTATO

"To the Immortal Introducer of the Potato in Europe," is inscribed on Sir Francis Drake's statue at Baden.

In the suburbs of Paris, where he taught his countrymen how to grow the potato, stands a statue of Parmentier.

And on this side of the Atlantic, the CHILDS restaurants still further honor the potato by making it into a wonderfully delicious salad.

ARRESTS ARE NEAR IN M'GRAW ROW

SLAVIN RECEIVES FAMILY

Other Visitors Barred at Hospital—Giants' Manager Still Is Secluded.

Detectives said yesterday that they expected that two warrants for arrest would be issued as a result of the charges and counter charges growing out of the party in The Lambs early on the morning of Sunday, Aug. 8, since which time John C. Slavin, comedian, has been in St. Luke's Hospital recovering from a fracture of the skull, and John J. McGraw, manager and part owner of the Giants, has been in his home at 301 West 109th Street recovering from a black eye and other bruises.

Slavin, who was taken to St. Luke's Hospital after he was found unconscious on the sidewalk in front of the McGraw apartment by William Meagan, taxi driver, and Winfield Liggett, former Lieutenant Commander in the navy and resident member of The Lambs, was allowed to receive no visitors yesterday except his wife and his son. It was said at the hospital that his condition continued to improve steadily and that there was little doubt that he would recover his normal health and strength.

McGraw Bars Interviewers.

Efforts to obtain an interview with McGraw continued to be fruitless. It was said, however, that he was feeling stronger and might be expected to be about early this week.

William H. Boyd, the Broadway leading man, who, McGraw has told the District Attorney, was the agressor in a fight in the Lambs which resulted in McGraw's hurts, continued to be inaccessible. Although his name was on the board at the Lambs yeserday as one of those members who were "in," a note sent to him by newspaper men was returned unopened.

It was explained that there was a rule of the club that prevented a member from making public statements about club affairs. It was understood tha it was because of this rule that Boyd had said nothing for publication.

McGraw's statement that Boyd was the aggressor was not made until last Saturday. Prior to that the club had issued an official statement which blamed McGraw for the encounter and exonerated Boyd. Club officials have stood by this statement. They have furnished the District Attorney's office with a list of witnesses, previously printed, which, it was apparent, they believed would support the unofficial stand of the Lambs.

Lambs' Action Deferred.

No official decision may be expected from the Lambs, it already has been explained, until both Boyd and McGraw appear before the council of the organization with their witnesses. The club has indicated that Boyd will have a large number of corroborators. McGraw told the District Attorney that he would be able to supply witnesses to prove his assertions. That is one reason why this week-old affair still remains a mystery and one of the absorbing topics of gossip along Broadway.

Plans yesterday were for the case in all its details to be placed before the Grand Jury on Tuesday. McGraw's story that he was hit over the head with a water bottle in the club, ib substantiated legally, would furnish grounds for a charge of felonious assault, it was explained. If McGraw bought whisky, as he is asserted to have told the District Attorney's office, then he was violating the Volstead Act himself, it was pointed out.

How Slavin came by his injuries on the sidewalk in front of the McGraw apartment, while Liggett and the chauffeur say they were looking elsewhere, still remains unexplained except by the original police theory that he may have fallen. The official statement of The Lambs is that he left the club, after acting as peacemaker between Boyd and McGraw, in a perfectly normal and healthy condition. He had not suffered any blow in or near the club, it was said.

BRYAN SELLS WINTER HOME

Asheville House Planned for His Later Years Brings $30,000.

Special to The New York Times.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 15.—The handsome Winter home of Colonel and Mrs. William Jennings Bryan on Evelyn Place, Grove Park, was sold yesterday by the real estate firm of Moale & Meriwether to J. T. Horney of Canton, Haywood County. The consideration was $30,000 and it was said Mr. Horney would make the place his home after getting possession on Oct. 1. Colonel Bryan bought several acres of ground on the edge of the exclusive residential section several years ago and built a home there which he publicly declared would be the last he and Mrs. Bryan would have, "a place to which they would retire for the evening of their lives."

He brought an extensive library here, many volumes of which came from his Lincoln, Neb., home. It was in this library, standing under a great oil painting of Thomas Jefferson, who he declared was his patron saint, that he welcomed W. G. McAdoo on the occasion of Mr. McAdoo's visit here two years ago.

When Mrs. Bryan's health became impaired last year and it was decided that she should not remain in this climate, her husband made up his mind to sell the place. It, however, was not placed on the market until a few days ago.

The house is now occupied by Mr. Bryan's son and his family, who have been living here for some time. It is understood that they will move to Arizona.

SPEEDER HELD IN THEFT.

Policeman's Revolver Halts Driver of Alleged Stolen Auto.

MINEOLA, L. I., Aug. 15.—Joseph Romanski, 20 years old, of Floral Park, L. I., in default of $3,000 bail was sent to the Nassau County Jail today by Judge William Stohl for further examination Tuesday in connection with the theft of an automobile from Harry Jackson of Hicksville, L. I., early this morning.

Motor Cycle Policeman Thomas Brown brought Romanski to a halt with his revolver while the latter was speeding at forty miles an hour on the Jericho Turnpike near Krug's Corner, shortly after midnight. In the car with Romanski were John Hartigan and Samuel Allen, both of Jericho. The latter two said they met Romanski, who asked them to take a ride with him. They said they did not know the automobile had been stolen. They were not held.

Two Gangs Found Who Tell Story of Rich Haul—Some of the Money Is Recovered.

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—An investigation into sensational thefts of 47,000,000 Rumanian lei notes (about $9,400,000 at par) from the Spandau Citadel has now been completed by the German police. Part of the 540,000,000 lei taken by the Germans from Bucharest during the war was sent by the War Ministry for safety to the citadel a week before the revolution in November, 1918.

Only two gangs have been located by the police. One of the men in the first group belonged to the Spandau garrison, and he has told an extraordinary story of seeing three suspicious looking men with a box near the citadel one night. He whistled and they dropped the box and bolted. Later, with his own friends to help, he managed to get the box to Berlin. Then the confederates changed the notes into German money in all parts of the country. He himself bought a country house with a large garden and he still had a large sum left when arrested.

Another man, whose share was turned into 185,000 marks, had 125,000 marks when caught.

By the capture of the second gang about 5,000,000 lei was traced. In a romantic tale, their leader, a tradesman, says he was asked by the Chairman of the Spandau Workers' and Soldiers' Council (afterward shot while trying to escape) to get a box with 5,000,000 lei to the Brussels Socialists for revolutionary propaganda. He got 100,000 lei and turned it into 45,000 marks. With others he tried to smuggle 750,000 marks into Holland. Finally their leaders got 3,000,000 lei into Austria and in Vienna when arrested he still had over 2,000,000 lei in his possession.

MEXICO TO DEMAND ESTRADA CABRERA

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 15.—The Mexican Government, it is announced, will demand the extradition of Ex-President Estrada Cabrera of Guatemala, who is charged with directing the murder of the Guatemalan General, Barillas, in Mexico City in 1907. The assassin was captured and executed, but before his death he declared that he was ordered by Cabrera to kill Barillas, who was the most popular man in Guatemala. The assassin followed Barillas for months until he found him in Mexico City. By this murder Cabrera removed his most dangerous rival.

President de la Huerta has authorized a denial of reports that he was about to resign.

The President has ordered the suppression of the usual popular fiestas celebrating the anniversary of the independence of Mexico on Sept. 15 and 16. In the past the Government usually spent hundreds of thousands of pesos providing open-air entertainments in all parts of the city, but de la Huerta has ordered that the moneys which otherwise would be spent in this way be delivered to Government charities for the betterment of hospitals, &c.

The President, through Señor Lugo, Secretary of the Interior, has advised leaders of political factions now occupying seats in Congress that when the credentials of the newly elected members are discussed the law must be strictly followed. Congressmen who were elected by the wishes of the people must be accepted without regard to political affiliations, he asserted. This action by the President recalls the action of leaders in the last Congress who refused to accept certain members elected by popular vote as members of the opposition parties.

It is officially confirmed that Estekan Cantu, rebel Governor of Lower California, has agreed to surrender to Luis Salazar, a native of Lower California, who had been appointed acting Governor until the wishes of the inhabitants are consulted.

Carranza followers are reported to have planned to start a new movement today (Sunday) at Border Points, but General Calles, Ministeer of War, states that as his department had warning in time all officers were warned and he does not think any movement will take place. He regards it as a bluff.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 15 (Associated Press).—Francisco Murguia, Francisco Urquizo, Francisco de P. Mariel and Frederico Montes, followers of the late President Cararnza, and Manuel M. Dieguez, former commander of Government troops in Northern Mexico, have been dropped from the roll of the army, according to an official announcement.

Francisco Murguia, Francisco Urquizo, Francisco de P. Mariel and Federico Montes, followers of the late President Carranza, and Manuel M. Dieguez, former commander of Government troops in Northern Mexico, have been dropped from the roll of the army, according to an official announcement.

All officers who have fled from the country have also been divested of their military honors, the announcement says.

The first four men are now incarcerated in the military prison here and are awaiting trial on charges arising out of the tragic death of the former President.

SEIZE MORE RUM IN HARMON

State Police Arrest Three Men in Truck—Fourth Raid in Week.

For the fourth time in a week, the State police seized liquor yesterday that was being transported through Harmon in an automobile truck. Twenty cases of whisky were confiscated and two men were arrested. They gave their names as Rufus Guteo of Canajoharie, and Dominic Frederick of Schenectady.

The charge against the men is transporting liquor without a permit. The seizure was made by Sergeant Daniel Faber's squad of the State Constabulary.

A man who said he was Thomas Kirkly of this city and his negro assistant were arrested in the cottage section of Atlantic City yesterday on a charge of violating the prohibition law. The negro was carrying two satchels containing quart bottles of stuff said to be whisky and which was offered at $20 a bottle. The price was not attractive and the peddlers did not do much business. United States Commissioner Lewis held the men in $300 bail each.

See how perfectly HOPEWELL fits

your ideas of an ideal factory site

Make a rough layout of your ideal factory site. Indicate the location of building or buildings, railway siding, tidewater pier, and other essential features.

Then lay this pattern on a map of Hopewell and see how perfectly it fits in and ties up with the general advantages that the entire Hopewell community enjoys.

Your railway siding will have direct connection with a trunk line. Your tidewater pier will be upon a navigable river, your buildings will be on acreage with room for expansion. Your workers' homes will be ideally located and already built. Your sources of raw materials, fuel and pure water will be close at hand or economically transported.

In addition to all this, the Hopewell factory site is in a district where good American labor is readily obtainable. Electric power in any quantity is available at reasonable rates. Freight rates compare favorably with the largest industrial centres.

These are but a few factors that make Hopewell the ideal factory location. There are many other practical features which your investigation will disclose.

The following industries have located at Hopewell since January 1st and are now operating and preparing to operate:

Electric Insulation
High Grade China
Cotton and Wool Waste
Burlap Bag Reclamation
Artificial Silk
Steel Tools

They asked about transportation facilities and freight rates, labor and housing, buildings, water, fuel, raw material sources, fire protection, local banking facilities and what not.

They came to us in a "show me" frame of mind. And they saw for themselves that Hopewell was a unique development, intelligently planned, conscientiously executed.

BISHOP LLOYD GOES BACKTOPARISHWORK

PREVIOUS SALARY $10,000

Was in Line for Promotion as Permanent Assistant to Head of Diocese of New York.

Bishop Arthur S. Lloyd, until recently President of the Board of Missions of the Episcopal Church, has been called to the rectorship of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church, White Plains, N. Y. Bishop Lloyd has accepted the call, and will begin his duties as rector of this parish on Sunday, Sept. 12. Almost immediately after Bishop Lloyd resigned as President of the Board of Missions he was invited by the Right Rev. Charles S. Burch, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of New York, to become his temporary assistant. His service terminates Sept. 1.

It is unusual that an Episcopal Bishop should go back into parish work, and especially into a small church. His salary as President of the Board of Missions was $10,000 and his home was a beautiful apartment at 1 Lexington Avenue, this city. At White Plains there is only a portable church, but a permanent parish house. The communicants number about 300. Plans are under way, however, to build a stone church and a stone rectory.

St. Bartholemew's has had a phenomenal growth. It was organized as a mission in May, 1915, by the late Rev. R. M. Sherman. In November of the same year it was admitted into full union with the Episcopal Diocese of New York. The senior warden and treasurer of the parish is Godwin DeGray of 100 West New York Post Road, and it was he who was chiefly responsible for securing Bishop Lloyd as rector.

Bishop Lloyd has announced that he expects to spend the rest of his working years as rector in White Plains. That eliminates him for the office of either coadjutor or suffragan bishop of the Diocese of New York, to either of which offices there seemed a strong possibility he might be elected. With no one to assist Bishop Burch, it is likely that, instead of waiting until next May to elect another bishop, a special convention may be called this Winter, or even this Fall, for that purpose.

Bishop Lloyd is a native of Virginia. He was educated in the University of Virginia and the Virginia Theological Seminary. He was ordained in 1880 and was a missionary in the Diocese of Virginia for the next four years. He was rector of St. Luke's, Norfolk, for fifteen years. He served as Secretary of the Board of Missions for the next ten years. In 1909 he was consecrated Coadjutor Bishop of Virginia. He resigned on his election as President of the Board of Missions, with headquarters at 281 Fourth Avenue, this city. He will retain the rank of retired bishop.

FRANCE WELCOMES KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Cardinal Says Visit Means French-American Unity on Polish and Other Questions.

PARIS, Aug. 15.—The Knights of Columbus delegates who will represent the organization at the dedication of the Knights of Columbus Lafayette statue at Metz on August 21, arrived here shortly after 5 o'clock this evening.

The delegates, who came to France from the United States on the French liner Leopoldina, were welcomed at the railroad station by government officials and were received by Cardinal Amette, Archbishop of Paris, at his residence tonight. They will start on an extensive program tomorrow.

Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty of Philadelphia presented a letter to Cardinal Amette from Cardinal Gibbons. Cardinal Amette said he took the visit of the Knights to mean that "America stands with France on all international questions, including the Polish question."

Besides the formal welcome, the French Government has undertaken to make the Knights' visit as pleasant as possible. All red tape connected with their landing and all customs regulations were waived.

Marshal Foch has detailed an aide de camp to act as guide during the tour of the battlefields, on which the Knights will start Thursday.

Old Promenaders on the Boardwalk at Atlantic City

sometimes tell the younger generation an incident of the famous Sydney Smith's speech upon the English Parliament's vote to reject a Reform bill.

The learned gentleman said: "The attempt of the Lords to stop the progress of reform reminds me very forcibly of the great storm of Sidmouth, and of the conduct of the excellent Mrs. Partington on that occasion. In the Winter of 1824 there set in a great flood upon that town—the tide rose to an incredible height—the waves rushed in upon the houses—everything was threatened with destruction.

"In the midst of this sublime and terrible storm Dame Partington, who lived upon the beach, was seen at the door of her house with mop and pattens squeezing out the sea water, and vigorously pushing away the Atlantic Ocean. The Atlantic was roused. Mrs. Partington's spirit was up; but I need not tell you that the contest was unequal. The Atlantic beat Mrs. Partington. She was excellent at a slop, or a puddle, but she should not have meddled with a tempest."

But when the women of the United States combine together for the Red Cross and the emergencies of humanity, or any great idea, they are unconquerable. Don't you forget it!

Has its own story to tell

NOTE—Every hair mattress, every box spring, every pillow we sell is made in our own factory—one of the greatest Bedding factories of the country—established when the store itself was established in New York. We are the largest users in America of hair for retail bedding. We have first choice of all manufactured hair. Manufacturers spin hair to our specifications, which are more exacting, and call for more care, than the usual specifications. All bedding we make, or handle, is in the August Sale at 10 to 20 per cent. below our regular prices—14 grades of hair mattresses, 20 kinds of felt and other mattresses, 5 grades of box springs, 21 grades of wire springs, 12 grades feather and down pillows.

First, special examples of Bedding in the Sale

Best black horse hair mattresses, $46.40
Pure South American horse hair mattresses, $36
Best black mixed hair mattresses, $35.20
Good black mixed hair mattresses, $28.80

Cotton Felt Mattresses, $17.50

"Peerless" Box Springs, $25.60

Feather Pillows, $3.50

Now take a walk through our Bedding Factory

It is eight stories above the street, with big windows and plenty of them, giving light and fresh air. It is high-ceilinged, about 200 ft. wide, and stretching from Broadway right through to Lafayette Street.

Every employee in it is an expert in his or her practical line. What is more, each is an expert in thoroughness—they're long time Wanamaker work-people.

Here's the long cutting-table, where the ticking for mattresses is cut. Clip, clip—the scissors are going all the time.

Next, to the filling table—

All our filling is done by hand

The required grade of hair is brought to the table, unbaled and weighed, then—although it was cleaned and sterilized before coming to us—it is forced through the hair picker, the good hair dropping, foreign particles and dust darting up into the fan-sucked opening leading to the dust-chamber on the roof.

Now the clean hair is stuffed into the ticking, handful by handful. The finger-tips of our mattress-fillers have eyes and brain. They know just how to spread the hair so that it will be uniformly even—no lumps.

Then the long needle with stout thread darts through ticking and hair, threads are pulled tight, and the mattress is pushed into a rack, waiting for the needlewoman to sew the opening up.

If you want the finest kind of mattress, filled with 50 lbs. of hand-picked black horse hair, with lamb's wool top and bottom, Imperial edge, and eyeletted and laced so that it may be lossened or tightened to suit the sleeper, then there will be more detail—and it will cost you more—$94.50 in August (more after the sale closes).

Here's a man hammering together spruce boards, every one planed on four sides. He is making a box-spring frame. He does nothing else—during working hours (they tell me he's a fine pitcher).

Into these frames other men fix the best Bessemer steel springs, black Japanned and knotted, tied together and to the rattan edge by stout Italian spring twine.

The whole thing is then covered with 12 oz. burlap topped with good long goat's hair, sterilized (horse hair in the finest grades), and covered with 8 oz. ticking in any one of a score or more designs.

Pillows—round the corner.

The feathers and down come to us clean, but—we are best satisfied when we do things ourselves. Into the duster they go. Any dust in them is paddled out. Out of the duster they're drawn into the steamer, where steam is shot into them as they revolve, and they are sterilized and curled. Then the hot air dries them, and they are blown into bins, according to grade.

Pillow covers are filled from the bins, pillows weighed, sewed up—and there you are, a grateful rest for your head which will soothe the mind to slumber.

Bale upon bale of hair—tons of springs—bin after bin of feathers—racks of ticking and spruce and burlap—it's a busy place.

Busy in the people's service.

The "boss" started the factory when it was established in New York in 1896. He knows his business just as surely as we know that some one from Ohio is going to be our next President.

We have searched the whole world for ideas, but we haven't found anywhere anyone making better bedding than we do nor any factory organization doing more efficient work.

There's usually only one reason for doing the biggest business of its kind in the country.

Touring Managers' Association Agrees to Grant Terms Originally Asked For.

VICTORY FOR TRAVELERS

Same Conditions Enjoyed by Actors in New York Now Assured to Smaller Companies.

The Actors' Equity Association announced yesterday that an agreement had been reached between that body and the Touring Managers' Association, following negotiations of several weeks. The Touring Managers' Association is composed mainly of producers who send one-night attractions on the road, and the New York stage is practically untouched by it. Certain concessions, particularly in the matter of the eight-performance clause, were asked by the managers, and it appeared for a time as though a strike might be called against these producers. The association has now formally adopted the Equity contract.

Frank Gilmore, Executive Secretary of the Equity, said last night:

"The acceptance by the Touring Managers' Association of our standard contract means that the same conditions under which the New York actors work will prevail for the smaller actors who play the one-night stands. This is in line with our democratic policy of equal rights for all. We are, of course, glad that the Touring Managers have accepted our contracts and felt sure they will soon come to realize the wisdom and justice of their action."

John Emerson, President of the Equity, said:

"It was impossible for our members to grant the concessions asked for by the Touring Managers, as the standardization of working conditions for all our members is one of our cardinal principles.

"We are glad that the Touring Managers have accepted our standard contract without forcing us to the necessity of any drastic action. So long as the Touring Managers treat us fairly, they will certainly receive fair treatment from us.

"It is obviously unjust to make the working conditions of the traveling actor harder than those of the New York actor, and I feel sure the Touring Managers will soon come to realize this."

ACTORS APPEAL TO WILSON.

Hardships Imposed by Higher Railroad Rates Called "The Last Straw."

The alleged injustice which the new railroad rates would work against theatrical producers has been called to the attention of President Wilson by the Producing Managers' Association, and it was said yesterday by John Golden that Secretary Tumulty had written him that the President had directed that the matter be taken up with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Since the announcement of the new rates many theatrical managers have declared that they would greatly reduce the number of travelling theatrical companies. Mr. Golden in his letter to Mr. Wilson declared that this means that the best produced plays will be seen in only the four big cities where long runs are possible.

In a statement issued yesterday Mr. Golden further characterized the new rates "as the last straw."

THE SCREEN

Boys, dogs, cats and other semi-domestic animals are good motion picture subjects when photographed naturally, because by nature they are endowed with free and unconscious charms which the camera can catch for the screen. If they are trained to be "smart," to do things not natural to them, they lose their charm and are interesting, when not depressing, only to the extent that their tricks excite curiosity as to the methods of their trainers. One of the motion picture directors who, apparently, does not believe in training boys and dogs and cats, but prefers to have them play naturally before his camera, is William Desmond Taylor, who is chiefly and most deservedly known for his picturization of the Mark Twain stories, the last and probably best of which was "Huckleberry Finn." Another of Mr. Taylor's works, "The Soul of Youth," is at the Rivoli this week, and, despite the solemn self-importance of its title and other obtruding artificialities, it is in the main a picture of boys, about boys in their natural and irresistible state, particularly about one boy and his chum and his dog, who are the life and the only—and entirely sufficient—reason for being of the story.

The part of the principal boy is played by Lewis Sargent, Mr. Taylor's find for the rôle of Huck Finn, and it is earnestly to be hoped that he never learns to act—not until he is full-grown, anyhow. Lewis impresses one as a natural, attractively ugly "kid," who has not yet been spoiled by sophistication and to a large extent is unconscious of his effects. Like him, to some extent, is Ernest Butterworth, who plays the part of his chum, and the dog—no particular breed, just dog—seems delightfully free from proficiency in "shaking hands," "begging," and all the other tricks by which animals are deprived of their refreshing naturalness.

For the most entertaining part of the picture the two boys and the dog are street ragamuffins, snatching a living where they may, sleeping in a "home" made of two piano boxes pulled together, and thoroughly enjoying themselves until they come into conflict with the grown-up world and have to follow its ways. Into this part of the picture is brought Judge Ben Lindsey and his Juvenile Court, and there are several scenes of the Judge and his method of dealing with recalcitrant youngsters. The appearance of Judge Lindsey increases the topical interest in the picture and in itself does not detract from the interest in the boys and their dog, but a political melodrama and a movie "romance" have been loaded on the main story and seriously interfere with it. Whenever a scene of the melodrama or "romance" suddenly comes between scenes of the boys one is a bit bewildered, and inclined to ask impatiently, "How did that get in here?" The impression is that the man in the projection room has mixed up his reels and started on the wrong photoplay. Also, although much of the sentiment of the picture is sound and wholesome, at times there is a mawkishness and insincerity about it that is repellant.

However, Mr. Taylor has made many excellent scenes, his subjects, for the most part, are at their natural best, and "The Soul of Youth" succeeds in overcoming the obstacles placed in its way. Except in places quickly passed over it is thoroughly enjoyable.

On the Rivoli program, and also at the Rialto, is a Chaplin revival, "The Adventurer," which makes one wish, between laughs, that the screen's best comedian would get to work and do what everyone knows he is capable of. There is a slap-stick coarse humor in "The Adventurer," but also some of Chaplin's most irresistible pantomime.

Another automobile story on a dead level with many that have gone before it, so far as its plot and people are concerned, but raised above them by a succession of exceptionally well-made scenes is at the Rialto this week—"What's Your Hurry?" with Wallace Reid in the leading rôle, directed by Sam Wood, from "The Hippopotamus Parade," a story by Byron Morgan. The hero's chief performance this time is with motor trucks, rather than racing cars, and the story gets out of the rut and runs free when he pilots five lumbering trucks over muddy roads through a downpour of rain to deliver emergency materials at a dam about to break and flood a valley in which many families are innocently celebrating Christmas Eve. In picturing the progress of the trucks, the struggle at the dam and the contrasting festivity in the endangered houses and in assembling his scenes, Mr. Wood has displayed noteworthy cinematographic skill. "What's Your Hurry?" winds up with a genuine thrill.

Carlyle Moore's farce of laughable larceny, "Stop Thief," has been made into an amusing motion picture with Tom Moore the attractive pickpocket and burglar of the leading rôle. It is at the Capitol this week, where also may be seen "The Path of '49" as traveled today, and a slap-stick Larry Semon comedy, "The Stage Hand," which, in one part, tries to make cruelty to animals funny.

SIX LURED BY HEAT TO DEATH IN THE SEA

FATALITY AT LONG BEACH

Girl Loses Life in East River at Astoria—Canoe Strikes Woman Teacher in the Eye.

Coney Island had its full quota of visitors yesterday, for fully 300,000 people, it was estimated, went down for a swim, a long siesta on the sands or a good time on the scenic railway. Three men lost their lives, drowned, two boys got into quicksand but were rescued, and a careless canoeist paddled his craft into a young woman bather, injuring her left eye. Besides these tragedies and near-tragedies, thirty-three men were fined $10 each by Magistrate Geismer for gambling, and Agnes Garrett, 15 years old, was found in an elevated train at Brighton Beach, having been missing since Thursday from her parents' home, 151 West Fifty-third Street, Manhattan.

Arthur Orr, 38, of 1,400 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, struck a spiked plank when he dived off a pier at the foot of Emmons Avenue. The spike penetrated the jugular vein, killing him instantly. He was employed as a clerk by the Edison Company, Fifteenth Street and Irving Place. While in swimming off West Twenty-third Street, Moses Pimlansky, 18, a bookkeeper, of 310 Madison Street, Manhattan, was seized with cramps and drowned, all efforts to resuscitate him failing. Another death from cramps was that of James Marcantonie, 78 Catharine Street, Manhattan, who was seized while bathing at the foot of Stauch's Walk. His body was taken to the Coney Island Morgue.

Two boys dived into quicksand from their rowboat below West Thirty-second Street, but were dragged out by policemen and fellow bathers. They gave their names as William Bersico, 14, of 306 West Thirty-third Street, Manhattan, and John Sullivan, 14, of 642 Eighth Avenue, Manhattan.

The large number of bathers at Coney Island, almost seventy-five thousand, was probably due largely to yesterday's being Assumption Day, upon which bathing is said to be good for those suffering from any sort of affliction. Many cripples and blind people were noticed along the beach.

After being struck in the eye by a canoe, Miss Florence Sullivan, a schoolteacher, of 248 Thirteenth Street, Brooklyn, was taken from the water and treated by a doctor from the Coney Island Hospital. She returned to her home.

The death of Mrs. Esther Lipkin, 1414 Forty-fourth Street, Brooklyn, who was struck by an automobile at the Island Saturday evening, was reported from the Coney Island Hospital. She was pinned against a tree at Twentieth Street and Mermaid Avenue when a machine driven by Max Brimberg, of 7602 Twentieth Avenue, Bensonhurst, tried to avoid another car and ran onto the sidewalk. The autoist was not arrested.

There was one drowning at Long Beach. Paul Engile, a chauffeur, of 133 Jamaica Avenue, went down while swimming in front of the Trouville Club. His body was not recovered. Along the East River one man had a narrow escape from drowning. Otto Schonert, 23 years old, of 103 Irving Avenue, Brooklyn, was bathing in the river just off Eighth Avenue and Shore Road, when a young woman noticed that he had disappeared from sight several hundred feet from the shore. He was brought in by other bathers, and after half an hour's work of resuscitation he showed faint signs of life and was rushed to the Flushing Hospital, where he was reported last night to be recovering.

While in bathing with other children, Tillie Bogbansky, 13 years old, whose parents live at 218 East Twenty-eighth Street, Manhattan, was drowned in the East River at the foot of Woolsey Street, Astoria. Attempts to recover her body were unsuccessful. Little is known of the accident, but it is thought the little girl was taken with cramps. The other children were too small to aid her.

Rockaway Beach had only half the number of bathers that visited Coney Island, the total there being given as 130,000. There was one drowning, Robert A. Cochrane, 19 years old, of 97 Clinton Place, Brooklyn, swimming out beyond the life-lines and failing to return. A brother, John, told the police that he had last seen Cochrane beyond the lines at the foot of Beach Street.

The following persons were rescued from the undertaw at Rockaway Beach during the day: Anna Strifle, 17, who lives at the beach; Peter Zabriskie, 39, also a beach resident, and Jacob Cohen, 20, of 337 East 137th Street, the Bronx. Cohen was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Far Rockaway, where he received treatment, returning to his home soon afterward.

TELL OF HOWARD'S SUICIDE.

Friends on Ship Say Express Manager Was Despondent.

The suicide of Adam B. Howard, General Manager of the American Express Company in South America, previously reported by wireless, was confirmed yesterday when the Munson Line steamship Martha Washington docked at Hoboken from Brazil and Argentine ports.

Howard's wife, who had been ill, came here from South America recently and went to friends in Newburg, N. Y., at whose home she is seriously ill. Her husband left Buenos Aires on July 26 to join her and was bidden farewell by friends, to whom he expressed his belief that he would not see her again, as she would be dead before he could reach New York. Mr. Howard occupied a stateroom which he shared with Walter M. Waskom, representative of the National City Bank at Port Alegre, Brazil, and he had another friend on board, Robert F. Barrett, Vice President of the Portalis Company, bankers at Buenos Aires. Mr. Barrett told reporters that Howard had been despondent over his wife's illness and was also suffering with hallucinations that the American Express Company was bankrupt because of the way he had managed the South American business for the past four years.

Dr. Samuel H. Hodgson, the ship's surgeon, said that shortly after leaving Buenos Aires Howard told him he intended to commit suicide. The surgeon thought he was not in earnest, but he reported it to the commander, Francis E. Cross, and a steward was told off to keep watch over him.

When the Martha Washington arrived at Rio de Janeiro on July 30, Howard seemed more cheerful and said that he would go ashore and take a long walk. He cashed some money orders, bought some clothes and presents and returned to the ship. After tea at 4 o'clock he again became melancholy and told his friend, Mr. Barret, and Hubert Beckett, the purser, that he intended to end his life and would not live to see America again. When he did not come down to dinner that night the steward went to his cabin and found him sitting on the side of his bed holding his head in his hands.

"Are you coming in to dinner, Mr. Howard?" asked the steward.

"I will be along presently, after I have changed my clothing," was the reply, and those were the last words that Howard was heard to speak on board the Martha Washington. He was last seen by another steward putting on his new clothes.

When he had not made his appearance in the dining saloon by 7:45 the steward went to the cabin again and found it empty. The alarm was given and the captain ordered a search made all over the ship, but no trace of the missing passenger could be found. It is believed that Howard went into the bathroom adjoining his cabin and climbed out of a window onto the deck, and jumped overboard while the passengers were at dinner. He left his wife's picture and a considerable sum of money lying on his bed underneath the pillow.

Mr. Howard was 37 years old and was one of the best known Americans in the Argentine.

PEERLESS

Peerless Eight Bodies Are Built In the Peerless Works

There are many reasons why the Peerless Two-Power Range Eight carries the distinctive appearance and refinement of the highest priced cars, one of which is that the Peerless bodies are built entirely in the Peerless Works.

Peerless bodies are standardized and are built in such quantities that the cost of production is minimized in spite of the fact that only the best materials are used and the most exacting attention to detail is demanded.

Five types of bodies are provided and all are adapted to the Peerless standard eight cylinder chassis, making a combination that absolutely assures a beautiful, comfortable and dependable motor car.

The demand for the Peerless Two-Power Range Eight is so great that it is imperative that the prospective purchaser place his order at once to assure a reasonably prompt delivery.

Goethals, Wells & Co., Inc.

150 Nassau Street, New York

Gen. George W. Goethals, President

GOETHALS, WELLS & COMPANY, Inc., is a subsidiary of George W. Goethals & Company, Inc. It is composed of a group of men with records of achievement in engineering and construction.

Range of Operations: It undertakes the design and management of construction of all classes of engineering and building projects.

Complete Service: Begins at the inception of a project and carries through to the completed structure, creating designs, managing construction, and in certain classes of structures planning production lay-outs, selecting and installing machinery and establishing methods of operation.

Fixed Fee: Goethals, Wells & Company, Inc., works upon a fee, fixed in advance by contract for its complete service. It acts as technical agents for the owner either (a) employing special contractors for each class of work, or (b) organizing a construction force, paid by the owner and directed by Goethals, Wells & Company, Inc., or (c) by combination of these methods. This fee will in the general case be lower than the aggregate of fees otherwise paid for technical services.

Lower Aggregate Cost: The cost of the structure is less because construction is done by the organization responsible for the design, thereby eliminating costly errors and revisions. This advantage is particularly apparent where the lay-out and installation of machinery are involved. In certain classes of structures, the Goethals' plan of operations begins with the study of the production methods to be used, and builds the plant to fit. Expensive changes in buildings or inefficient arrangement of equipment are often made necessary when a plant is designed without expert knowledge of the manufacturing processes.

Time Saved: This method of operation also permits of considerable saving of time. Construction can often be started before all details of the plan are completed. Interruptions due to lack of coordination between designers and contractors are avoided.

TO EDUCATE OUR RULERS.

With ratification of the Suffrage Amendment now virtually assured, the country will begin to ask, What next is to be done? One answer is suggested by the historic remark of ROBERT LOWE, when male suffrage was greatly extended in England fifty years ago. He had fought the bill with a series of powerful and brilliant speeches, but when defeat came to him he accepted it with good grace. The new voters had come, and the only question was what to do with them. LOWE said: "We must now educate our rulers."

The education of our new women voters is largely their own affair. They would not receive it from the hands of inferior man. But the wiser ones among them know that their sex has a vast deal to learn and to take to heart before the political responsibilities to be laid upon it can be measured up to. The attainment of the right of suffrage is only the beginning of a long experiment, beset by many difficulties. Some of them are appalling. There is, for example, the question of the colored woman in the South. There are the foreign-born women of the great cities in the North. There are the sheltered classes and the ignorant classes. Will they not feel "the weight of too much liberty"? Plainly, the work of educating our rulers cannot be undertaken too soon or pursued too long.

Some lessons for them lie obvious to the eye. They are taught by the very activity of women in politics, in the effort to secure the vote. This work has inevitably been that of agitators. And it has been attended by methods which the women ought now to drop. We mean the intolerance, the intense sex-consciousness, the angry assaults, the resentments, the absorption in a single aim which have too often marked — and marred — the suffrage cause. With the vote won, there will be no need for the employment of such weapons, if there ever was. The women voters must expect to merge into the general mass. They can no longer stand as a class, or "interest," apart. The more sagacious of their leaders are happily of this mind. They have frowned upon anything like the idea of founding a distinctive Woman's Party. The peculiar influence of women will, of course, continue to be exerted in their own way in our political life; but, once dowered with the full rights of citizens, they ought to think of themselves, politically, as merely a part of the electorate. CHARLES SUMNER once declared indignantly that he was a man before he was a Commissioner. The new female voters should feel hereafter that they are citizens before they are women.

Their attitude toward public office is another subject in which they ought to seek sound instruction. A gloomy publicist in Kansas, where the women have for some time been voting, predicts that the number of Government officials of all kinds will soon be doubled, as a result of woman suffrage, in order to make "places" for the new voters. Not if they are the good and economical housekeepers that they have promised to be in politics. To certain offices they are entitled to aspire, and doubtless will. But they ought to see, as the best of them who have tried it have seen, that they have nearly everything to learn about the conduct of public business, and that office-seeking should come after competence to fill offices has been acquired and demonstrated.

It is easy to imagine the swift retort of sharp-tongued suffragists. Have men voters ever given heed to these beautiful counsels? Have they scorned the thought of office for which they were not fully qualified? Could women voters ever be more cliquish and freakish and ineffectual than the Forty-Eight, or the foppish male dalliers with revolution and anarchy? But, begging the pardon of the ladies, all this is admitted. And what is asked of them is to show large-mindedness enough to see this whole question in the round, and to model themselves, not upon erring male voters, but upon the truest conception of the conscientious citizen in a democratic State. Only so can they remove the fears and confute the reasoning of those who have opposed woman suffrage, but who are now ready to hope that the new voters—the new rulers—will enter the hard school of experience and fit themselves for the duties soon to be laid upon their graceful shoulders.

PAYS AND IS ALSO RIGHT.

Governor COOLIDGE made an excellent speech, rich in the gnomic general good sense and sagacious expression in which he abounds, when speaking to the Republican Club of Massachusetts, yet his peroration smacks of that audience, and seems more than a little queer, almost naïve:

> The decision in this election will turn, not on an attitude toward world politics, but on the attitude toward the home. The wives and mothers of the land, directly or indirectly, are going to exert a mighty influence on the result of this campaign. They wait to learn to what policies and what man they can most confidently intrust the welfare and the protection of the home. They believe in patriotism and common sense. They are American through and through, but there is a sympathy there as broad as humanity, which nourishes the missionary spirit. Ultimately they will make their choice, and they will make it according to the Republican standard, not in response to the inquiry, "Will it pay?" but in response to that other inquiry which searches the soul of the universe, "Is it right?"

In short, what is Republican is right, and you nourish the missionary spirit and show broad humanity by sulking away in attempted isolation from the other nations of the world. You protect the home by refusing to take part in the generous plan to shut out from it its immemorial invaders—war, the crippling, mutilation, blindness, death of brothers and husbands, sons and fathers. And the welfare of the home is to be assured by the increase of taxation, by further periodical inflation of the cost of living. Must it not occur to a multitude of Republican women that the League of Nations is the cardinal means of securing the protection of the home? Will they not ask of the opposition to that League, "Is it right?" Will they not find that the League is not only right, but that it will pay to have it, if giant armaments, taxes, wars, famines, disease and death by the million, can be lessened, averted, prevented?

Governor COOLIDGE has unconsciously stated in terms the case of the friends of the League. Only there are not two questions for the protectors of home welfare to choose between. It will pay and it is right. The frightened Republicans are naturally eager that the election shall not turn on that issue. The more they protest against it, the more they show their uneasy consciousness of their error in mistaking the sentiments of millions of their own party.

BRITISH LABOR "BLUFF."

There has been a deal of bluster about direct action by the Trades Union and Labor Party extremists. Trades Union Congresses are apt to put the question by. Usually the threat of unconstitutional means is understood to be a club to make the Government docile to labor demands. Last March the special Trades Union Congress, called to decide if trades union action in favor of nationalization of the mines should be "direct," voted No by a majority of 2,820,000. The Triple Alliance was cold to it then. The success of the Government and the public in the case of the strike of the railwaymen last year had stiffened Mr. LLOYD GEORGE's spine. The London and Liverpool police strike was an illustration of direct action sufficient to disgust the majority of the British electorate.

Mr. J. H. THOMAS, M. P., head of the Railwaymen's Union, discouraged direct action until recently. Mr. THOMAS RICHARDS, M. P., General Secretary of the Welsh Miners' Federation, said in February that "the "British workingman is the freest "subject on GOD's earth, and to follow the direct action will o' the wisp "will ruin him and put progress back "a hundred years." Now the second Labor Conference, presided over with admirable and humorous appropriateness by the Chairman of the Parliamentary Labor Party, intrusts to the "Council of Action" the powers of all the trades union executives. If the Government makes war on Russia, a general strike will be called.

The conference chiefs must marvel at their boldness. "A desperate and dangerous method." A "challenge "to the whole Constitution of the "country," cries the no longer doubting THOMAS, thrilled with his own intrepidity. "I would rather act in "an unconstitutional manner than go "to war and go to hell under the "forms of the British Constitution," shrieks our old, always heated friend, Mr. ROBERT WILLIAMS of the Transport Workers. Never was the resolve to be heroic and to do something really devilish made with less risk. Mr. LLOYD GEORGE's Government can't be dragged into war with the Bolshevist saints. The British generally have had more than enough of war. If the labor magnificos had sworn to take to direct action in case the Government put through Parliament a bill to dry up the English Channel, they would hardly be more absurd and thrasonical.

A manoeuvre, political and economic: that seems to be the explanation of this halcyon and vociferous proceeding. The British Labor Party—there are three or four other Labor Parties—has been going downhill this year. It has lost by-election after by-election. Political labor is split up into a number of organizations, some hostile to the official party. The roseate dream of a Labor Government has faded. What is called by the cynics the "salariate," the "black-coated" workers, the salaried class, has been deaf to the invitations of the Labor Party. Interest must be stirred up. The pretended fondness for the Russian Communists seems like a pose, an advertisement, a defiance—and an appeal. "Don't forget us," the Labor politicians and journalists seem to be saying to the Government; "we may be getting weaker in the "House of Commons, but what a stir "we are making in the country and "the world." Even the kick given by the Third Internationale hasn't soured their professional love for Bolshevism, but what could be more comical than to see these chronic dissenters agreeing with the Government and menacing it with desperate remedies if it does what it has no intention of doing?

The trades union leaders have got so much from Mr. LLOYD GEORGE, almost always ready to saddle new millions on the British taxpayer for their benefit, and the weariness of the public with these continuous doles is so great, that this new assertion of the power of the unions may be regarded as a warning to the Government and the non-unionized part of the community. The daughters of the horseleech are only beginning their system of financial phlebotomy.

Immediately, the menace of the "Council of Action's" terrors looks merely ludicrous. If direct action on a national scale is ever seriously tried; if the union chiefs try to substitute unelected labor tyranny for constitutional government, they will hear from the British people, from the majority of workers.

THE HARDING OF CANADA.

Whether or not Canadians are like Americans, a certain resemblance in the public life of the two nations is suggested by a speech lately delivered at Stirling, Ontario, by the new Premier, Mr. ARTHUR MEIGHEN. The sentiments of this speech reveal some intellectual kinship between Mr. MEIGHEN and the candidate whom the leaders of the Republican Convention dealt their party out of the discard. On the surface, indeed, they are far apart. At this same meeting the Canadian Minister of Agriculture somewhat tactlessly described his chief as "one "of the brightest young men of this "country," a description which we may be sure Senator LODGE did not employ in commending his colleague to those who gathered with him in the smoke-filled room. MEIGHEN seems to be a fighter. He goes right out on the hunt for his opponents and tells them what he thinks about them, instead of shedding avuncular tears, like Mr. HARDING, over their unwillingness to see the beauty of common things. He has the disadvantage of a party record to defend, instead of the misdeeds of opponents to attack, but he is a valorous defender. Yet there is the Harding touch.

Gazing down into the sea of faces, he begins: "It would be hard to imagine "an audience more representative of "Canadian life. Men and women are "here in about equal numbers."

From this he goes on with increasing vigor until the peroratorical demand: "I put the question to you, are you "going to be a nation builder or a nation wrecker?" We do not doubt that every one of the fifteen thousand went home breathing a vow that he (or she) was going to be a nation builder.

Mr. MEIGHEN devotes a few words to the National Liberal and Conservative Party. "It is Conservative and it is Liberal; it is national." One hears the envious sighs of those who are trying to rebuild at the factory a Republican party that shall be both conservative and liberal, radical and reactionary; that shall have a home for BORAH as well as one for BARNES; that shall be both for the League and against it at the same time, with an appeal equally irresistible to HERBERT HOOVER and HIRAM JOHNSON.

Both these great conservative-liberal two-ringed moral shows are rooted in the same principle, the protective tariff. The tariff opposition in Canada is composed of "free traders and fiscal humbugs." Of course, the tariff must be "reasonable"; but no "wreckers or theorists" must be allowed to tamper with it. Then a few words about the tried and true bulwarks of constitutional liberty: "We "cannot afford to sail our national "craft in uncharted seas. * * * Let "us gather in millions around institutions that we love. Let us gather "around a standard that we know and "that our forefathers knew." Reading thus far, one might think that but for the accident of birth Mr. MEIGHEN would now be receiving pilgrims on his front porch, and Marion, Ohio, would still be known only as a place thirty-five miles W. S. W. of Mansfield on the Pennsylvania, Erie and other railroads, with manufactures of furniture, steam engines, farming implements, and sash and blinds.

GOLF PUNDITS.

The golf comment brought out in the newspapers and elsewhere by this year's Open Championship has been unusually bewildering because unusually contradictory. When it looked, after the third round, as if VARDON would win, there was a great rush of the admirers of golfing "form." Now, you see, it's the perfect style that does it. Never mind VARDON's fifty years, he has got the sound method, he is the greatest "stylist" in golf, and you notice how he is leading the whole lot of them simply because he plays all his shots absolutely right. But the fifty years, or something, got in their deadly work with VARDON during the last eighteen holes, and along came the other English professional, RAY, to win the championship. Now, RAY has no "form" at all. He disobeys most of the rules; sways and lurches when he hits the ball. He is a horrible example rather than a model, yet somehow manages to apply his brute strength so as to outdrive everybody, style or no style.

Another point where the interpreters of the inner mysteries of golf differ has to do with the nervous system. There was the case of DIEGEL, for example, who could easily have beaten RAY if he had but played the last five holes moderately well. But at the fourteenth some ill-advised man went out to tell him RAY's final figures and to show him how easy it would be to go lower, and that was fatal. Exact knowledge of what he had to do was too much for DIEGEL's self-command, so that he threw away stroke after stroke. He should have been let alone to play his own game. Yet when Mr. TRAVERS won the Open Championship a few years ago he was told at the thirteenth hole that he had to go in from there one under par, and he proceeded to do it. To him, knowing precisely what was necessary was a tonic. But, then, the confuted pundit on the subject of golfing "nerve" will no doubt say: "Ah, but he was the lion-hearted JERRY, whereas DIEGEL now——"

Thus do the golfing technicians go round and round, and by whatever door they enter always come out at the same place. That only shows, however, they will say—just as everything else in the world shows it—what a wonderful game golf is.

MORTGAGES, RENTS AND BUILDING.

Mr. OTTO KAHN puts the weight of his authority against the proposal most generally favored for relief of the housing situation; that is, the exemption of mortgages from taxation. The volume of exemptions from taxation is already so great that the tax-gatherers can allow no more. Also, there are in existence exempt public mortgages preferable to exempt private mortgages. There is no better investment than private mortgages for those experienced in watching them, but small investors are liable to unhappy experiences in foreclosures which turn out to be purchases, and were designed to be so. Those liking mortgage investments have wide choice among securities guaranteed by responsible institutions which are active without tax exemption. There is plenty of mortgage money without exemption wherever there is a profitable equity. In fact, the abundance of such mortgage money is one of the reasons urged for mortgage tax exemption, because the money is thought to be attracted away from the relief of the housing situation. It might be attracted back again by retracing the method by which it was expelled; that is, by allowing profits to builders. They seldom are landlords for any longer than they have to be, since they build houses to sell. Landlords held on to their equities like grim death while they were renting below cost, but they abandoned the unequal struggle when the laws were framed against them, and renters were turned into proprietors without the responsibility of owners for interest, taxes and depreciation.

Nevertheless, the situation is not so hopeless as the lawmakers have done much to make it. Thousands now think about housing in a manner to which they have been strangers. They see that one protection against landlords and landlordism is to be landlords themselves. They can deduct their mortgage interest from their income tax, as landlords for investment cannot. They do not have to make profits, since they find them in security of tenure, and do not want nor expect to sell.

There is little house-building except by the very rich and the moderately well-to-do. Modest apartment units can be bought or built as well as family houses, and the most active operations are those conducted by land speculators, who not long ago were thought pests. Having supplied themselves with cheap land, they now can build at a profit because they can sell to those suffering from landlordism. The costliest and least efficient relief of the situation is through Government intervention. Governments do nothing cheap or well. For two years England has been struggling with a housing situation worse than ours, and has supplied with Government help 2,000 toward a deficiency of 500,000 houses.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Paying Freight on Diamonds.

The transatlantic passenger who was asked to pay "freight" on a parcel of diamonds which he had intrusted to the purser was surprised. He could not well be blamed for being so. If it had been a question of a fee for safe-keeping, he might have thought of it as equivalent to renting a safe deposit box while crossing the ocean. Or if the charge had taken the form of insurance, he could have understood it, even if he had thought it novel and unfair. But freight on diamonds! No wonder that he objected and refused to pay.

The scheme seems to be a variant of the practice of charging "all that the traffic will bear." For it was, of course, the value of the diamonds, not their bulk, that was made the basis of the bill presented to the traveler. It is clear, however, that the method may be pushed too far. Suppose some one were to bring over, not diamonds, but radium! On it an ad-valorem freight rate would make the Plumb plan look absolutely silly as a money-maker.

New Uses for the Baby Blimp.

A baby blimp, it should be understood, is not at all like a baby vamp, though both of them seem to flourish in the neighborhood of Los Angeles. From Long Beach, Cal., comes the story of Captain JOHN D. LOOP (probably a Chicago man by birth), who proposes to use the baby blimp, or petty dirigible, to hunt whales. The procedure seems almost shamefully devoid of risk; first you get your baby blimp, then you take up into it with you as much paraphernalia as if you were going to bomb Berlin, and you cruise out over the ocean in search of a whale. When he is flushed you don't stand off at a sportsmanlike range to take a shot at him; you fly right over him and drop an aerial harpoon bang in the middle of his back.

This, however, is only the beginning. A buoy is attached to the harpoon, so that if the whale becomes annoyed and goes under water to find more congenial company you can still trace his movements. Sooner or later he is bound to come up, for air, or to see how much progress Los Angeles Harbor has made while he was under water, or for whatever purpose whales do come to the surface. And when he has reappeared you at once attack him with a bomb gun and reduce him to submission.

The sensitive imagination shudders at thought of the language which old-timers of Nantucket and New Bedford would employ in characterizing this Californian invention. Still, these are days of efficiency. One can only wonder why the gallant Captain doesn't propose to make assurance doubly sure by utilizing the period of the whale's submergence to fly down close to the surface of the water and drop some poisoned seaweed where the whale will be sure to pick it up.

Et Tu, Berlin? Then Fall, Shakespeare.

Berlin, according to a correspondent of The London Times, "seems to have reached that stage when common sense gains the upper hand over hysterical extravagance." With a logic that may be closer than it seems, he adds: "The consequence is that the theatre is faced with a crisis." So meagre is the public response to common sense in drama that the leading moving picture firm, "Ufa," is planning to buy in "almost all the Berlin theatres"—after which, one must conclude, the reign of common sense stands to be measurably abated.

If one may judge, however, by the correspondent's description of "Julius Caesar" as produced by MAX REINHARDT, some precincts of the drama are still immune from that which Dr. JOHNSON described as the most uncommon sense of all. The production is at the great Playhouse, which seats 5,000. In the assassination scene an enormous staircase runs down the centre of the huge stage. When the conspirators begin upon Caesar he is up at the top of the staircase. As "the northern star unshaked of motion" reels downward and across the stage to the footlights his progress is punctuated and he is punctured step by step, "only to receive the final stab from Brutus when he is almost in the midst of the audience"—presumably out on the Japanese runway which is one of the favorite devices of MAX REINHARDT and our Winter Garden.

In the correspondent's opinion, this bit of stage management "deserves the use of that much-misused word 'magnificent,'" and he is more than a little put out with the Berlin critics who "have not been overgenerous" in praise of circus Shakespeare. In view of the menace of the movies, one must admit, any uncommon sense, including ground and lofty tumbling, should be welcomed in the classics.

The Fares of Other Days.

In England, too, railway fares are about to be raised, at even a higher percentage than in this country. Whether the consequent grumbling is higher there than here, it is impossible to decide. As an intended help in stilling it the newspapers are publishing the prices for transportation that travelers had to pay in pre-railway days. Thus, for the journey from London to Glasgow the "inside" passenger of 1812 had to pay about $52. Going no further than Newcastle from London cost the man inside the coach something like $28. In addition was the outlay for meals on the road and for the long list of expected tips to guards, coachmen, &c.

All this may be rather cold comfort to the man who sees passenger fares on the railways doubled. What has he got to do with stage-coach days? But the reminder is fair that, even with the vexing conditions which attend modern progress, it is, after all, a great progress that has been achieved.

Fresh Air for Those at Home.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

For a good many years there has been carried on a work that, in proportion to its cost, is of immense value to many children who must stay in the city in the Summer.

The Backyard Playgrounds Association has established, and in some cases maintained, a number of playgrounds in the backyards of old-fashioned tenement houses. One of the residents is the caretaker, who sees that the children are safe and contented. Some simple apparatus is provided. The children resident in these houses, and some others on the block, are given a safe place to play off the streets.

The association needs and deserves public support. Mrs. Robert G. Clarkson is the President, Charles Loring Brace of the Children's Aid Society is the Treasurer. Contributions may be sent to Mr. Brace at 105 East Twenty-second Street. Any one interested may see a playground in action by calling at 312 East Thirty-first Street.

A good many years ago Mrs. Clarkson set the example of how much good can be accomplished by these small home playgrounds. The example has been followed by others. The association will gladly give advice to any landlord who is willing that his backyard shall be used for playground purposes.

MR. HARDING TO TEXAS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You have written much of late about Cox and Harding. You have contrasted the records of these great men, always to the advantage of Cox. You have even intimated that Cox possesses more ability than Harding. But you have never compared the compositions of these two men, and why? The answer is simple. You knew that Harding is in a class all by himself. Take, for example, his telegram to the Texas Republican State Convention in session at Dallas, reading as follows:

"I recently sensed the inspiring confidence of Texans in the capacity of our Republic to work out a great American destiny, and I firmly believe that the interests of your great State are those of our common country which the Republican Party aims to preserve and promote. It will be fine to know that a strong and harmonious Republican organization has been effected to give voice and influence to the party sentiment in Texas and aid to the force of our appeal to the confidence of all the American people."

Isn't this a gem? Do you suppose that Cox could sense anything so inspiring as this if he should try from now to Election Day?

Now some folks do say that the word destiny means something fixed—something that can't be changed. I know that a Texan can change many things. I know that he can even work out his own salvation with a six-shooter, but I did not know before reading Senator Harding's telegram that even a Texan could work out a great destiny, much less a great American destiny.

How refreshing it must be to the Republicans of Texas to be told that they can do this, and at the same time be assured by their great leader that he believes, yes, firmly, that the interests of their great State are those of our common country.

Don't you think in all fairness that you should give credit where credit is due?

JAMES W. JOHNSON.

Blundering Forward.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Perhaps the greatest commentary ever passed by one great man on another is Thomas Edison's on Woodrow Wilson, "They say he blunders, but I notice that he generally blunders forward." As a matter of plain fact, President Wilson does not blunder; he merely lives up to his own definition of a progressive, which is "a radical with a brake on or a conservative with a move on."

But reactionaries term all forward-looking people "blunderers." They take the position that it is better to stagnate and retrograde with dignity and grace than to "blunder" forward. They demand that the reforms of "blunderers" be 100 per cent. perfect. They throw fits at a forward-looking measure that is only 90 per cent. perfect, when their own "practical" and "conservative" measures have given us a world of woe that is not 70 per cent. perfect.

Hence it was with joy that I read Governor Cox's closing lines, which so well represent his entire speech:

"The leaders opposed to democracy promise to put the country 'back to normal.' This can only mean the so-called normal of former reactionary administrations, the outstanding feature of which was a pittance for farm produce and a small wage for a long day of labor. My vision does not turn backward to the 'normal' desired by the Senatorial oligarchy, but to a future in which all shall have a normal opportunity to cultivate a higher stature amidst better environment than that of the past. Our view is toward the sunrise of tomorrow, with its progress and its eternal promise of better things. The opposition stands in the skyline of the setting sun, looking backward to the old days of reaction."

The stage is now cleared for what in my opinion promises to be the grandest debate in history. I know enough about debating to know that a debate should centre around some nucleus. To me Governor Cox's speech furnishes the desired nucleus or base. Therefore, I urge every citizen carefully to read the speech for himself. Mr. Citizen, if you have thrown away your copy, get another and read it. Read it digestingly. To do so will enable you to appreciate and follow the great educational campaign before us.

Help for a Hot Day.

Will you allow a faithful reader of your paper to express appreciation of the charming and whimsical bit of humor in this morning's TIMES, under the heading: "A Superior View of the Temperature"?

It is a great help to those of us who are suffering from the humidity in stifling offices to realize that we are not alone in our suffering, and that, if we have it pointed out to us, there is even a funny side to our misery.

A Republican's Question.

Is it possible for a man to be a good American and vote the Republican ticket at the coming Presidential election? I have voted the Republican ticket for thirty-five years, but the American spirit in me rebels this time.

CHASTISEMENT.

Who would chastise me? Let them—they do well.
If now I have no need, I sometime shall!
And what if in some article they err?
I know of that which might their wrath incur:
'Tis in my ledger, on a yellowing page—
A script so sharp it could outlast an age!

Who would chastise me? Well. They scourge for this,
And I for that—I hail my Nemesis.
I know that no one can his flight so shape,
Through all his days, that goddess to escape,
To me, as beautiful as she is grave,
Who, if I shun her not, my soul will save.

Who would chastise me? Let them—nor forbear
For any fancied frailty in my air;
I have a hardihood that can sustain,
If so I will, the blows that they can rain;
And I have consciousness to note the art
In each accomplished stroke that makes me smart.

Who would chastise me? Come! But am I meek
Under their lashings? No, I sharply speak—
Bid them look home, to scan their own dark score!
Yet, none the less I thank them, evermore,
Who stir me up to audit that great work
Of self-review which I too long might shirk.

HOUSING HITS HOSPITALS.

Shortage of Homes Causes Overcrowding of Institutions.

Figures to show that the shortage of apartments and the consequent increased congestion in living quarters was causing greater demand upon hospital facilities were given out yesterday by the United Hospital Fund. The bulletin of the fund's committee quoted the assertion of Health Commissioner Copeland that the housing crisis was a menace to the health of thousands of persons who were unable to find livable quarters. One reason for the increased use of hospital facilities is that many families are unable to take care of their sick cases in cramped quarters at home and are forced to send patients out.

"At the New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital it is estimated that there are 25 per cent. more private rooms in use today than at this time last year," says the bulletin, "while the general wards show the normal enrollment. This situation was not to be attributed to an increase in the sick rate, it was said.

Similar conditions were reported at the New York Nursery and Child's Hospital and the Sloane Hospital for Women.

Swedish Geologists Will Investigate Prehistoric America.

A party of Swedish geologists will arrive in this country late this month to begin an extensive study of the geological signs of prehistoric plant and animal life on this continent, according to an announcement made yesterday by the American-Scandinavian Foundation. The study will occupy at least six months and will take the party west to the Rocky Mountains.

"The expedition is headed by Baron Gerard de Geer of the University of Stockholm, who was President of the International Geological Congress and who is now chief of the Geotechnical Commission of the Swedish Railways," said the announcement. "Baron de Geer's investigations are expected to determine the first appearance of man in the Hudson, Connecticut and St. Lawrence Valleys. In the layers of clay deposit are to be found not only records of the passage of time, with changes in plant and animal life, but also records of the periodic variations in the amount of heat shed upon the earth by the sun."

Baron de Geer and his staff will arrive about Aug. 19, and will proceed to Lake Champlain, where his investigations will begin. From there he will go north and west into Canada and perhaps as far as the Rocky Mountains. He will then return to New York and begin a detailed study of the Hudson and Connecticut Valleys.

SEEK PALESTINE AID HERE.

Zionist Delegate Says American Jews Have Chief Responsibility.

The World Zionist Conference, held recently in London, was declared yesterday by Louis Lipsky, one of the delegates from the American organizations, to have furthered greatly the plan for the reconstruction of Palestine as a Jewish homeland. He declared that the British Government had promised to aid in the development of the State and continued:

"Owing to the economic conditions of the countries in Eastern Europe, which are still in a state of war and whose money is practically worthless outside their own national boundaries, the greatest responsibility for the creation of the Jewish Homeland will rest upon American Jews until such time as Europe reverts to more normal conditions.

"The British Government will, naturally, exercise complete authority over all immigration into Palestine. The policy of the Government has not yet been announced, but it is obvious that it will be guided by the interests of the whole country. The influx of new citizens will depend upon the numbers who can be taken care of through the creative works of the Zionist Organization and the British Government."

FINNS MAKING PAPER AGAIN.

Industry Revived, Red Cross Says, and Supply Is Sold in England.

The American Red Cross announced yesterday that its workers reported rapid rejuvenation of the paper industry in Finland. Giving figures upon the industry, the bulletin said:

"Although export trade was impossible for eight months during 1919, owing to shipping restrictions effective in Europe, 46,000 metric tons of paper were exported from Finland. Virtually all of this was supplied to fifty of the largest periodicals in England, a new market exploited by the Finns after the breaking up of the Russian market.

"The total export of paper mill products in 1919, the greater part of which came during the last four months of the year, was 200,451 metric tons, which included wood pulp, cellulose and cardboard in addition to white paper."

FARMER BOYS SEE NEW YORK

Farmer boys from Texas—more than 100 in number—spent a day in New York yesterday as part of a 4,000-mile tour, financed by business men of Texas. The youngsters are touring the country under the auspices of an agricultural college in the Lone Star State. They arrived from Niagara Falls early in the morning and left for Philadelphia yesterday afternoon.

The boys are being entertained during their trip by the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. and local agricultural institutions. Two Red Cross officials are accompanying them on the trip to give them instruction on how to treat accidents that occur in farm work. After their visit to Philadelphia they will go on to Washington and then through the South back to Texas.

PLEAD FOR IRISH REPUBLIC.

Knights of Columbus Appeal to Secretary Colby for Recognition.

Resolutions asking recognition of the so-called "Republic of Ireland" have been sent to Secretary of State Colby, the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House by the supreme officers of the Knights of Columbus. The resolutions were drafted by District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier of Boston, who is Supreme Advocate of the order. They say that the Knights as a body have pledged their efforts to the end that "the United States may without delay recognize the Republic of Ireland."

BIBLE SERVICE DRAMATIZED.

For Use in Pilgrim Tercentenary Celebration in America.

Percy MacKaye has written for the American Bible Society a dramatic "service" of the Bible which will be used for the Pilgrim tercentenary celebration throughout America. Mr. MacKaye's production is entitled "The Pilgrim and the Book."

The organization will furnish this "service" from its office in the Bible House, Astor Place, to churches, Sunday schools and other religious organizations all over the country.

WARREN SEES FIUME A SYMBOL OF RIGHT

D'Annunzio's New Representative in America Declares It Will Never Be Given Up.

COUNTS ON OUR SYMPATHY

Asserts Italian Government Could Not Survive Twenty-four Hours If It Abandoned City.

The coincident publication yesterday of a cablegram from Trieste saying that an open break had occurred between the National Council of Fiume and Gabriele d'Annunzio and the announcement that d'Annunzio and the National Council had appointed Whitney Warren, the New York architect, their representative in America, had no special significance, according to Mr. Warren.

At the Ritz-Carlton last night Mr. Warren said he could not officially discuss the matter in the absence of explicit information, but he was inclined to minimize its importance, in view of the solid backing of the Italian people behind d'Annunzio. The architect's credentials and instructions from the soldier-poet are now in the custody of a courier from Fiume en route to New York.

Speaking unofficially, Mr. Warren said:

"I shall accept the appointment. I shall do whatever is within my power to enlighten public opinion in our country as to the right of Italy to the Adriatic port of Fiume. In fact, this is no new rôle for me. I have all along taken the stand that the question of Fiume is more than a matter of purely Italian, or even European, concern.

"Fiume, as I see it, is a symbol. It is a symbol of right and justice. To take Fiume from the Italian people, represented in the person of d'Annunzio, would be to strike a fatal blow to the principles of right and justice in every part of the civilized world. But rest assured Fiume will not be taken from the Italian people. So says d'Annunzio and I believe in d'Annunzio.

"Fiume means to d'Annunzio, as to every Italian, what any of our great cities means to us, and Italy represents to the Fiumians the same thing as the United States represents to a citizen of New York, Chicago or San Francisco. The question is as simple as that. Somewhere on the eastern coast of the Adriatic there is a city of Italian birth, and there is a great country called Italy which refuses to abandon to strangers a morsel of itself, of the flesh of Italy. Should we Americans oppose ourselves to the accomplishment of this mutual desire? Sooner or later, I believe, we shall lend our hand to the realization of this destiny.

"Fiume is the back door to Italy. With that back door open any enemy may enter. Geographically Fiume belongs to Istria, and Istria is purely an Italian province. Why should it be handed to the Jugoslavs, which means the Slavs of the south, to be a constant menace to Italy's safety? It will never be possible to make Italians believe that the Croats, who were Italy's most vicious enemies among the Austrian forces of yesterday, simply by changing their name and calling themselves Jugoslavs have suddenly become their friends. Such a trick deceives Italy no more than the French would be deceived if, in order to keep Strasbourg, the inhabitants of the Rhine had suddenly proclaimed themselves no longer Germans, but rather Badenese.

"Could the Italian Government enter into an arrangement with the other powers that would involve giving Fiume up? Not if it wanted to survive twenty-four hours. In this case assuredly the will of the people controls, and no Government would dare defy so united a will. It is because d'Annunzio represents that will of the people that he is invulnerable to either force or intrigue. As far as he personally is concerned, he told me that the only way he would go out of Fiume against his will and convictions would be in a pine box."

TO IMPROVE HAVANA HARBOR

American-Cuban Commission Urges Steps to Relieve Freight Congestion.

HAVANA, Aug. 15.—Construction of additional wharves, the enlargement of those now existing, and the building of additional warehouses for the storage of merchandise are urged by the joint American-Cuban Commission recently appointed to investigate the freight congestion in Havana harbor. The public docks here, the commission found, are inadequate to care for the increased traffic of the port. The report of the commission was made public by President Menocal early this morning.

Among other recommendations the report suggests that the Government should issue a call to all importers, brokers and others to remove from piers all accumulated shipments, and that Custom House facilities be afforded for the immediate withdrawal of goods. It recommends that shipments other than dry goods or other commodities requiring careful examination be hurried from their place of unloading, and that the Government place under customs control all wharves and warehouses utilized for unloading and storing merchandise.

URGE SCHOOL FUND IN SPAIN

Liberal Papers Condemn Suppression of Sum to Fight Illiteracy.

MADRID, Aug. 14.—Newspapers of a liberal tendency severely condemn the suppression of the appropriation voted by the Cortes for a campaign against illiteracy in Spain. Among the amounts annulled by order of the Government are an item of 500,000 pesetas for higher education of prize winning students, 1,000,000 for completion of school buildings, 500,000 for a Summer school for backward children, 500,000 for construction of rural schools, and other amounts for instruction in arts and crafts.

The Liberal Correspondencia expresses astonishment at the elimination of these appropriations. It declares that Spain's greatest need is for education, and points out that half the population is unable to read.

SAGHALIN DEATH LIST 400.

TOKIO, Aug. 15.—Four hundred persons were drowned in the recent floods in Saghalin Island, it was announced today.

A Tokio dispatch of Aug. 12 said that floods in Sagahalin Island had destroyed crops, demolished 200 houses and caused the death of thirty-seven persons.

SUFFRAGE IN DOUBT IN TENNESSEE HOUSE

Speaker Walker Expects Rejection, but Neither Side Will Make Definite Claims.

Both Majority and Minority Reports Are Anticipated, with Fight in the House.

Special to The New York Times.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 15.—Suffrage is in the balance tonight. From the talk in the hotel lobbies a reaction has set in, and from seeming victory of a few days ago there is now grave doubt and uncertainty about the passage of the suffrage ratification resolution, on Tuesday. There was little Sunday rest in political circles today. Instead there was feverish activity in the hotels and in the headquarters of the suffragists and anti-suffragists. There has been a full crop of rumors of switches and changes, but no substantial ground for them has been found.

Both sides are uneasy about the outcome of the vote on Tuesday, though statements from each are very optimistic. The margin is so narrow between victory and defeat that claims signify little. Polls of the ninety-nine members of the House were made several times today, indicating the real state of mind of each side.

The Ratification Resolution will be brought up before the Committee on Constitutional Amendments of the House Monday night. Majority and minority reports will be made, according to present indications, when the resolution is carried to the floor Tuesday morning for discussion. No attempt will be made, according to Speaker Walker, who is leading the fight against ratification, to hold the resolution in committee and kill it there. The Speaker appears confident of its defeat upon the floor and he has stated publicly that he is willing to have it come up at once.

As a result of the stand of Governor Roberts for ratification, two newspapers which recently supported him in his race for renomination are reported to have broken with him politically and warned him to desist or encounter their active opposition in the general election in November.

The majority of the members of both Senate and House are at home for the week-end and will not return until Monday evening or Tuesday morning. There have been rumors that a quorum will be missing from the House when it convenes Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Should this prove true it will not be the first time in the history of Tennessee politics that a minority has broken a quorum in order to defeat legislation. In 1909 a majority of the Senate ran away to Kentucky to prevent the passage of the Prohibition bill, upon which the House had already voted favorably.

SEND ANTI-SUFFRAGE ENVOY

North Carolina Legislators Seek to Influence Tennessee.

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 15.—North Carolina anti-suffragists have sent an emissary to suffrage opponents in the Tennessee Leguslature, it was learned tonight, to propose an alliance to defeat ratification of Federal woman suffrage in the two States, either of which can become the necessary thirty-sixth to put nation-wide equal suffrage in force.

The envoy, understood to be Representative W. W. Neal, of McDowell County, was instructed to give the Tennessee Legislators the "moral support" of anti-suffragists in the Lower House of the North Carolina Assembly and to assure them, it was stated, that suffrage could be defeated here if it could be in Tennessee.

Leaders of the anti-suffrage fight would not discuss Mr. Neal's mission further than to say that "the move has disabled the rudder of the suffrage ship" by solidifying opposition sentiment and strengthening any weak knees in the lineup.

Mr. Neal is expected to return to Raleigh before the Senate votes. The upper house is scheduled to begin consideration of the ratification resolution on Tuesday.

Leaders for the antis said tonight Neal probably would bring "encouraging word" for those who oppose suffrage, and have definite information as to the poll in the Tennessee lower house. This, they said, would be employed as a magnet to attract unaligned representatives in an attempted band-wagon movement.

G. H. MARSH FOUND DEAD.

Ohio Capitalist Dies Suddenly in Summer Camp in Michigan.

Special to The New York Times.

VANWERT, Ohio, Aug. 15.—George Hayden Marsh, capitalist and philanthropist, one of the leading men of Vanwert for many years, having been identified with many successful business organizations in this and other States, was found dead in bed early Friday morning by other members of his party in camp in Northern Michigan at a place called Unowhere. He, with a party of business and professional men, had gone a few days ago for a Summer outing. The message announcing his death, sent on Friday, arrived in Vanwert this afternoon, only a few minutes before the arrival of the train bearing his body.

Mr. Marsh was born in Connecticut on Christmas Day, 1833. He came to Vanwert with his parents when 12 years old. At one time he was the largest shoe manufacturer in the country. For many years he had been active in banking circles, and was President of the First National Bank of Vanwert at the time of his death and a stockholder in scores of national banks.

A few years ago Mr. Marsh gave to the city and county of Vanwert a county hospital, a nurses' home and a Young Women's Christian Association building. He spent in less than two years for the public good over $250,000.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. A. I. Clymer of this city.

Haywood—Keck.

After a courtship which continued while both were working as expert chemists in a laboratory in this city, Miss Dorothy Keck, a graduate of Barnard, became the bride of Gerald Haywood Saturday afternoon. In accordance with the wish of the bride the ceremony was to have taken place on the lawn under the maple trees in front of the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Keck, at 30 North Twenty-sixth Street, Flushing, L. I. Owing to the rain the arrangements were changed and the ceremony was performed on the broad veranda of the Keck home. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. J. Dare, a Presbyterian minister of Garfield, N. Y., an old friend of the bride's family. The bridal couple are now touring Maine. Mr. Haywood is a native of Piedmont, W. Va.

Rogers-Pettit Wedding Sept. 22.

She received her education at Mount Vernon Seminary, Washington, D. C., and also at the Wallcourt School. Her father, who has his office at 2 Wall Street, for a number of years has been a prominent real estate operator in this city and is President of the Realty Company of America. Mr. Rogers is a graduate of Williams College. He is the son of Edward S. Rogers, a banker of Lee, Mass.

MISS BOOTH WEDS LIEUT. JESSE MONTE

Daughter of General Ballington Booth of the Volunteers of America a Bride.

It was made known last evening by General and Mrs. Ballington Booth, of the Volunteers of America, that Theodora Booth, their only daughter, was married on July 30 to Lieutenant Jesse A. Monte, of Superior, Wis., who served overseas in the A. E. F. as a member of the 32d, 5th and 89th Divisions.

Miss Booth met Lieutenant Montee while traveling with her mother through the sections occupied by the American Army of Occupation in Germany. The Booths happened to be on the bank of the Moselle River when the lieutenant made an heroic effort to save a drowning aviator, Roderick Coe, of the 66th Aerial Squadron. Lieutenant Montee nearly lost his life, being dragged through the frozen waters in an exhausted condition. Mrs. Booth later met Lieutenant Montee in Superior and invited him to visit their Summer home at Blue Point, Long Island. It was there that the romance culminated in a wedding.

Lieutenant Montee served twenty months overseas. He was decorated for distinguished service in the Argonne and was afterward one of the couriers who brought back the records of the peace conference.

At the outset of the war Miss Booth was president of the Girls' National Guard. Her service began during blizzard weather in caring for naval reserve men on the bridges around New York. With her companions she also did much for sailors and marines in hospitals. She went abroad under the Y. M. C. A. and served with the 3d Cavalry, the 29th Division and the 35th Division. Afterwards with her mother she resided at Verdun and visited the 79th, 2d, 1st and 89th Division positions.

173,911 ARE LISTED AS ARMY SLACKERS

ACCUSE ONLY 1 PER CENT.

Many Face Courts-Martial—Patriotic Citizens Are Asked to Aid in Roundup.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The War Department will shortly publish the names of 173,911 men who are listed in the records as having "willfully failed" their country in its hour of peril. This army of so-called deserters and delinquents, who total more than six full war strength divisions of troops, were called to the colors and neglected to respond, the department says. It is understood that the names will be grouped by localities, and as soon as they are made public every loyal American will be called upon to aid the Government in bringing these men to justice.

In the roundup the War Department, it is officially stated, will not pursue a policy of "unjustifiable leniency" in dealing with these persons, who are scattered in all parts of the United States and in many instances in foreign lands, particularly in Mexico and other Central and South American countries.

The statement issued today from the office of the Secretary of War, in part, reads:

Only 1 Per Cent. Ignored Call.

"Out of over 24,000,000 registrants the maximum number chargeable with willfull desertion is 173,911, considerably less than 1 per cent. of the total registration, and a tremendous improvement over the draft record of the civil war. The War Department, in the near future, will publish to the country a list of men classified as willful deserters, and desires to obtain the co-operation of the various State and local officials, patriotic societies and other agencies, including the Department of Justice, in bringing about the apprehension of these men. Assurances of such co-operation have in many cases already been given. Exact copies of the list of names, grouped by States or other convenient divisions, will be available for postmasters, police stations and other agencies.

"Pending publication of the list of deserters any man charged with draft desertion who wishes to avoid the humiliation of arrest may voluntarily surrender at the nearest army post, camp or station, in order that his case may be investigated and his status definitely determined. In the event that any such man's case shall have been finally disposed of prior to the publication of the list of deserters his name will be omitted from that list.

Registrants May Write for Status.

"Any draft registrant who is in doubt as to his draft status may write to the Adjutant General of the Army, Washington, D. C., and find out how he is classified, notwithstanding the fact that ignorance of such status is the registrant's own fault, because of his lack of interest in keeping track of his obligations to the Government.

"The War Department wishes it clearly understood that men who are guilty of willful desertion will not be relieved of the consequences of their misconduct, nor will they be discharged merely because they write to the Adjutant General of the Army and request a discharge.

"While the War Department is prepared to give full information to the draft registrants requesting it, as to what evidence will be required in order to obtain a discharge, the documentary evidence required will be most rigidly examined when it is submitted, and must show conclusively that no injustice is done to the Government in granting a discharge.

"Draft deserters are men who registered, and who were ordered by the draft authorities to report for military duty at a specified time and place, and who did not so report. Such men are by law held to have been inducted into the military service of the United States, where they remain until they are discharged. They are subject to trial by courts-martial for the offense of desertion.

"Draft delinquents are men who were required by law to register, but who failed to register, or who, although they registered, as required, failed to report for physical examination, or failed to return properly executed questionnaires.

Civil Courts to Try Delinquents.

"These delinquents have not been inducted into the military service, and consequently are civilians, not subject to trial by military courts. The Department of Justice is charged with bringing these offenders to punishment, and has indicted thousands of them before the Federal Courts, of whom a considerable number have been convicted. The offense of draft delinquency is no more to be overlooked than that of draft desertion. The Department of Justice has most ably co-operated with the War Department in apprehending draft deserters.

"The War Department has temporarily suspended the payment of the reward of $50 for the apprehension and delivery to military authorities of draft deserters because of the tremendous expense that would be incurred. The patriotism and universal desire of the people to see no draft deserter go unpunished, it is believed, will be sufficient incentive without the offering of a reward for the apprehension and surrender to military authorities of these draft offenders."

CHURCH CONGRESS URGES CO-OPERATION

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 15.—The World Christian Congress concluded its week's sessions yesterday, and today (Sunday) the 150 Archbishops, Bishops and clergy are leaving, except three of the clergy who preached in the Geneva Cathedral and English and American churches.

The congress discussed various diversities existing between the various communions. As Bishop Brent of New York declared, the first conference already has proved that the congress is a cooperative body. English, French and German are the main languages, but seventy-one other languages are also used and although there are interpreters, most of the delegates seem to have no difficulty in understanding the discussions.

The Metropolitan of Seleukia spoke in classical Greek, which the majority present understood. The English language, however, predominates, and in explaining and apologising for this to the non-English-speaking delegates Bishop Brent said: "We English-speaking delegates are not so clever as other nationalities in learning languages."

The congress adopted a resolution to form a league of churches whose object is to put an end to proselytizing between Christian churches and promote mutual understanding between them for Christian missions among non-Christian peoples; secondly, to promote an association and collaboration of churches to establish Christian principles; thirdly, to help the churches to become acquainted with one another; fourthly, to bring together smaller Christian communities and unite all churches on questions of faith and order.

Dr. Nehemiah Boynton of Brooklyn, New York, in reminding the congress of the landing of a handful of Pilgrims in the United States three hundred years ago, said that the result of church disunion today is an infidel world.

The Bishop of Bombay read a message from the Lambeth conference of Anglican bishops, sympathising with the congress aims.

Despite the fact that the Roman Catholics refused to participate in the congress, a Polish theological professor, who is a Roman Catholic, has asked to be allowed to speak. The congress will decide tomorrow whether to grant this request.

WOMAN BATTLES BURGLAR.

Intruder Leaves Coat, and Neighbor, 23, Is Arrested as Owner.

Attacked in the bedroom of her apartment by a burglar early yesterday morning, Miss Elizabeth Eldridge, aged 55, of 134 York Street, Brooklyn, put up such a plucky fight that the intruder in the struggle shed his coat and, in his haste to get away, left both his coat and hat in the room. These articles led to the arrest, two hours later, of Joseph Callahan, aged 23, who lives with his mother and stepfather in the front apartment on the same floor of Miss Eldridge's apartment. According to the police, the youth admitted his guilt and said that he entered the apartment to steal money, as he knew Miss Eldridge, who is a business woman, received her pay last Friday.

Miss Eldridge is suffering from shock, and a physician was called in last night to attend her. She was alone in the apartment at the time of the attack, her sister who lives with her having gone to the country for a week end. According to the police, Callahan entered the apartment from a fire escape and crawled cautiously to Miss Eldridge's bedroom. He bumped against the bed, causing Miss Eldridge to awaken. When she screamed the intruder grabbed her by the throat with one hand and punched her in the face with the other. She fought back, and the battle in the darkness continued for several minutes before the intruder was able to free himself from the grasp of Miss Eldridge and make his way down the fire escape.

Miss Eldridge sent for her nephew, Henry M. Eldridge of 259 Parkside Avenue, who, after making an investigation, reported the occurrence to the Poplar Street Police Station. He told of the coat and hat having been left in the apartment, and also told the police of the identity of the person suspected.

Detective William Brosnan came upon Callahan, coatless and wearing a blue cap, talking with friends at York and Washington Streets. He arrested the youth and took him to the apartment of Miss Eldridge. According to the police, Callahan confessed and his stepfather and mother admitted that the coat and hat found in the apartment belonged to the youth. He is held on a charge of burglary.

HOMER NORRIS DIES AFTER CAB ACCIDENT

ELDER MORGAN HIS FRIEND

Late Financier Built Him a Stone Bungalow on a Crag Facing Greenwood Lake.

Homer Norris, a noted musician and composer of this city, formerly organist at St. George's Protestant Episcopal Church, in Stuyvesant Square, died on Saturday afternoon at Roosevelt Hospital from injuries he suffered when knocked down by a taxicab in front of Carnegie Hall on June 20. His right leg was broken above the knee, blood poisoning resulted, and he grew steadily worse.

With him when he died were Miss Margaret Bishop, his grandniece, of 47 West Seventieth Street, and Miss Janet Bullock Williams and Gustave Krahe, two musicians who were associated with Mr. Norris, who resigned as organist at St. George's in 1913.

Because of his love of music and his friendship for Mr. Norris, the late J. Pierpont Morgan, who was Senior Warden of St. George's, presented to the musician a home, known as "The Boulders," a stone castle high up on a crag of the Orange Mountains facing Greenwood Lake. The house cost $20,000, on an estate that cost $10,000, adjoining the property of the late E. H. Harriman. The financier made this present to Mr. Norris to enable the composer to take himself away from St. George's, with his many duties there, and spend a few days at any time of the year composing music. Mr. Morgan considered the spot an ideal one, and it was said at the time he made the gift that he felt that the singing of birds, the ripple of water, the swaying of branches and the music of the wind playing among the leaves of the wild forest would be much more conducive to the production of music than the daily grind of city life in and around the musician's studio in East Sixteenth Street.

Mr. Norris designed "The Boulders" himself. The building occupies 260 square feet of land. The house was built of jagged and weather-beaten stone cut from neighboring rocks. It was the architect's idea to have the dwelling look like a continuation of the bluff on which it was erected. For years it was Mr. Norris's custom to entertain his choir boys at his bungalow.

Besides his distinction as an organist Mr. Norris was the author of several works on harmony and counterpoint and ranked high among the composers of this country, in a class, some of his friends said, with MacDowell and Chadwick.

He was born in the little town of Wayne, Me., Oct. 4, 1860, where Annie Louise Cary, contralto, also was born. He began his study of music there on a small parlor organ, later studying the piano, harmony and pipe organ in Lewiston, Me.

His first position as organist was with the Park Street Methodist Church, Lewiston. He taught a class in the organ and later entered the New England Conservatory of Music at Boston. There, after several years of study in harmony, counterpoint, organ, piano and theory, he was graduated, and returning to Maine he became organist of the Free Street Baptist Church in Portland.

Three years later he was invited by Daniel Ford, owner of The Youth's Companion, to become organist of the Harwood Street Baptist Church, Boston. From there he went to the Warren Avenue Baptist Church. Two years later he went to Paris, where he studied organ with Alexandre Guilmant. Returning to Boston he was invited to become organist of the Ruggles Street Church, where he remained twelve years. Then he came to New York as organist and choirmaster under Dr. Rainsford at St. George's until he went to California in 1913.

Mr. Morris was the composer of several cantatas, of which the best known are "Nain," and "The Flight of the Eagle." He also copmosed many songs, of which more than fifty are well known on recital programs. Among them are "Three Roses Red," "Cradle Song" and "Mother o' Mine."

Services will be held at St. George's Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment will be at Wayne, Me.

BOLSHEVIKI START ANTI-AMERICAN RIOT

Patrick. On the previous day it was discovered that burglars had broken into the Church of the Transfiguration. A search, however, showed nothing missing, although in the edifice at the time were the chalice and other costly metal articles of worship that would naturally attract a thief, and gorgeous vestments of great value.

The priests were puzzled by the objectless burglary, but on the following day, when he drank the sacramental wine from the chalice at the end of the service, Canon Ingram N. W. Irvine became conscious of an agonizing pain in his mouth, throat and stomach. Believing that in some manner the chalice had been filled with acid instead of wine, he acted immediately to save his own life. By his promptness he escaped without serious injury, though he was very sick for a day or more. Canon Irvine is 70 years old.

Immediately after this incident an investigation was made of the receptacle containing the wine intended for sacramental purposes, but not yet consecrated. The wine there was found to be perfectly pure and fresh.

Seen as Attempt on Priest's Life.

The priests then considered they had found the explanation of the burglary. One or more persons, who hated the Orthodox Church, had forced an entrance into the church in order to put poison in the chalice in the hope of killing a priest.

"In addition to this certain other churches have been attacked and broken into within the last few weeks, and other priests assaulted," Abbot Patrick said. "One Roman Catholic priest of Greek nationality was bound and beaten. An Orthodox priest in Bayonne was also attacked by three men, but the priest being of very powerful physique, seized the man with the revolver so quickly that when the weapon was discharged, the assassin shot himself. The man was taken into custody by the United States Secret Service and found to be an anarchist."

While the Russian radicals and Bolsheviki of this country have kept up a constant attack on the Russian Church for years, they have apparently organized a deliberate war of propaganda and violence against the Orthodox clergy and their followers within the last few weeks, because of the increasingly active campaign of Americanization carried on by the Church among Russians. In the last few months the English language has been used in Orthodox Churches in this country, and even in the Cathedral, and other work has been done to teach the English language to the immigrant Christian Russian.

Plan Assailed by Bolsheviki.

This program of Americanization has not only been violently assailed by Bolsheviki, but it has been scored, Abbot Patrick said, in bitter articles in the Russian language press in this city, whose circulation depends partly on the continued use of the Russian language by Russian-Americans.

"The Russian language papers, behind the guise of an intense loyalty to the Orthodox religion," he said, "have been making attacks, which are at bottom attacks upon America.

"There is a certain professor, who has arrived in this country in the last four or five months, who has interested himself intensively in attempting to Bolshevize the churches. He is known as Professor Vergun. No one seems to know just how he happened to come here and just what his mission is, or who he represents, but he has been leading a clamor against the Russian Orthodox Church, and particularly against Americanizing Russians. The Bolsheviki, of course, desire that the Russians shall remain as Russian as possible, believing that they can influence and lead them, so long as they are not Americanized.

"The signal for the recent outbreak against the Church was an article in THE NEW YORK TIMES, written by Miss Lillie S. Shustoc, describing the Americanization program of the Church. This was bitterly attacked in Russian language papers, who held that it would cause Russians to forget the traditions of their mother country and their love for their language and customs. Our reply was that those who felt this way should return to Russia. We pointed out that, after the war, this country had decided its stand quite determinedly on this point.

Red Threat Against America.

"Professor Vergun quoted from THE TIMES articles in a piece which he wrote recently for a Russian paper called the Problem, in which he welcomed the advance of the Red army through Poland. He went on to say in his article, which has been turned over to the Department of Justice, that when the Reds got through Poland they would take up France, England and the United States. Much of the attack on the Orthodox Church seems to be connected with him."

Abbot Patrick and those associated with him in the Americanization work of the Orthodox Church are English-speaking priests who have been converted to the Orthodox Church. The special services which were held yesterday at the Cathedral of St. Nicholas were identical with services which have been held in the Orthodox Churches all over the world, in the Anglican Church and other Protestant churches, praying for the restoration of the Mosque of St. Sophia to Christendom.

The Russian Orthodox Church has been praying for the recovery by the Christian world of its second greatest historic edifice since 1453, when it fell to Mahomet the Second and was converted into a mosque. For centuries it has prayed that the church come into the hands of Russia, but since the Bolshevist revolution put an end to that hope, the scattered foreign communions of the Russian Church have prayed that the Allies restore it to Greece, in order that it should be once more a possession of Christianity.

The ritual service at the cathedral yesterday, according to Abbot Patrick, was identical with that which Constantine himself, who founded St. Sophia's, might have attended in the fourth century.

E. O. Hoppe, Caronia Passenger, Seeks Five to Match Belles of England.

Robert Dollar, President of the Dollar Steamship Lines out of New York and San Francisco, returned yesterday on the Cunard liner Caronia from Liverpool after a six weeks' business trip abroad. He appeared to be somewhat pessimistic over the outlook, and after admitting that he had purchased a 12,000-ton steamship in England said: "Freight rates have dropped and they will go still lower. A little while ago we were getting 200 shillings a ton for carrying timber from Canada to England and now it has fallen to 100 shillings a ton."

"I am not at all cheerful," Mr. Dollar continued, "in regard to shipping or shipbuilding, as the prices that can be asked for ship construction are falling as rapidly as the rates for freight. In England the shipbuilders were getting as much as $175 a ton and now the price has dropped as low as $72 a ton. This refers to cargo boats.

"England is our chief competitor in the maritime commerce of the world, but there is a great future for American shipping if the Government will back it by providing laws which will better enable American steamships to compete with other countries."

E. O. Hoppé, a well-known English artist-photographer, arrived on the Caronia to find and make a picture of the five most beautiful women in America to compare with the five women that he considers to be the most beautiful in England. These are Lady Diana Duff-Cooper, Viscountess Massereene, Viscountess Curzon, Lady John Lavery, and Millicent, Duchess of Sutherland. Although Lady Lavery was born in America, Mr. Hoppé considers her an English beauty.

Another passenger on the Caronia was Bishop Charles Edward McDonnell of the Brooklyn and Long Island Diocese of the Catholic Church, who returned from an audience with Pope Benedict at Rome. He brought back appointments as Monsignors for Dr. James Corrigan, rector of St. Mary, Star of the Sea Church, Brooklyn; the Rev. Henry J. Zimmer, retired chaplain of St. Mary's Hospital, Jamaica, L. I., and the Rev. Francis Ludeke of St. Francis Xavier Church, Brooklyn. He also had promotions from Monsignor to Domestic Prelate for the Rev. Michael J. Flannigan and the Rev. James J. Coan of Brooklyn.

The Coronia stopped four hours in Halifax to land 497 passengers and had 168 first, 183 second and 750 third class passengers for New York.

EXPLOSION WRECKS BANNERMAN ARSENAL

Part of Plant Blown Over Hudson River Blocks Central Tracks—Three Hurt, Towns Shaken.

BEACON, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Bannerman Island Arsenal, in the Hudson River near here, was wrecked this afternoon by an explosion of 200 pounds of powder and shells stored in a powder house there. The damage is estimated at $50,000.

Three persons, Mrs. Frances Bannerman, of New York; her sister, Miss Mary Dubois, and Charles Kovash, superintendent of the island, were slightly injured.

A barrage of shot and bullets from the stores of amunition which were exploded, accompanied by a dense cloud of smoke, prevented boats which set out from the shore from reaching the island for some time.

The island, owned by The Francis Bannerman Company, of New York, has long been used as a storehouse for powder and ammunition. It was "fortified" by a high stone wall, of which a section twenty-five feet long was blown to the mainland, blocking the New York Central Railroad tracks which run along the Hudson River bank nearby.

The Bannerman "Castle," which occupies the central portion of the island, was considerably damaged, window panes being smashed, shutters blown from their hangings and part of the tower blown far out into the river.

Cities and villages along the river between Hudson and Peekskill were shaken by the explosion and hundreds of window panes in houses throughout this section were smashed. A corner of the Bannerman Island near the powder house was blown into the river.

The cause of the explosion had not been learned tonight, but residents of the neighborhood attributed it to river pirates, who on previous occasions had gone to the island to steal rifles and other military equipment stored there.

out from his feet and for an instant it seemed as if it would crash back to the ground, but it rebounded and Tischler, hanging only by his hands, caught the frame with his feet.

Firemen working below shouted instructions to this "novice" in civilian clothes on the top of the ladder, who seemed, like the clown rider in the circus, about to crash to death in the midst of his tremendous efforts to save the group on the ledge. But the six-foot giant on the top rungs gathered his strength and pulled the heavy ladder close to the wall, where it slipped again and again as he struggled to hold it with his feet.

Up rushed Fireman Steve Mivosky, closely followed by the men of Truck 9, and their weight seemed about to cause the flimsy structure to collapse, but the "novice" held fast. Then followed a long dialogue while Firemen Kelly and Mivosky tried to make Gangi and his relatives understand that they were to slide to the top rung of the rickety ladder over the broad back of the "novice," catching hold of his neck if they could. With the flames roaring nearer the ledge every second, the Gangis were afraid they would fall, but finally were persuaded to risk a fall.

First Roberta was skidded to safety. She almost fell to the ground, Mivosky seizing her only by a foot. Then Gangi's sister, Josephine, tried the slide and struck the arms of the waiting fireman. Gangi's wife, Josephine, weighing about 200 pounds, came next and she seized Tischler so violently around the neck that his hold on the ledge and the ladder was almost broken. He held on with tremendous effort while another large woman, Mrs. Ponchetto Delassandro, came down, followed by Lena Colossi and finally Gangi.

Saves Himself by Daring Act.

Then the "novice" ordered the firemen to retreat down the ladder so that he could let go of the ledge and trust to luck that a forward flip would throw him on the frame as it swayed away from the building. He did it.

A crowd of thousands cheered the "novice" as he started down the ladder through the heavy smoke, and it was all the police reserves from three stations could do to prevent them from rushing through the firelines to congratulate him on his pluck. And "Smoky Joe" was at the bottom of the ladder with a promise of reinstatement. Tischler's hands were bleeding from the grinding on the ledge as he sought to hold the ladder, and he was suffering from strain in the shoulders and arms and bruises on the shins and feet where he had clung to the ladder, monkey-fashion. He drove off in his car, refusing medical attention, as the crowds cheered him. He went to his home at 7 West 114th Street.

Deputy Chief Martin said that heavy loss of life would have occurred had the fire started late at night, when all the tenants were home, because it had great headway before the first alarm was turned in. Most of the tenants were out during the evening, and none discovered the fire in the flat of Miss Mary Goldfarb on the fourth floor until Gangi, feeling heat in his fifth floor rooms, opened the hall door. Trapped, he couldn't give the alarm.

GIANTS AND BRAVES GET AN EVEN BREAK

McGrawmen Lose Opener, 8 to 7, in Eleven Innings, and Win Second, 4 to 1, in Seven.

POP BOTTLES FLY THICKLY

Fans Express Jubilation with Hats and Glassware When New Yorkers Stage Thrilling Rally.

A shower of pop bottles, carrying a message of joy and exultation rather than the usual hymn of infuriation, caused a lot of excitement, but no damage, at the Polo Grounds yesterday. Some over-enthusiastic fan, who wanted to throw something and thought too much of his straw headgear, tossed one of the soda containers during a straw hat barrage in the eighth inning of the first game between the Giants and the Braves, and the idea was quickly seized upon by perhaps 200 other fans. In a moment the crystal confetti was fairly flowing from all sections of the grand stand and bleachers, while the umpires, usually the targets in such a display, looked on as disinterested spectators.

Inspector Cahalane, in charge of the uniformed police outside the Polo Grounds, [illegible] was needed against this method of displaying enthusiasm. He hurried to the Eighth Avenue entrance, summoned forty bluecoats to the park and assigned them to various sections of the stands to quell any further outbursts. The sight of the bluecoats had a quieting effect on the big crowd and there was no further display of bottle tossing during the remainder of the afternoon.

The bottles were tossed, rather than thrown, and did not land close to players or umpires. Unlike the usual pop bottle shower at ball games, there was no target and there were no hard feelings on the part of those who did the propelling. The Giants had gone into the last half of the eighth inning six runs behind the Braves, one run had been batted over the plate and then George Kelly slapped a home run into the left field bleachers with two Giants on the bases. As Kelly's drive nestled among the bleacherites, the straw hat shower, a new style in showing enthusiasm, broke out and before it had subsided the bottles began to fall. All landed on the grass between the stand and playing field, or in the outfield close to the fences. The game was held up for several minutes while the bottles were picked up and then went along smoothly.

Uphill Fight Goes for Naught.

The game, which fairly bristled with excitement, was won by the Braves in eleven innings, 8 to 7, after the Giants had made a sensational uphill fight in the eighth and ninth innings, overcoming a lead of six runs which the Braves had accumulated in the first half of the eighth. The affair, marked by several delays, lasted more than three hours before the Braves put over the winning marker.

The clock on the right field fence indicated 5:35 when the teams started the second half of their twin engagement, and this battle went to the Giants, 4 to 1. Play was suspended after the Braves had batted in the seventh inning, as they were making no headway against the offerings of Rube Benton and dusk was beginning to gather over the Harlem meadow.

The setback in the opener was a bitter one to the Giants, as the Robins won, and the gap between the McGrawmen and first place was widened. As the Reds played but one game, and lost that, the Giants gained a little on the champions. This morning the Giants are two and one-half games behind the league-leading Robins and one and one-half games behind the Reds.

Douglas Weakens in Eighth.

The first game was a great pitching duel between Rudolph and Douglas for seven innings, but in the eighth Douglas was pounded for six hits and as many runs. The Giants stretched a similar performance against Rudolph over the eighth and ninth innings, with an error by Ford making possible the tie score in the ninth. The outbreak of bottle throwing came in the New York's eighth, but the bluecoats had the crowd awed in the ninth when the Giants tied up the game and the enthusiasm was of noise only.

The Giants scored their first run in the third inning on singles by Douglas and Burns, a fielder's choice, on which Douglas was erased, and a double steal. The Braves evened the count in the fourth on successive singles by Holke, Boeckel and Ford after the first two batsmen had been retired.

The deadlock continued until the eighth, when Boston sent six runs across. Cruise singled to centre, Holke got an infield hit and Boeckel singled to centre, scoring Cruise. Ford's single to left sent Holke across. Gowdy's fly to Burns allowed Boeckel to reach third, and he scored on Snyder's error when Rudolph rolled slowly in front of the plate. Powell followed with a drive into the right field stand which scored Ford and Rudolph ahead of him. Christenbury singled to centre, Mann flied to Young and Cruise, toeing the plate a second time in the inning, was hit with a pitched ball. Holke's grounder to Doyle closed the inning.

A Great Pull-up.

The fans were satisfied that it was all over, but the Giants were full of fight. With one out Bancroft got an infield hit, reached third on Young's smash to right and scored on Frisch's single to centre. Kelly's drive into the left field bleachers pushed Young and Frisch across the plate ahead of the big first baseman. When the field had been cleared of bottles and straw hats the next two batsmen went out in order.

More excitement, minus the crystal confetti, marked the Giants' ninth inning. With one out Earl Smith batted for Douglas and singled to right, then gave way to Lefevre as pinch runner. Ford fumbled Burns's roller and Lefevre reached second. Both runners advanced while Christenbury was throwing out Bancroft and they scored on Young's single to centre. This hit tied the score at 7—7. Young raced to second on Powell's fumble and was left when Frisch grounded to Holke.

McQuillan and Barnes came on in the tenth to take up the pitching burden. Barnes got through Boston's half without any real difficulty. In New York's half an error by Ford and Doyle's single put runners on first and second with one out, but there was no scoring.

Cruise opened Boston's eleventh with a single to centre and was forced at second when Holke tried to sacrifice. Bancroft fumbled Boeckel's grounder just enough to lose the play for Holke at second. Ford shot a Texas Leaguer over short and the bases were filled. Gowdy grounded to Doyle, whose throw to Bancroft forced Ford, Holke scoring. Ford collided with Bancroft and was knocked out. The Giants insisted that Ford had interfered with Bancroft and Davy was chased to the clubhouse. A hit by Young with two out was the only excitement in New York's half.

Benton Keeps Hits Scattered.

Rube Benton and Jack Scott did the pitching in the second section and the southpaw had all the better of the argument. Rube was hit harder than his opponent, but the blows were so well scattered that they did little damage. The McGrawmen clustered most of their hits in the third inning with an error and a pass, and the four runs which resulted were sufficient to make the victory easy. The Braves threatened in three different innings, but Benton was an enigma when runs were imminent.

The Giants took a commanding lead in the third inning, the only frame in which they got a runner past first base. Doyle was safe on a fumble by Maranville and stole second. Snyder walked and Benton's bunt eluded Boeckel, filling the bases. Doyle scored on Burns's sacrifice fly to Sullivan. Lefevre went out on strikes and Young doubled to right, scoring Snyder and sending Benton to third. Scott then made a wild pitch, on which both Benton and Young rode home.

The Braves had runners on second and third with none out in the second inning, but could not score. In the fourth Mann singled to centre, took an extra base on Spencer's fumble, reached third on Sullivan's single to left and counted on Boeckel's single to right. In the sixth a pair of hits went to waste, as Benton tightened with danger threatening.

After the Braves had batted in the seventh inning Umpire Moran called the game. It wasn't too dark to play ball, but the umpires, players and fans had all had enough.

Athletics Win Exhibition Game.

MERIDEN, Conn., Aug. 15.—The Philadelphia Athletics defeated the M. B. Schenck Company's baseball club, 3 to 0, in an exhibition game at Hanover Park here today.

Curves and Bingles

The crowd was the largest the Giants have had this year, either at home or on the road. It came close to the 37,000 mark.

Two hours and twenty-eight minutes was consumed in playing the first nine innings of the opening game. The whole affair took up three hours and ten minutes, ending at 5:10 o'clock.

Johnny Evers attempted to discuss with Umpire Klem the trouble leading to his exile by the umpire Saturday. He had intentions of apologizing, but Klem waved the Trojan aside before he could make his little speech.

Rabbit Maranville led all debates for the Braves in the first game, when he was a bench warmer. In the second game the Rabbit returned to his short-stopping duties.

Ford, the former Tufts collegian, collected four hits in the first game, drove in two runs and helped in the winning rally, but his costly fumble in the ninth deprived Rudolph of a victory in nine innings.

Bancroft was ineligible to play in the second half of the double header, owing to his banishment in the first game. Al Lefevre, former Fordham player, substituted in Davy's place.

There were two varieties of throwing enthusiasts in the stands. The prodigals tossed away their millinery, while the thrifty saved the headgear and threw bottles.

The scoreboard got plenty of attention and the crowd got a fifty-fifty break. The Brooklyn victory was unsatisfactory, but the triumph of the Cubs over the Reds was received joyously.

The sight of one bluecoat is sufficient to awe a whole flock of bottle tossers. It is unfortunate that the uniformed policemen are not on duty at all games.

Dick Rudolph's smile indicated that the former Bronxite was delighted with affairs up to the time that Kelly made his home run in the eighth. Dick was not smiling as he left the field in the tenth.

YANKS ARE BEATEN AND FALL ONE PEG

LOSERS WASTE MANY HITS

Outbat Washington, but Fail to Cluster Safe Drives—Erickson Is Driven from Box.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The moral of this story is that bases on balls are just as good, or just as bad, as singles under ordinary conditions. Bases on balls, the kindly gift of George Mogridge, turned a ball game over to the Senators here today, turned New York's hopes down, and turned the Yankees out of second place in the league standing. The score of the disaster was 6 to 4.

A large crowd of fans turned out to testify to the joint popularity of the Yankees and of baseball on a pleasant Sunday afternoon. The fans were deprived of the hoped-for treat of seeing the biffing Babe repeat his walloping performance of yesterday, but they had lots of fun, nevertheless. It was worth the journey to them to see the Senators corral a game from the Yankees, even though it was handed over on a neat little platter. Griffith's team had lost ten straight games before winning today.

Mogridge retired from the field of action before any of the local foemen had been retired in the fifth inning, and bequeathed to his legatee, Ernie Shore, the disadvantage of five hostile runs. One more was squeezed in on some loose playing and thereafter the Senators went scoreless and the Yankees took up the onerous task of endeavoring to overtake their rivals. They got together four tallies in the sixth and seventh innings, but couldn't balance the half dozen already acquired by the local athletes.

Erickson Proves No Puzzle.

Erickson, in the box for the Senators, was hit rather freely at times, yielding twelve hits before he was withdrawn in the seventh. Zachary, who succeeded him, allowed only one safe bingle.

In the first inning Ward singled through the box, but was caught off first base, Gharrity to Judge. Ellerbe threw out Peck. Ruth singled to centre, but was out stealing, Gharrity to O'Neill.

The Senators didn't grind any more grist in their half of the period. Peck threw out Judge. Milan singled through the box. Rice popped to Peck. Ward made a pretty play on Brower's grounder, getting him at first.

The Yankees maintained the one single an inning but no runs practice in the second session. As an initial step Ellerbe threw out Pratt. Lewis singled to centre. Ellerbe caught Pipp's foul. Lewis was out stealing, Gharrity to Shanks.

In their portion of the second the Senators transacted the first important business of the game. Shanks walked. Ellerbe sacrificed, Mogridge to Pipp, Shanks taking second. O'Neill went out, Peck to Pipp, Shanks taking third. Gharrity singled to left centre, scoring Shanks. Erickson fanned.

The visitors' retort to this in the third inning was ineffective. Bodie fanned. Ruel walked. Mogridge lined to Shanks, who threw wildly to Judge, trying to double Ruel, Ruel taking third on the error. Erickson threw out Ward.

A Startling Ascension.

As Mogridge ascended the mound to resume his twirling duties in the second section of the third he appeared to be still Caucasian in tone. Inwardly, however, he was a Zulu. His jungle blood assumed control. He cast aside all the restraints of an artificial civilization and became so wild that a hawk is like a canary bird by comparison.

Mogridge knew there was such a thing as a home plate up there in the distance somewhere, and he supposed it was in the vicinity of that little group of men respectively batting, catching and umpiring. He seemed to feel, however, that if he sent the ball up in that general direction instead of hurling it to centre field he was coming close enough to his objective. He had them ducking his shots in both dugouts and the grand stand.

When Mogridge got through with his weird display Judge, Milan and Brower had all received free passage and Miller Huggins was convinced that he had a modern and epoch-making Wild Man of Borneo on his hands. He sent for a large cage and began to bait a trap with raw meat, hoping to catch Mogridge alive.

At this stage of the proceedings Shanks tripled to left centre, clearing the bases. Ellerbe hit to Pratt and Shanks was caught on the base line and run down, Pratt to Ruel to Ward to Mogridge, Ellerbe taking third. Ruth made a great catch of O'Neill's fly in deep right.

A Couple of Hits Wasted.

The Yankees made an effort to reduce their handicap in the fourth, but it foozled. Peck laid down a perfect bunt for a safe hit. Ruth fouled to Gharrity. Pratt singled through the box, Peck taking second. Milan took Lewis's fly. Gharrity took Pipp's bump and threw him out at first.

The visitors were equally unsuccessful in the fifth, but the home talent added a brace of tallies to their string. Milan singled, but was caught off first. In his effort to return safely to the bag he ran at least seven feet off of the path and thereby escaped being put out, for Umpire Hildebrand utterly ignored his detour, despite the clamorous protests of the Yankees. Rice came through with a triple and Milan registered at the plate. Rice scored an instant later when a ball got away from Ruel.

In the sixth the New Yorkers made their first runs, a pair of them, on singles by Peck, Lewis, Pipp and Bodie.

In the seventh another span of tallies came over for the visitors. These runs were registered as the reesult of passes to Shore and Ruth and singles by Ward and Lewis.

ROBINS BEAT PHILS IN TWELVE INNINGS

Mack Wheat's Error Helps Brooklyn Turn Apparent Defeat Into 6-5 Victory.

Old John J. Misfortune was tagging right on the heels of the Phillies as Gavvy Cravath led his band of ball players into town for a one-day engagement with the Robins at Ebbets Field yesterday. John J. lingered long enough with the Quakers to take a twelve-inning game from their grasp just when victory seemed nearest. It was a hard battle for the Robins to win and a still harder one for the Phils to lose. The final count was 6 to 5, after twelve frames of a nip-and-tuck fight that provided enough baseball of all kinds to furnish ample Sunday amusement for a large Flatbush throng.

One of those breaks that make baseball the great national pastime it is gave the Robins the verdict in the twelfth. If the break had been another way, the Dodgers would have finished a run to the bad. But Dame Fortune played one of her pranks at this critical juncture, and defeat was turned into victory with such breath-taking speed that most of the assembled fans hardly knew what was happening. In a few seconds the Robins had accomplished what they had failed to do in eleven previous innings.

Mack Wheat, the Phils' young catcher, has a sturdy throwing arm, but sometimes it is not sturdy enough. Mack had the chance of a lifetime to be a hero yesterday. With the bases full and one out in the twelfth, Myers grounded sharply to Fletcher, who threw to the plate and forced Olson. Mack Wheat then turned quickly, drew back his arm and heaved to first to complete the double play that would have saved the game. But the ball was a hair'sbreadth too low. It wriggled through the outstretched hands of Gene Paulette and rolled merrily into right field, while Johnston and Zack Wheat crossed the plate with the tying and winning runs. It was a quick finish to a slow game.

Twelfth an Eventful Inning.

The twelfth inning saw the breaks working for both teams, the Phils jamming over what seemed to be the winning tally through a combination of timely hitting and an untimely error. Fletcher opened the chapter by singling sharply to centre. He dashed to third on Wrightstone's double to left and the Brooklyn horizon became dark and dreary. Wheat was thrown out by Grimes, who had taken up the pitching burden, and Gavvy Cravath, batting for George Smith, was intentionally passed, filling the sacks to suffocation. Paulette then hit to McCabe, who threw low to Elliott, Fletcher scampering across with a run. Stengel fanned ingloriously and Rawlings raised to Olson.

With the head of the batting order up in their half, the Robins opened fire at once on Enzman, who ascended the mound for Philadelphia. Olson's grounder took a lucky bounce over Paulette's head for a single. Johnston poked a single into left, sending Olson to third. Griffith's infield out sent Johnston to second, and the bases were crammed when Zack Wheat received an intentional walk. Myers then hit to Fletcher, who threw to Mack Wheat and forced Olson. The Phils' catcher then uncorked his low heave and Johnston and Wheat chased all the way home.

Brooklyn employed the services of four pitchers before Wilbert Robinson found the combination that could keep the Phils subdued. The rotund manager started with Big Jeff Pfeffer, who had to retire at the end of the fifth under the Quaker bombardment. Cadore twirled the next two innings without damage to his reputation but was effaced to allow Mitchell to bat for him. Al Mamaux then did the honors in the eighth but was yanked after he had walked two of the first three batters to face him. Burleigh Grimes, the old reliable, entered the scene and was master of the situation at all times, until he was nicked for two hits in the twelfth, these leading to a run as a result of McCabe's error.

Cravath's choice for the mound duty was Columbia George Smith, who did eleven innings of labor until his boss batted for him in the twelfth. Enzman ambled into the box in time to pitch the fatal twelfth and get the game chalked up against him in the records. Smith was reached for only seven hits in the first nine innings and yielded another bingle in the eleventh. He got stronger as he went along, wildness in the early part of the game accounting for some of the Robins' run-getting.

Kilduff Is Injured.

In the first inning Petey Kilduff, in taking a throw from Konetchy at first, jammed his ankle against the bag and had his troubles added to when Le Bourveau tripped over him. Petey sought the bench at once, Olson going to second and McCabe to short. An inning later Le Bourveau gave up the ghost and went to the showers, Meusel being switched to left and Stengel patrolling the right garden.

The Phils began the game by scoring twice. Paulette singled past second, was sacrificed to second and tallied on Williams's double to right. Cy dashed across on Meusel's safety to centre. The Robins picked up their first run in the fourth when Griffith and Wheat walked and Myers grounded out to Wrightstone. Griffith scored while Koney was being forced at second.

In the fifth, the Phils garnered two more on Smith's walk, Paulette's single and Stengel's double. The Dodgers scored their second run in the same canto on Elliott's double to left, a sacrifice fly by Lamar, batting for Pfeffer, and another long fly by Olson.

With the count 4 to 2 against them, the Robins got busy in the seventh and tied the game up. Elliott coaxed four balls out of Smith to start things going. Mitchell batted for Cadore and lifted to Rawlings. Olson tore off a double to left, which sent Elliott to third, from which station he scored on Johnston's sacrifice fly to Williams. Tommy Griffith smacked a single to right, on which Olson rode home with the tying run.

The count remained at 4-all until the twelfth, although the Dodgers got a runner as far as second in the eleventh. He was forced at third. The Phils threatened in the tenth but the rally fell short.

SKEETERS TWICE BLANK THE BISONS

Donovan's Men Defeat Buffalo in Opener, 1 to 0, and Follow with 4-to-0 Victory.

After losing five games in a row to Toronto, Bill Donovan's Skeeters showed a surprising reversal in form yesterday afternoon in their opening of the series with Buffalo at Jersey City. Through a two-fold defeat the Jersey City bat wielders put a crimp in the Bisons' fight for first place. The scores were 1 to 0 and 4 to 0.

To the superb pitching by Eddie Gill in the curtain raiser and "Kaiser" Wilhelm in the second game was due the unexpected success of the home team. Against the curves of these Jersey City deceivers Buffalo appeared helpless. In their attack on Gill the Bisons were limited to only two hits and they fared but little better against Wilhelm, who allowed only five safe raps.

Rogers was on the mound for Buffalo in the first game, and he held the Jerseymen in check until the eight period, when they succeeded in severing his string of ciphers and put over the winning run on Kane's three-bagger and Wigelsworth's single with two men out.

Pat Martin, for Buffalo, opposed Wilhelm on the firing line in the second game.

McCann started with a roller to the box, Martin fumbling the ball. Mooers sacrificed and Kane rolled an easy one toward first. Martin picked up the ball and shot it to Miller, who missed it, permitting McCann to chase in with the run.

In the seventh Wigelsworth beat out a bunt, Zitman singled to left, Zimmerman flied to Jacobs and a pass to Freitag clogged the corners. Wilhelm lined to Keating, forcing Freitag at second, and Wigelsworth scored. McCann walked and the bases were again filled. Mooers and Kane each made scratch hits and Zitman and Wilhelm registered.

A Lesson in Finance

The press information contained in a small paragraph of the fact that British interests have obtained control of three of the largest cocoanut oil companies in the Philippines makes probably less impression upon the American public than the daily weather report. Similar items are published almost every day.

Back of these items, however, is the economic history of the British Empire. For example, an American corporation in one of our foreign possessions, which lately needed new working capital for increased productivity, was unable to make sufficient headway with American banks to obtain the necessary funds, for the simple reason that the banks were held in leach by the Federal Reserve Board. A committee of the directors went to London, and the loan was immediately forthcoming.

Incidentally, the credit was, of course, practically American money which the United States has loaned to the Allies. The Allied obligations are lying idle in our Treasury portfolio, instead of being made to earn their keep by transformation into long term bonds, bearing an attractive interest rate, which could be substituted for Liberty Bonds.

The lesson which the Harriman National Bank would draw is that deflation and reduction of taxes are not to be accomplished by restriction of production. The difference between the viewpoint of the English financier and the American banker is indicated by the nervous alarm of the latter when the Federal Reserve Bank reserves are in the neighborhood of 40%, and the confidence of the former when the Bank of England reserve is 8½%.

GOLFERS TUNE UP FOR PRO TOURNEY

BARNES TIED FOR FIRST

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15. — These professional golfers are gluttons for work, especially in hot weather. After only one day of rest, following the close of the national open tournament Friday at Toledo, twenty-four of the thirty-two qualifiers who will start in the professional championship of America on Tuesday assembled this morning at the Flossmoor Country Club, twenty-four miles out of Chicago, for a curtain raiser in the form of an amateur-professional series of best-ball matches. The Flossmoor Club offered several hundred dollars in prizes for the affair, and all day long Chicagoans from such neighboring courses as Ravisloe, Olympia, Fields, Calumet, and Idle Wild, which lies within five miles of Flossmoor, trailed some of the leaders, getting a line on the field which will attack the title Jim Barnes won last year at the Engineers' Country Club.

One thing is dead certain. Jim Barnes has got to display better golfing wares this week than he has shown so far this season, and no one knows it better than the long Cornishman himself. Already this year he has been shorn of such 1919 championships as the North and South and the Western open, and except for the Shawnee Crown, which does not represent a sectional tournament, he is present owner of only the professional and Southern open titles.

Barnes took an immediate fondness for this course, which is 6,488 yards long for a par of 74, two strokes harder than Iverness, and showed today he means business. Paired with Douglas Tweedie of Chicago, Long Jim and his partner shot a best-ball of 68, which stood high for an hour, but then was found to tie with that of Bob MacDonald, the Bob-o-link Scot, and his amateur helper, W. Weber, another Chicagoan.

Amateurs Help Out.

The amateurs were by no means silent partners. Tweedie contributed the low ball on the sixth, seven, eighth and ninth holes, two being negotiated in birdie figures, but on the inward half Barnes's ball was low except on the seventeenth hole, where Tweedie clicked off a birdie. Weber's eagle three on the 490-yard eighteenth hole was a godsend to MacDonald. Weber was some yards off the green, because none of the field was reaching the home green on two shots from the tee, when he plied his mashie with some mysterious touch and saw the ball hit on the near edge, take three or four bounds, and trickle into the cup.

|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Out—Par | 5 | 3 | 5 | 4 | 4 | 4 | 3 | 4 | 4—36 | |
| Barnes-Tweedie | 5 | 4 | 5 | 4 | 4 | 4 | 2 | 3 | 4—35 | |
| MacDonald-Weber | 4 | 4 | 5 | 4 | 4 | 4 | 4 | 3 | 4—36 | |
| In—Par | 5 | 3 | 5 | 3 | 4 | 4 | 4 | 5 | 5—38 | —74 |
| Barnes-Tweedie | 5 | 3 | 3 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 4 | 4 | 4—33 | —68 |
| MacDonald-Weber | 5 | 3 | 4 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 4 | 4 | 3—32 | —68 |

Paddy Doyle, the Deal (N. J.) Irishman, played with H. S. Kinnear, and assembled a best ball of 70, tying with Clarence Hackney of Atlantic City and partner and with Alfred Hackbarth of Hinsdale and partner for third place. Pat O'Hara of Shackamaxon, N. J., the Irish professional title holder, found the going hard and stormy with Jack Davison, the New York amateur, of Forest Hills, and the pair needed 77 to complete the circuit. Peter O'Hara, also of Shackamaxon, was paired with Elliot H. Evans, brother of Chick Evans, and they assembled a combined total of 75.

The inability of Frank McMullin, one of Tom Boyd's shop assistants at Fox Hills, Staten Island, to leave his work with his more illustrious master, also here for the tourney, had opened a place to a better-known New Yorker. He is George McLean of Great Neck, who by some strange fate failed this year to qualify when the trials were made, July 15. McLean was at the top of the alsorans and gained entrance through McMullin's default. McLean has been drawn to play his first round Tuesday with George Sayers of the Merion Cricket Club.

Great Britain Offers Medal.

The P. G. A. championship this year takes added interest because of the medal presented several weeks ago by the P. G. A. of Great Britain, by way of gratitude for the assistance given by the American pros during the war. It will go to the winner along with the Rodman Wanamaker diamond medal and the purse of $500 which Mr. Wanamaker annually presents to the top man on the list. Unlike the Wanamaker awards, it must be won three years to become permanent property. Purses for winner, runner-up, semi-finalists and others exceed $2,500. The tournament is the sole event at match play for American professionals, and each round is over the thirty-six hole distance. The first will be completed Tuesday and one round will be played each day, including Saturday, when the final will be played.

All-St. Louis Soccer Team Is Defeated at Stockholm

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 15. — The Swedish Olympic Football Team defeated the All-St. Louis Association Football Team, 5 to 2, today. It was the fifth game in which the Americans have played in fifteeen days. At the end of the first half the American players led, 2 to 1. Karlsson and Dahl of the Swedish team scored two goals each, and Sandbeg made the other. The American goals were scored by Brown and Corrigan. The largest crowd ever gathered in Sweden saw the game.

FINNS TAKE FIRST OLYMPIC VICTORY

new world's javelin hurling record, in which Finnish throwers won the first four places, and the placing of every American entered in all the other preliminary contests, featured the opening of the Seventh Olympiad contests in the stadium here today.

Myrra, winner of the javelin event, added 5.14 meters to the record of 60.64 meters made by E. V. Lemming of Sweden in the Stockholm games of 1912. In addition, the next four finalists in the event all exceeded Lemming's throw.

The Americans did well in their morning work with the javelin when there were no Finnish contestants, but failed to keep pace with the first six in the afternoon.

In the high jump, 100-meter dash, 400-meter hurdles and 800-meter run, all the Americans qualified against excellent fields.

Four Americans Win Heats.

All four Americans won their heats in the qualifying dash of the 100-meter event. J. V. Scholz, University of Missouri; Loren Murchison, New York A. C., and Charles W. Paddock, Los Angeles A. C., made the best time, 0:10 4-5. M. M. Kirksey, Olympic Club, San Francisco, covered the distance in 0:11. Twelve heats were contested, the first two runners in each heat qualifying for the semi-finals.

All four American half-milers qualified in the 800-meter run, although none of them was first. Earl Eby, Chicago A. A., ran third in the second heat, trailing B. G. D. Rudd of South Africa, the winner, and Hill of Great Britain, who was second. Eby set a fast pace in the first half of the race, after which Rudd drew away to win slowing up. Eby let Hill take second place. The time, 1 minute 55 seconds, was the best of all the heats.

Lieutenant D. M. Scott, U. S. Army; Thomas Campbell, Yale University, and A. B. Sprott, Los Angeles A. C., finished second in their heats without extreme effort.

M. S. Angier of the Illinois A. C. was seventh in the elimination sections of the javelin throwing event with a throw of 59.275 meters, and J. C. Lincoln, Jr., of the New York A. C. was ninth, with 57.81 meters. J. F. Hanner of Stanford University, with 53.52 meters, and A. W. Tuck of the Multnomah A. C., Portland, Ore., with 53.78 meters, failed to qualify in the last ten, as did the Chilean entry, whose throw was 43.90 meters.

Desch of Notre Dame Is First.

In the first heat of the qualifying section of the 400-meter hurdles event, A. Desch of Notre Dame University finished first. Andre of France was second and J. K. Norton of the Olympic Club, San Francisco, third. The time was 55 2-5 seconds. All three qualify for the finals.

In the second heat of the hurdles, Frank Loomis, Jr., Chicago A. A., was first; Christiernsen of Sweden was second, and Charles D. Daggs, Los Angeles A. C., third. The time was 55 2-5 seconds. These three also qualify for the finals.

Twelve men qualified for the high jump by clearing the bar set at the metric equivalent of six feet. Four Americans qualified, John Murphy of Portland, H. B. Muller, San Francisco; R. W. Landon, New York, and Walter Whelan, Boston.

In the fencing bouts, first round, the Americans defeated Holland, ten bouts to six. Captain H. M. Rayner, United States Army, won all of his bouts. In the other bouts the French defeated Holland and the Italians defeated Belgium. The Americans will fence with the Frenchmen at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The weather again was ideal, bringing out a crowd estimated at 7,000 to the stadium. Its members were largely townsmen, but Americans in the grandstands and amphitheatres made their presence known by dominating the cheering.

A group of thirty Americans, adjoining the royal box, lauded each American performance with "U. S. A., U. S. A., America," spelling out the latter word. This drowned the yells of other nationals. Gustavus T. Kirby of the American Executive Olympic Committee acted as cheer leader.

The crowd generally was most enthusiastic, the Swedes winning second honors in the cheering.

TO WELCOME U. S. TEAM.

A. A. U. Will Meet to Plan for Reception to Olympic Athletes.

Details for the welcome to be tendered the American Olympic team when it returns from the contests at Antwerp in the latter part of September will be discussed at a meeting of the Board of Governors of the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U. tomorrow evening. H. Obertubbesing, Vice President of the association, has issued the call for the meeting, which will be held at 8 P. M. in the Seventy-first Regiment Armory, Park Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street.

In addition to the Board of Governors, Mr. Obertubbesing has asked the members of the James E. Sullivan Officials' Club to attend the meeting. All men and women who are interested in the welcome to the Olympic team have also been invited.

FIVE FIGHTS FOR DEMPSEY.

Plans to Stage Three of the Battles in New York.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Jack Dempsey expects to take part in five fights between Sept. 6 and the end of the year, so he announced here tonight before leaving with his manager, Jack Kearns, for Benton Harbor, Mich., to start training for his bout there Labor Day with Billy Miske of St. Paul.

Dempsey said that the four matches after the Benton Harbor fight had been tentatively agreed on. Three will be in New York, including the bout with Bill Brennan about Oct. 12, and one will be in Boston soon after Labor Day, he said.

WOMAN SETS WORLD'S MARK

CAMP PERRY, Ohio, Aug. 15.—Tabulation today of yesterday's scores in the National Rifle Association shoot here showed a second world's record to have been broken during the day. Mrs. Mary Crossman, wife of Captain L. C. Crossman of Washington, D. C., made a perfect score of ten bull's eyes on the 1,000-yard range in the Adjutant General's cup match.

Thomas Leads in Medal Play.

J. S. Thomas led in the second round of a seventy-two-hole medal play handicap on the links of the Flushing Country Club yesterday when he returned a low net score of 74. He covered the course in 95 strokes and was allotted a handicap of 21 strokes. F. B. Porter, with a card of 88, 9—79, was second, and E. M. Corey with 100, 20—80, and W. A. Mantle with 88, 8—80, were tied for third. The final between R. H. Boyd and A. S. Andrew for the President's Trophy was deferred until next week.

GOLF

At this period of the moon twenty years ago the United States had a new open golf champion in the person of one Harry Vardon, an imported luxury, whose most troublesome competitor for the American crown was another Briton, J. H. Taylor. Vardon was then 30 years of [illegible]. He came back thirteen years thereafter in quest of the same plum, [illegible] of which he had found agreeable, and this time his companion in the foray was Ted Ray, then, as now, a quiet, likable Channel Islander, who had been a carpenter in Jersey until after his twentieth birthday, and had deserted the bench for the links upon learning that a golf ball can be driven farther than a nail. In 1913 a slightly-built youth repelled the two formidable invaders and the fame of Francis Ouimet will always rest securely upon that playoff at Brookline in which he wrested the imperilled trophy from two sets of Samson digits already closing upon it. Now come Vardon and Ray back to us questing the same grail, and this time it is the latter, the younger of the two by eight years despite his gray hair and his 42 years, who carries away the trophy and gives American professionals one more lesson in the superior soundness of the old masters of Britain.

There will be no grudging Ray his well-earned triumph. It was well deserved and well earned if ever victory on the links could be so stamped. He overcame the severe handicaps of alien climatic conditions, of a course markedly differing from those on which he feels at home, and of a barnstorming, tedious exhibition tour in the latter stages of which he had shown himself to be badly over-golfed. The golfers of this country, amateur as well as professional, will rejoice that, since their hopes of the successful defense of the title were doomed to be dashed, it is by such a man as is Ted Ray, personally and professionally.

BOXING

The selections for the New York State Boxing Commission made by Governor Smith have met with the indorsement of those who are conversant with the exacting conditions under which the sport will make a fresh start. The blots that marred its escutcheon in the days preceding the repeal of the Frawley law have been officially forgotten, but the slightest mistakes in future are likely to prove very costly. For some time to come boxing will be on probation. The least false step will be greatly magnified and the very existence of the sport depends entirely upon the administration of the law under which it has once more been legalized. The letter of the law must be enforced at all times and Governor Smith has selected men who are fully qualified to cope with the situation.

Boxing has been given a clean bill of health and Governor Smith was evidently determined to make the start fresh in every respect when he named the commission. None of the men who have been selected as Boxing Commissioners or as members of the License Committee has ever before been officially identified with the professional phase of boxing, although all are known to be keen enthusiasts and great students of the sport. As such they are amply qualified to act for the best interests of the game. They are sufficiently familiar with its politics and its internal workings to safeguard it against the elements that have caused it to fall into such ill repute in the past.

With the appointment of Joseph J. Johnson, former Fire Commissioner of New York; Edward Dittmers, of the Crescent Athletic Club, and Walter J. Hooke, former secretary of the Committee of Fourteen, as Boxing Commissioners, and the naming of Laurence M. D. McGuire, former Chairman of the Boxing Committee of the New York Athletic Club; Captain D. Walker Wear and Colonel Charles Easton Walsh as License Commissioners, there has been great activity in boxing circles. Extensive preparations are being made for the sport's inaugural. There is a determined rush to be the first to stage boxing under the Walker law. Where that honor will fall is problematical at this time, and just when licenses will be granted is also a matter of conjecture, but it is understood that no time is to be wasted and that New York will soon be treated to one of its favorite sports under new and what it is hoped will prove lasting and beneficial conditions.

TENNIS

The defeat of the American tennis champion, W. M. Johnston, by Clarence J. Griffin, his fellow Californian, at Newport, is only one of a number of surprising things that may happen before the close of this season, and, like many another important match on the "grand circuit," it points most significantly toward the challenging Davis Cup team of next December.

The situation at present is a curious one. America has three extraordinary singles players available in William T. Tilden, 2d, W. M. Johnston and Richard Norris Williams, and any one of the three, given a good partner, is the potential foundation for a first class doubles team. The experiment has been tried of teaming Johnston and Tilden, the obvious topnotchers individually, but it has not been strikingly successful, even though they won both of their international matches, as well as the London championship. When Williams and Charles S. Garland defeated them at Wimbledon their vulnerability was established, for this also was a haphazard team, made up simply of the left-overs of the American quartet.

The strange thing is that Tilden, Johnston and Williams all have their own ideas as to the ideal partnership, and each wants a different man on the court beside him. Tilden's choice is Garland; Johnston prefers C. J. Griffin, with whom he won two national titles, and Williams is enthusiastically inclined toward his fellow Bostonian, Richard Harte. Each of the three leaders is a natural dominator of the court, disinclined to be a mere cog in a machine and actually playing far better when given his head and allowed to "boss the job." In general the theory of good doubles play demands that one man shall definitely captain the team, even though he may not be the individual star, and such an understanding has generally been found to work better than when each of the two is politely respectful of the other's opinion. Therefore it is quite likely that the domination of any one of the three Davis Cup stars with a doubles partner of the "willing slave" type would prove superior to any team selected from the great triumvirate itself. The problem of that combination may be definitely settled in the national doubles championship, which begins at Longwood today.

Williams and Harte, who won the doubles at Newport last week by defeating Johnston and Griffin in a five-set final, are in the same half with Tilden and Garland in the title event. The survivors of this meeting, which seems fairly certain to occur, are likely to face the old national champions in the final round. Thus the Davis Cup competition, as well as the tournament itself, should be settled by a natural process of elimination. If Tilden and Garland can defeat both of these strong combinations, and it is quite probable that they can, they may well be entrusted with the responsibility of facing Brookes and Patterson of Auckland four months from now. Although they have had little practice together this year, they won the Southampton doubles last season in impressive style and have never yet been forced to their limit.

Williams and Harte lost to Tilden and Wallace Johnson in the Church Cup series, but they are a far better team now than they were then. As for Johnston and Griffin, the rejuvenation of the latter makes this a more formidable combination than ever before. They were both weary from hard singles matches when they faced Williams and Harte, both absolutely fresh, at Newport. Without such a handicap they will be a tremendously hard team to defeat. If they can come through at Longwood this week, the individual victory of Griffin at Newport will begin to assume a national and international significance.

BASEBALL

Another week of battling in the major leagues has served to tighten each pennant race, rather than show any one contender stepping out ahead of the others. In the National League the Pirates, who were close on the heels of the Giants a few days ago, have receded from the thick of the fight, but the Robins, Reds and Giants are showing no marked signs of dropping back, and the battle for leadership bids fair to go on for some time, with these three clubs furnishing the competition.

The Giants, slowly but surely, are gaining on the leaders, and despite some reverses in the last few days the team is regarded as a strong pennant probability. The combination of steady stickwork and competent pitching is carrying the club along a bit faster than any rival team in the National League is traveling, and the feeling persists that the McGrawmen will soon enjoy the sensation of showing the way to both Robins and Reds. The wonderful spurt that started from seventh place is still under way.

The Yankees furnished the big sensation in the American League during the last week, and thereby revived the fading hopes of their countless followers. When the Hugmen went into Cleveland last Monday morning five games behind the leaders their pennant prospects were not rated very highly. They had failed to win a series in St. Louis, Chicago or Detroit, and few could see where a gain could be looked for in Cleveland. To lose three or four games to the Indians meant the blasting of pennant hopes, as such a reverse would drop the team to a position about eight games behind the leaders.

Four straight victories in as many days caused the Yankee pennant stock to soar again, and these successes made the race tighter than it has been at any other time this season. While the Indians were being pulled back day by day, the Yankees and White Sox were advancing together, and this morning the three leaders are bunched in a stretch that means a little more than one game.

Today the Hugmen open a home stand which offers a fine opportunity to take the lead. They have finished a road tour which started very poorly, without losing any ground to the Indians and as the Yanks have been next to invincible at home, they may be expected to forge to the front within a few days. Seven victories in their last eight games with the Indians have satisfied the Hugmen that they are the better team. Ten victories in sixteen games against Cleveland and the same record against Chicago should inspire the Yanks with the confidence, if any is needed, to carry on to the heights.

TURF

Although this has been an unusually prosperous year for the turf, followers of the sport are complaining with much justification that the racing at Saratoga thus far has not been up to the standard of other years. For years the Saratoga meeting has provided the very best sport of the season, bringing together the rivals of the East and West and always attracting the best performers in every division. It is a fact that this season, in spite of the big purses, many of the stake events have been contested for by second-rate horses and that few top-notch racers have been seen in action. This condition is the more surprising because there are so many horses in training at the present time.

Undoubtedly one of the most important reasons for this condition is the almost complete failure of the powerful stable of Sam C. Hildreth. A few months ago it seemed that Hildreth would dominate most of the handicap events with his many high-class racers and that he would be one of the biggest money winners of the season, if indeed he did not top the list. But now, with the Saratoga meeting half over, he has won only about half a dozen purses all season, and but one big event, the Brooklyn Handicap. He has met with such adversity that but two horses out of the number with which he started the season are now racing. These are Mad Hatter and Krewer, and neither has accomplished anything worth accomplishing. On the other hand, Hildreth has been unable to make a single start with the two real stars of his stable, Purchase and Lucullite, either of which might win any handicap event of the year, while Alibi, Thunderclap, Dominique, Lord Brighton and Valor have had but few starts. Purchase and Lucullite went lame, while Alibi went lame also after winning a few races. The Hildreth luck has been on the wane all season, for, even after paying a record price for Inchcape, the crack two-year-old, the colt developed a skin disease before he had a chance to race in the Hildreth colors.

The absence of as many stars as the Hildreth stable contains is enough to affect the quality of racing in the more important events. However, the poor crop of two-year-olds is another factor. Of the several hundred youngsters that have been tried out but half a dozen remain as real candidates for the juvenile crown, and among these there is none that even closely approaches Man o' War, John P. Grier or one or two others of last year.

The Saratoga Association laments more than any one that the racing is not of a better quality, but is powerless to remedy the condition. The purses have been increased, the stakes are worth while, and the conditions are satisfactory, but there are not enough good horses to afford a variety of competitions in the features of each day's card.

MOTOR BOATING

Without being driven to anything near her top speed, the Miss America, belonging to Garfield A. Wood of Detroit, and one of the three speed craft sent to England to represent this country in the international motor boating championship, defeated all comers off the Isle of Wight last week and thus insured the return to America of the Harmsworth Trophy, which has remained abroad since the old Maple Leaf won a series of races for it on Huntington Bay several years ago.

This means that we have another international trophy to defend, and, although craft of the type of the Miss America are not over popular in the Eastern States, still it is believed that the Middle West may be relied upon to welcome any and all challenges and then to defend them with craft worthy of the honor.

The attitude of the public on the subject of motor boating has undergone a most decided change in the last few years. At the time of the last races for the Harmsworth Trophy in this country, public interest was great enough to bring together one of the largest marine "galleries" ever seen in this or any other country. Miles of power and steam as well as sailing yachts lined the course on beautiful Huntington Bay on each day of the races.

If another similar event were to be held on the same waters it is doubtful if one-quarter the number of craft would be assembled with spectators aboard. The chief reason for this is not that the American public has lost its appreciation of sporting events, but rather that the super-speedy power craft do not appeal. They are quite useless craft for anything but the contests they take part in, and even in that they are not at all dependable. In fact, these hydroplanes are about the most uncertain performers imaginable, and the completion of a series of races without a mishap is a great surprise to nearly all of the comparatively few owners of them.

During the recent races abroad the Miss America never was driven anywhere near her top speed, which was most wise, considering the fact that it was not necessary. The public does not like craft that may not be depended upon to do their best without danger of breaking down, nor does it like craft that are unable to meet all ordinary weather conditions. The popular interest in the sport of yachting was sadly injured because of the reports that the Shamrock and Resolute were unable to contend with the weather conditions off Sandy Hook on one of the days scheduled for a race for the America's Cup, and so it was with the last Harmsworth Trophy contests in this country, when motor and other troubles upset all calculations.

The public has not forgotten those races. However, in and about Detroit, the public takes a different view of the subject, and the next races for the trophy, which probably will be held there, may be depended upon to attract the crowds that so important a sporting event justifies.

MOSKOPS TRIUMPHS IN MILE BIKE RACE

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK N. J., Aug. 15.—Peter Moskops, the bicycle champion of Holland, defeated Alfred Grenda, the Australian, in two straight heats of a mile match race at the Velodrome here today. Moskops is a giant on a wheel, and bike fans are of the opinion that he will be able to more than hold his own against Arthur Spencer, Frank Kramer and Ray Eaton, when they meet. Moskops stands six feet two inches and weighs 208 pounds. He made good use of his weight here today. In the first heat Moskops rode around Grenda in an easy manner, winning by a length and one-half. In the second heat Moskops rode from in front. Grenda came at him going into the last lap, but Moskops held him off and then outsprinted him to the tape.

Oscar Egg tried to beat Willie Coburn, Fred Weber and Percy Lawrence in an Australian pursuit race, but failed. Riding against three men was too much for the Swiss rider. He was caught by Weber after riding two miles, four and three-quarter laps. The time was six minutes 11 2-5 seconds.

Reggie McNamara won the ten-mile open from a field of more than thirty starters. The first four riders crossed the tape with only inches between them.

The summaries:

Half-Mile Handicap (amateur)—Won by James Magett, Newark (60 yards); Leslie Verhock, Newark (75 yards), second; Joseph Reni, Bay View Wheelmen (50 yards), third; Arthur Nieminsky, Unione Sportiva Italiana (55 yards), fourth. Time—0:50 4-5.

TO DECIDE TENNIS DETAILS.

National Championship Committee Will Meet Tomorrow Night.

A special meeting of the National Championship Committee of the West Side Tennis Club has been called for tomorrow evening, when arrangements for the national singles championship, beginning Aug. 30, will be discussed in detail. The committees in charge of ushers, grounds, police, entries, entertainment and umpires will report through their chairmen, and plans will be perfected to handle the crowds.

Public interest is indicated by the advance sale of season tickets, which continues until Aug. 25. These are handled by Harry Parker, Treasurer, 101 Park Avenue. Only season tickets are sold in advance. There are 7,000 grand stand seats covered by these tickets, of which about 3,000 have been sold. The number of booths at the grounds for the sale of single day tickets has been doubled, and at least six will be in use to accommodate the public. The space allotted for standing room has been increased.

NATIONAL DOUBLES WILL BEGIN TODAY

Thirty Teams Are Entered in Tennis Championships on Longwood Courts.

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—The lawn tennis talent of the United States was in Boston tonight for the opening of the national doubles tournament tomorrow on the Chestnut Hill courts of the Longwood Cricket Club. Thirty teams have entered. Many of the players came to Boston from the Casino tournament at Newport, R. I., which closed yesterday.

Most of the more formidable pairs have drawn places in the lower half. Included among the fourth quarter teams are William T. Tilden 2d of Philadelphia and Charles S. Garland of Pittsburgh, partners on the United States Davis Cup team, who will have Fred B. Alexander of New York and S. Howard Voshell of Brooklyn as their most dangerous opponents.

R. Norris Williams 2d, former national singles champion, and Richard Harte, both of Longwood, who won the Newport doubles last week, are in the third quarters. Other teams in this section are Roland Roberts and Willis Davis of California, Watson M. Washburn and Dean Mathey of New York, Beals C. Wright of New York and William J. Clothier of Philadelphia.

National Singles Champion William M. Johnston and Clarence J. Griffin of California are drawn in the first quarter.

The match between Davis and Roberts and Wright and Clothier is expected to be the feature of tomorrow's play.

Nathaniel W. Niles, winner of the Longwood all-comers' tournament earlier in the season, will meet Johnston in the challenge round for the Longwood bowl on Tuesday afternoon.

FIGHT TITLE MATCH THROUGH FIVE SETS

Hunter and Ostendorf Beat Hammett and Henderson in Quaker Ridge Tennis.

In the best played and most exciting doubles match in the annals of the New Rochelle Tennis Club, Francis T. Hunter and A. J. Ostendorf yesterday afternoon won the Quaker Ridge championship from Alfred D. Hammett and Embree H. Henderson by scores of 6—8, 6—4, 5—7, 6—4, 6—1. The match was filled with spectacular rallies and surprising changes of fortune. It was a battle in which tactics largely defensive were pitted against a game directed from forecourt and dependent upon speed and aggressiveness. Through four sets the two teams fought with honors absolutely even, and the result was as much in doubt as at the start. From that point on, however, aggressiveness had the call. Hammett and Henderson wearied under the long strain of the excessive amount of court-covering required of them, and Hunter and Ostendorf ran through the fifth set in short order.

The final of the Quaker Ridge doubles tourney was postponed from the week of July 12. It brought together the veteran University Heights team of Hammett and Henderson, four times finalists in local tournaments this Summer, including the New Jersey State, Sunningdale and Hoboken Tennis Club doubles, against a team paired for the first time in the Quaker Ridge tournament. Hunter, the old Cornell player and winner of numerous singles events this season, and Ostendorf are both veterans in team tennis, but they had not previously played in partnership. Nevertheless, their work yesterday was marked by excellent team play, for the most part, enabling them to send their University Heights rivals to defeat for the fourth time this season, after they had had the final laurels all but in their grasp.

Losers Play Steady Game.

Hammett and Henderson played their usual careful, steady tennis yesterday afternoon, getting the ball back with unflagging ability and waiting for their opponents' errors. They directed their play largely against Ostendorf, and this device during the first three sets profited them well. Ostendorf was forced into many errors by the sheer persistency of the attack headed toward his territory, and there were many rallies, during which Hunter held a practically idle racquet. But in the fourth and fifth sets Ostendorf repelled the assault with far more success, frequently turning it to the advantage of his side. His game improved noticeably toward the end of the match and was a highly important factor in the ultimate result.

When Hunter did succeed in getting his racquet on the ball he was usually reliable. He was deadly overhead and his shots had all their customary pace, his forehand drives reaching the corners at a speed which frequently made them all but unplayable. Whenever a set-up or anything like it was offered Hunter he finished off the point with absolute finality. Ostendorf, too, played excellent tennis overhead and many of his sharply angled volleys found an opening where no opening seemed to be.

In the face of the unwearying speed and the strong net attack of Ostendorf and Hunter, the University Heights team stuck nobly to their guns, making impossible "gets" and keeping the ball in play often where a less courageous pair would have conceded the points. When they found a chance for a "kill" they were as quick to seize upon it as their opponents.

Games followed service in the first set regularly until deuce had been called. The steadiness of Hammett and Henderson finally earned them the break through Ostendorf's delivery after the games had reached 6-all. Henderson served the next game and won it with some admirable placements down the centre and at the feet of his opponents. The set went to Hammett and Henderson at 8—6.

Come from Behind to Win.

The second set was practically a duplication of the first, the games continuing to follow service up to 4—all, with the difference that, this time, the break went to Hunter and Ostendorf. The bitter struggle continued in the third set, in which the games again went to deuce. Hunter and Ostendorf got an early break in this set, running the games up to 4—2 and again to 5—3. At this stage, however, Hammett and Henderson started a thrilling pull-up, driving with great accuracy and volleying equally well, piling up the games until they tied the count at 5—all. They then broke through Ostendorf's service and finished out the set impressively on Hammett's delivery.

In the fourth, Hunter and Ostendorf again gained an early lead only to see their opponents even it up. The score was 4—1 against them when the University Heights pair staged their second great rally. They pulled up to even terms at 4—all, but they could not quite stand the pace. Hunter and Ostendorf took the next two games and evened up the set count by a series of dazzling plays at the net.

The fifth set found Hammett and Hunter nearly "all in" from their exertions and they were able to offer but little effective resistance, while their opponents continued with speed unimpaired and accuracy increased. Hunter and Ostendorf ran five straight games, before they dropped one, and then ran the set out quickly, 6—1 and the match three sets to two.

The court was slow and heavy from the recent rains, and the play, considering this, was particularly fast throughout. The condition of the grounds worked rather to the advantage of the losers, many of Hammett's chops being almost unreturnable in the heavy going. A large gallery witnessed the battle and was aroused to repeated enthusiasm by the brilliancy of the play.

MALONEY SAYS LOSS IS $10,000 IN SILVER

POLICE SEEK EX-EMPLOYE

Special to The New York Times.

SPRING LAKE, N. J., Aug. 15.—Martin Maloney, host of Cardinal Gibbons and Bishop Daniel J. O'Connell of Richmond at Dallnigary, his Summer home here, stated tonight that burglars who entered his residence on Friday night or early Saturday morning got only dining room silverware and plate. Mr. Maloney estimated the value of the silver at $10,000.

The burglars, he admitted, practically stripped the dining room and breakfast room of portable objects of value, but visited no other rooms in the house. Private detectives from New York and Philadelphia were at work today with the local police, and are seeking a man formerly employed by the Maloney family.

Mr. Maloney said that an inventory was being made of the articles missing. The only piece of silver left in the dining room was a silver bread tray, he admitted. Among the stolen articles was a large silver urn presented to Mr. Maloney on his retirement as President of the United Gas Improvement Company, of Philadelphia; bases of several solid silver candelabra, several gold wedding gifts and many smaller articles.

It was at first reported that priceless gifts to Mr. Maloney from the Pope and some possessions of Cardinal Gibbons had been stolen. Mr. Maloney denied this today. He said the thieves got no very valuable art objects and no bric-a-brac. The only article he prized especially was the silver urn, or loving cup, which marked his retirement as a business man.

The robbery apparently was committed some time after the house was locked for the night at 11 o'clock, although how the thieves entered and left the big Summer home has puzzled the detectives.

One theory was that the burglar or burglars got into the basement through either of two entrances during the day, hid there until after the family, their guests and the six servants had retired and then climbed the stairs to the dining room.

Bishop O'Connell, whose room was above the dining room, said he retired at 11 o'clock, after which he did not hear a sound.

Mrs. L. Carberry Ritchie, daughter of Mr. Maloney, said that she locked the front door at 11:05 o'clock, closed several windows and was accompanied on her rounds by Elmer Dever, a new butler, who came to the Maloney family highly recommended by several families in Lakewood. Mr. Maloney said he was confident that his servants knew nothing of the robbery until after it had been committed, and treated lightly a theory that there was some "inside connection."

The Cardinal, it was said, was not disturbed. He dined with the Maloney family as usual upon his return from a reception in his honor in the afternoon, and retired, following his invariable custom, at 9 o'clock. It was plain, Mr. Maloney said, that the burglars got no further than the dining room.

This morning investigators found a dining room window open. The window was above a flower bed, but there were no footprints there, and detectives were unable to find fingerprints on the window sill. The window, it was thought, had been opened as a precautionary measure by the intruders, in the event they were forced to beat a hasty retreat. Mrs. Ritchie declared she closed this window before retiring.

The Cardinal and Bishop O'Connell will be the guests of honor at a reception at Dallnigary today. Mr. Maloney said he had invited a number of guests to attend this function, which would not be postponed because of the robbery. He admitted he was forced to call upon a local hotel today to send such silver as would be needed at the reception.

SILK MAN OVERCOME BY GAS.

Wife Says Louis Amel Lost $1,000,000 in the Market.

Louis Amel, President and Treasurer of the Diamond Silk Company, 143 Madison Avenue, and the owner of a silk mill in Paterson, N. J., was found unconscious from gas last night in the kitchen of his apartment at 684 Riverside Drive. His wife, who found him, said later that Mr. Amel had been despondent over a loss of nearly $1,000,000 from an investment in the Japanese raw silk market, which slumped heavily.

Amel, though only 35 years old, is well known in the silk industry. He has been in business for sixteen years, and is associated with his father and brother. It was said, however, that he had not been especially familiar with conditions in the Japanese raw silk market.

His investment was more than $1,500,000, his wife said, and the slump had reduced it to about $500,000. She had noticed that her husband was worrying, she said, and had been watching him closely. Last night she fell asleep, but was awakened at 9:30 o'clock and smelled gas. In the kitchen she found her husband unconscious on the floor, all jets of a gas range wide open.

She directed the elevator boy to summon aid, and Dr. Quinn from St. Lawrence Hospital arrived with a pulmotor. Three other physicians and Policeman Conway arrived soon afterward.

When Dr. Quinn had revived Amel with the aid of a pulmotor, the silk manufacture, who is a big man, grappled with Policeman Conway, but was overpowered. Unable to talk, Amel was carried to his bedroom. The physicians said he would recover. He was delirious, they said, when he attacked the policeman.

3 HELD IN $3,000 HOLDUP.

Accused of Robbing Ten Members of Brooklyn Political Club.

Three youths were arrested yesterday in Manhattan and later held in $5,000 bail each by Magistrate McCloskey, in the Gates Avenue Court, Brooklyn, charged with having taken part in the holdup of ten members of the United Republican Club, at 606 DeKalb Avenue, Brooklyn, early yesterday morning. The bandits wore masks and each carried a revolver. They lined the players against the wall and took $1,000 in cash and jewelry worth over $12,000, according to the report made to the police.

One of the victims said he recognized in one of the bandits a former member of the club. He gave the police the name of this man and Detectives Beyer and Thornton went to Manhattan and made the arrests.

The prisoners gave their names as Samuel Watchinsky, 18, of 121 St. Mark's Place, Manhattan, a former member of the club; Samuel Ryan, 21, of 64 Essex Street, Manhattan, and Benjamin Kaufman, 19, of 127 Clinton Street, Manhattan. All three denied their guilt when arraigned in court.

The detectives expect to make two more arrests shortly.

31 SEIZED AS GAMBLERS IN SARATOGA RAIDS

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, Aug. 15.—Three raids on alleged gambling houses in this city were staged this morning by county and city authorities, in which thirty-one arrests were made. The raids came in the midst of investigation into gambling being conducted by an extraordinary Grand Jury and may have some bearing on the inquiry.

Two of the raids were conducted by James L. Sullivan, Private Detective Hugh L. Dorsey, former member of the Saratoga Springs police force; Clarence Hovey, a Deputy Sheriff, and Wyman S. Bascom, District Attorney of Washington County, who is conducting the gambling probe in place of District Attorney Charles B. Andrus.

Early this morning Sullivan and his assistants raided the Eaton House in Philadelphia Street, which had been rented for the season. There they arrested John Henry Moore, alleged proprietor, and half a dozen men and women. The officials had obtained a sealed warrant from Justice Charles C. Vankirk, who is presiding over the special gambling investigation. The officers say they found a roulette wheel and confiscated it.

The other raid was made on a house in Nelson Avenue, where it was suspected that gambling was going on. There more than half a dozen persons were caught.

Those arrested in the two raids were placed in automobiles and taken to Ballston Spa, where they were locked up in the County Jail at 4 o'clock this morning. They gave the names of James Gordon, John Stone, Bartholomew T. Millin, Margaret Hastings, Helen Barrett, Mrs. John Armstrong, Cora Stillwater, Laura Steger, Patrick Flinn, Charles Clark, Abraham Fiebus, John Beuler, Max Kauffman, Eben Johnson, Harry Lanzer, David Moore, and John Henry Moore.

John H. Moore, the alleged proprietor of the gambling house, was released on $500 bail and the others were allowed to go on $100.

Superintendent Edward T. Carroll and several men raided the Spencer House in Woodlawn Avenue early this morning. Chain Tepper, alleged proprietor of the hotel, and thirteen others were taken on a charge of playing craps. The police say they found a crap table, which they seized. Tepper was locked up and the others were released on bail.

That the people of Saratoga let the "unparalleled resources" of the community lie fallow for eleven months of the year, while they wait for the "easy money to be gained from the gambling fraternity" during one short month, was the opinion of the Rev. William Carter, D. D., pastor of the Throop Avenue Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, expressed in a sermon delivered at the local Presbyterian Church today.

Comment has been aroused over the sermon particularly in view of the extraordinary Grand Jury session now investigating gambling conditions here.

Dr. Carter said the three "most damning" maxims of present-day civilization appeared to be "easy money," "live without labor" and "get something for nothing." These, he held, had made many persons ready to live on gambling, or, what was just as bad, on gamblers. He declared:

"Every right-thinking man and woman in the community should join with the Chamber of Commerce in its present drive against gambling, and willingly bear witness before the Grand Jury to the malign, pernicious and disastrous effects of the gambling mania that is everywhere apparent here save to the willfully blind."

SHOOTS WIFE AND DAUGHTER

Custom House Officer After Jealous Act Surrenders to Police.

In a jealous rage, Emil Coudry, 44, a Custom House employe, aroused his wife and daughter as they slept in his flat at 274 Bedford Street, early yesterday morning, and shot both, seriously wounding his daughter Mary, 21, and slightly wounding his wife, Catherine. His daughter was shot in the right jaw and abdomen, and a bullet carried away the lobe of his wife's right ear.

The daughter has an even chance of recovery, physicians said last night. Coudry was locked up, charged with felonious assault and violating the Sullivan law.

"I got tired of the way things had been going for two years," he is said to have told the police. "After killing Catherine I planned to shoot myself."

According to Mrs. Coudry, her husband entered the bedroom muttering. Both mother and daughter caught sight of the revolver he carried and sprang from bed. They had reached a hallway as he opened fire. Together they fled to the apartment of Mrs. Jennie Guarnieri, on the same floor, but Coudry broke down the door and fired several shots as the two women fled down stairs to the street. They ran into a neighbor's house and it was there they told of their wounds.

Coudry, having reloaded the pistol, returned to his aaprtment and locked the door. The shots had attracted mourners at a wake across the street and presently Policeman Dunn of the Charles Street Station appeared, summoned by a police whistle.

Dunn looked for a fusillade through the door admitting to Coudry's flat, but when none came he pounded on the door, demanding admittance.

"I'm here," Coudry answered. "Come in."

The policeman finally persuaded him to open the door and found him standing behind it. When Dunn ordered him to turn over the pistol, Coudry suggested that he be permitted to get dressed first. Pressed to hand it over at once, he took the pistol from a bureau drawer and handed it to the policeman.

An ambulance was summoned, and both women were treated. Coudry's daughter was taken to the hospital, where her injuries developed a serious turn.

HAS HER OWN DEATH LIST.

Woman Would Send Gossips, Liars, Scolds and Pests to Sing Sing Chair.

OSSINING, Aug. 15.—Letters are received regularly at Sing Sing, according to prison attendants, from a woman who not only approves of the electric chair but demands that its scope be broadened and its use accelerated. The writer signs herself as Mrs. S. U. Smith and gives her address as Jersey City, N. J., where the letters are mailed. She gives her street address, which attendants will not divulge.

The writer addresses her communications to "The Electric Chair, Pesthouse, Sing Sing, N. Y." She says the chair should be used not alone on murderers but on "gossips, scolds, liars and pests." She names a dozen persons she knows, who are mostly women, whom she wishes sent to the chair. She gives names and addresses in the "death list" she has forwarded to the prison authorities.

Every time there is an execution advertised the prison authorities get a batch of mail from persons opposing capital punishment. One woman wrote and promised that, if the State executioner would go on strike, she would start a popular subscription to pension him. "Everybody else is striking," she stated in her letter. All letters dealing with the electric chair are thrown in the trash basket.

CENSUS IN ONE DAY PLANNED FOR 1930

WOULD ABOLISH ABUSES

Congressional Committee Considers Way to End So-Much-Per-Head Payment Method.

Because of criticism of the Federal census in various parts of the country this year alleging that the figures cannot be regarded as more than approximate at best, the Census Committee of the House of Representatives, of which Congressman Isaac Siegel is Chairman, has under consideration a reorganization of census methods for the future.

The committee will probably hold hearings this Fall on the methods employed in taking this year's census, to ascertain whether wholesale errors occurred or whether it was reliable in general, in spite of errors in detail.

"One of the plans suggested," Congressman Siegel said, "is that of setting aside a day for the taking of the census, and arousing all possible public interest in it, patterning it after Registration Day in the draft. Registration places could be located on every block, where the residents would be required to report for the census. Follow-up methods could be used afterward. This would do away with the feature of paying so much per name to the census-takers, a system which naturally lends itself to abuses."

Ex-Senator Samuel A. Foley, Supervisor of the Census in Manhattan, who defended the Manhattan enumeration as being accurate on the whole, asserted that some of the census-takers had written up fake lists in the back rooms of barrooms and that others, who were paid by the name, would enumerate all those who could be registered quickly and accurately and then overlook the rest because the "mopping-up" process required much time and effort and did not yield sufficient names to make it worth while on the system of paying so much a head.

The Federal enumeration of Manhattan was about right on the whole, according to a statement issued by Dr. Walter Laidlaw, in charge of the Population Research Bureau of the New York Federation of Churches, who held that Manhattan was decreasing in population and that the falling-off of 47,439 in the population of the Borough in ten years, as shown by the Federal figures, was approximately correct. According to experts of the Department of Health, real estate operators and other critics of the Federal Census, the tremendous housing congestion in Manhattan today, in contrast with the considerable surplus of housing accommodations of ten years ago, proves that the population of the borough has increased considerably. The tests made by the Mayor's Committee in June indicated that the population of selected sections of Manhattan was greater by 2.07 per cent. than the Federal Census had showed, and this in spite of the fact that the city's population is normally less in June, the beginning of the vacation season, than in January, when the Federal Census was taken. On the other hand, according to Dr. Laidlaw, the census of the Mayor's Committee, when closely analyzed, corroborates the general results of the Federal census.

SEES CUT IN CLOTHES AT WHOLESALE IN FALL

Special to The New York Times.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Aug. 15.—Men's clothing will sell at lower prices at wholesale this Fall, in the opinion of William M. Wood, President of the American Woolen Company. He refers to clothes that go on retail in the Spring of 1921.

At the same time he declares that woolen cloth will not drop in price.

Mr. Wood said that the company's mills which have been closed here and in several places throughout the country on account of a lack of orders would not be reopened before Labor Day and possibly not then.

"The prospects look bright, but that is the most I can say for the present," he said. "We are receiving numerous inquiries from persons looking for cloth. We are like fishermen. We have our bait and it appears now as though we are getting bites."

"Remember, I said clothing, not cloth. I deal in cloth and not clothing." The closing of the mills has, it is apparent, meant the possible loss of a season's work.

Mr. Wood said that the mills are started on the Fall goods about July 1. The cloth is delivered so that the clothiers can start their salesmen on the road with samples in about ninety days afterward.

"So you see," said Mr. Wood, "it will be at least ninety days after we open before we can get goods ready for the clothiers' samples. Much will depend upon how this year's samples sell. If they go good and the people buy clothes, it will probably mean overtime work. But if the clothes don't sell or if there should be any more overall campaigns it will mean that the mills will be closed again."

DEFEND REWORKED WOOL.

Manufacturers Reply to Sheep Bureau on "Truth in Fabric" Law.

Denying the charge that large quantities of reworked wool were used in making fabrics in this country, the American Association of Woolen and Worsted Manufacturers yesterday made public its reply to the National Sheep and Wool Bureau in the controversy over proposals for a "truth in fabric" law.

"Your statement that 'half a million pounds of shoddy were thrown on the American clothing market in 1919 while a billion pounds of unmanufactured virgin wool were accumulating in the storehouses' led me to think you were referring to the storehouses of this country, and to say that the figure was too large," said the letter of the association. "You now make it clear that the billion pounds were in the 'world's storehouses' exclusive of the new United States clips.

"You make the point that manufacturers ought to have been using the surplus of coarse wools for the manufacture of fabrics to be sold at a 'nominal profit' instead of using reworked stock. Those mills which last season made samples of fabrics from these coarse wools could not develop any business in them, owing to the vagaries of fashion.

"Some reworked stock is better than some new wool. That is not opinion; it is fact. Compulsory branding of some fabrics to create the impression that their fibre content is of high grade when it may not be—as when all fabrics of new wool would be given a '100 per cent virgin wool' brand—is unfair to the consumer. And so is the compulsory branding of others to indicate that they are of lower grade than they are—as would be the case when a fine broadcloth would have to show how much reworked stock was used in making it. Both of these misrepresentations would be made compulsory in the case of certain fabrics under the terms of any bill compelling the branding of fibre content alone.

"Any special designation of these animal fibres to show whether or not they had previously been spun or woven would give the public no useful information as to the inherent properties of the cloth."

RESTORES GERMAN LIBRARY

MILAN, Aug. 15.—Waiving the right of confiscation conferred upon it by the Treaty of Versailles, the Italian Government has intimated to Germany its readiness to yield up the valuable library which belonged to the Prussian Archaeological Institute in Rome on condition that this collection, which is the finest of its kind in Italy, remains in the Italian capital, with right of access for Italian students.

To Suspend Red Cross Magazine.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—"The famine price of white paper" has forced the American Red Cross to discontinue publication of the Red Cross Magazine, an announcement today said, adding: "Further publication would involve either considerable increase in the subscription price or a subsidy from the general funds of the society, which deems either course inexpedient." The October number will be the last issued.

FINANCIAL SITUATION

Domestic Problems Submerge Interest in European Affairs—Stocks Recover.

The financial markets are concerned over the gravity of political and military events in Western Europe, but it is doubtful whether they have as yet stood in the foreground of matters affecting business and prices. As spectators of the retreat of Polish forces before Russian Soviet armies and of diplomatic negotiations centered in London and Paris, American financiers have been handicapped by the lack of a clear vision of what is going on. During last week it appeared at one time as though France was embarking on a policy which would cut loose from the position taken by other Allied nations under the leadership of Britain. Shortly, the scene shifted and France was reported in news cables as standing firmly with England. The initial reports that France would lend armed support to the anti-Bolshevist powers in South Russia were succeeded later by information that steps to this end were not being arranged. British labor recorded the purpose of resisting with great strikes any effort to attack the Russian armies. It was not possible from this side to determine how things were shaping nor what would be the economic consequences of a triumph of Soviet Russia over Poland. And as there seemed nothing to do but wait for a clear view of results of diplomacy, the markets here appeared to rest fairly comfortably, devoting more direct attention to domestic occurrences. These were both favorable and depressing, according to what one considered. The Government crop report, showing conditions as of July 31, disclosed so pronounced and unusual an improvement of corn, oats, hay, &c., that it went far in offsetting a rather unexpected deterioration of Spring wheat during the month. It is pleasant to contemplate the possibility of the third largest corn crop in our history and wheat is likely to stand high among the average returns of the last ten years. Further evidence of a broad and active steel and iron market appeared in trade surveys, one significant observation being that as one consuming field declines because of seasonal or business influences, another seems to step into its place. Taking the automobile industry, which is admittedly less active than in the early Spring, the steel makers find that contracts held in abeyance or cancelled can immediately be switched to the manufacturers of farm implements, machinery and tools whose demands had been unfilled before because of the preemption of mill space for sheets and steel bars by the motor companies. The closing of such a gap between production and consumption is a decidedly steadying influence in periods of business uncertainty like the present. The steel trade has often been referred to as the true barometer of industry, and if this function does not hold now, when extraordinary influences are at work in textile, leather and hides and the building field, still it is certain that stable steel conditions are a potent force in strengthening business sentiment in many directions. The other side of the picture is not to be ignored, however. The strain upon credit due to crop harvesting and moving is now well under way. The banks are striving to allocate adequate amounts of credit where they are most needed for the all important task of conserving the perishable source of a vast portion of the nation's wealth. The process is, and has been, fully reflected in extraordinary high money and credit rates and in the denial of new loans for many industrial purposes. No doubt some business is suffering in the process. Liquidation of goods at the best price obtainable has been and still is being forced by the inability of holders to finance themselves in a market which has been made unsettled by the reluctance of the public to buy.

Six and seven per cent. call loan rates in the stock market reflected last week the result of the liquidation of speculative holdings in the fortnight preceding. The moderate demand for stocks which lifted prices well above their recent low levels was not of extent sufficient to expand loans appreciably, especially as most of the purchases were for the retirement of short contracts. The lending banks had funds more than ample for the demand, but easy rates betokened nothing of what rates would be in case a real, broad demand sprang up for securities to be carried on margin. The authoritative sign post of funds for collateral loans remained in the fixed period market and here little new money was to be had and what was placed commanded 8½ to 9 per cent., a shade stiffer than the week before. The dearth of time funds for brokers' borrowings and uncertainty lest substantial purchases of stocks for speculation bring advances in call loan rates militate powerfully against an active, rising market for some time to come. But the situation does not reflect against the position which stocks have reached in consequence of the July-August decline. There has undoubtedly been an important correction of "weak" spots in the speculative understructure. Pools which had lifted more or less seasoned issues to unseasoned price levels have had to cut down their holdings and reduce their loans. Stocks of industrial companies affected by individual business depressions have been depressed to levels which represent readjusted ratios of value, some, quite likely, going lower than actual conditions warranted. And it has been noticeable that railroad shares maintained a relatively steady front throughout the decline and last week were advanced rather easily on a little buying. If credit conditions do not warrant a forward of real proportions movement in stocks the recent recession has, at least, brought prices to levels where they can be studied in relation with the readjustment that has taken place in business and trade. It is through a search for "intrinsic values" that purchasers decide whether or not stocks are cheap.

Crop moving demands are now having a material reflection in bank statements, disclosed by the loan, deposit and reserve accounts of the Federal Reserve Banks and member institutions. The consolidated statement of the Reserve system promises to supply material for close examination for the next six weeks or more, particularly on the point of money and credit movements from the large Eastern centres to the West and Southwest. Taking the New York Reserve Bank's statement of last week the reserve of gold and legals against deposits, after setting aside the necessary gold cover for outstanding Federal Reserve notes, was 37.3 per cent., a decline of 2.2 per cent. from the figure the week before. This is close to the legal reserve minimum. Member banks increased their borrowings by nearly $61,000,000 for the week, coincident with a loss of $40,900,000 in demand deposits at the same time that loans expanded no more than $10,365,000, these figures being derived from the Clearing House bank report. Usually loans and demand deposits move in parallel courses, so the wide difference last week seemed to show the withdrawal of funds by interior banks on a broad scale. The movement, naturally, has relation to the local loan market, as out-of-town institutions are understood to be the heaviest lenders of demand money.

Shallow Texas Wells

Recent figures compiled on the shallow sand belt of the northern part of Eastland County, Texas, usually referred to as the Holleman Pool, show that district to have 39 producing oil wells, with a total daily production of 5,100 bbls., or an average of 131 bbls. daily per well. Four gas wells have been drilled in this territory and no dry hole has been encountered. Operators figure that operations to this time have been sufficient to test only one-eighth of the possible shallow area.
These shallow wells can usually be completed in about 40 days and most of them have sufficient gas pressure to make them flow. Others are put on the pump. The average well in this territory pays for itself in about eight weeks' time.

EUROPE RECOVERING FROM WAR'S EFFECTS

Boston Banker Finds France, Belgium and Great Britain Making Great Progress.

The future in Western Europe is far from being as black as some reports would indicate and is distinctly encouraging, according to John Bolinger, Vice President of the National Shawmut Bank of Boston, who has just returned from abroad, where he made an intensive study of general conditions not alone in the European capitals but in the smaller cities as well.

"Speaking broadly," he says, "the financial condition of France, Belgium and Great Britain may be regarded as distinctly favorable. I was particularly struck by the interest manifested throughout Great Britain in the coming elections here. They are not so much interested in the success of any particular candidate as they are to see the signing of the Peace Treaty, which they regard as essential to any undertaking leading toward improvement. There seems to be a strong current of unfavorable opinion as to the attitude assumed by President Wilson in making the signing of the Peace Treaty dependent upon the acceptance of his views with regard to the League of Nations, thereby delaying actual peace for a full year.

"That English merchants should be to some extent disturbed because of our growing foreign commerce is only natural. The recently enacted merchant marine law has given British merchants and shippers considerable concern. Far-reaching and comprehensive plans have been formed with the backing of the Government to meet the growing competition of the United States.

"Among the European countries involved in the war Great Britain has been most successful since the signing of the armistice in carrying out plans for the restoration of her former position in international commerce. Commercial relations have been quite solidly established and active trade in considerable volume has already begun with the Central Powers, Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia. Important advances have been made toward obtaining the future trade of the Scandinavian countries as an inlet to Russia."

Speaking of the ability of the British banking institutions to carry out such extensive programs with an attendant credit extension, Mr. Bolinger said:

"One very noticeable difference among British banking institutions, as compared with our American banks, is the freedom from hampering restrictions generally enjoyed by the British banks. There can be little question that Great Britain's relatively strong financial position is largely due to the freedom of action enjoyed by her financial institutions. British banks are always in position to give adequate support to their international commerce in the full assurance that their efforts will be unhampered and that they can always count upon the solid backing of the Bank of England."

Mr. Bolinger reviewed the remarkable recuperation of Belgium from her devastated state at the close of the World War, and then turning to France said that the French have made excellent progress in rehabilitating their industries and reorganizing their commerce. He points out that in spite of the fact that France lost almost a year following the signing of the armistice before she was ready to bend all of her energies to the work of reconstruction, great progress has been made. Continuing he said:

"Some criticism has been directed by certain elements among the population toward the unsatisfactory financial condition in which the French Government has been placed. This situation is largely the result of disinclination on the part of the Government to adopt at once a policy of high taxation. Cause for reproach on that score no longer exists, however. The new taxes now levied give ample promise of a revenue more than sufficient to cover the ordinary expenses of her budget. Belief that Germany would pay large indemnities is in great measure responsible for France's reluctance to charge herself with amounts which might properly be obtained from Germany. The desire of the contesting political parties in the recent election to avoid the suggestion of huge tax burdens was also a factor in delaying the adoption of a practical plan of taxation. Nothing speaks more eloquently of the courage of the French people or gives greater promise of the ability of France to successfully overcome her financial obstacles than the uncomplaining acceptance of this tax burden."

SUGAR

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 12.—Utah will probably produce this year 1,384,000 tons of sugar beets compared with 1,014,000 tons raised last year, according to the July crop report issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. Completed acreage figures show that there are 112,900 acres in beets in Utah, with an additional 3,200 acres in Idaho from which beets will be delivered to Utah factories. "The condition is very good everywhere in Utah," the bulletin states. Not only will the tonnage of beets be greater this year, but the Government's agricultural experts forecast a higher average sugar content than last year's figure of 11.12 per cent.

Beet sugar is an essential food product. It is used for the table, for cooking, for preserving, for the manufacture of candy, soft drinks, medicines, etc. Regardless of industrial conditions, it is assured of constant demand.

The Company's financial statement as of February 28, 1920, adjusted to include this financing, shows total net assets of $32,776,424, applicable to this issue of $8,000,000 principal amount of First Mortgage Bonds.

These bonds are secured by a closed first mortgage on all the Company's properties (except certain farm lands) subject only to a purchase money mortgage of $600,000, due 1921-1923, on one of its 15 active factories.

The mortgage contains a very strong covenant by which the Company agrees to maintain current assets at all times equal to at least 100% of all liabilities, including these bonds outstanding.

Net profits for four years ended February 28, 1920, averaged $3,123,943. The maximum annual interest charge on these bonds amounts to $560,000.

The annual retirement of substantial amounts of this issue through the serial maturities will steadily reduce the interest charges as well as constantly increase the proportion of equity in the property over and above the First Mortgage Bonds.

These bonds are followed by $23,730,000 par value of capital stock, all of one class, upon which dividends are being paid at the rate of 8% annually. Dividends have been paid ever since the organization of the company at rates never lower than 6% per annum.

CUBA IS TAKING UP MATERIAL SAG HERE

FEDERAL BUILDING SUBSIDY

Would Bring Tax Exemption, Fuel Deliveries, and Meet Housing Crisis, Say Builders.

Another angle reflecting the far-reaching influence of coal famine and continued car shortage upon building construction costs is being shaped by sudden raids for basic building materials by export agents upon yard stocks at Atlantic seaboard cities.

In recent months the retail building material yards have been endeavoring to stock up in anticipation of local building requirements. They have purchased in excessive quantities, often at special prices demanded by producers, but deliveries have not been made.

This condition has been caused by car and fuel shortage. Lately the demand for new construction work of various types has fallen away. Dealers began to wonder how long they would have to hold this high priced material; how long their money would be tied up if new housing and other kinds of building construction continued to slough off.

In the meantime the fuel shortage and car famine began to affect some of the manufacturing establishments. Many of them have been obliged to close. Their bins are full; they have no more storage room, but they cannot ship to buyers because they cannot get cars. For the same reason they have been in many instances, as in the case of limestone for Lehigh Valley cement plants, unable to obtain cars for the transportation of raw materials.

Export orders from these mills were, of course, as badly affected as have been domestic contractors and distributers. In the meantime great engineering projects in Cuba, South America and other former markets for German cement and other basic commodities used in building construction, began to show signs of running short of materials. There was no help to be expected, contractors found, from the mills, so the alternative was to buy up available supplies elswhere.

Within the last week or two building material distributers have been receiving frantic inquiries from sources with which they have never before done business offering to take up all their available yard stocks, call for them and pay spot prices for all the cement, lime, plaster, metal lath, plaster boards, hollow brick, fire brick and even common brick. Advertisements have even been appearing in the classified columns of the daily newspapers for cement by car loads.

On Thursday of last week one dealer alone in this city received offers from three different parties to buy 4,000 barrels of Portland cement, a thousand barrels of white cement, a thousand barrels of plaster of paris. Other inquiries were reported that put the total at a great deal more than the current requirement for new building averages over a period of several months.

There is no telling how long this demand will continue, but it is likely to have a decided influence upon building material prices and their upward trend if it develops or its present scope is long continued. The situation was complex enough without this new factor entering to complicate matters further, especially at a time when distributing yards are just finding it possible to stock up a little in anticipation of domestic building requirements.

One report explained the situation to be due to a worldwide shortage of building materials, the elimination of Germany as a source of basic building material supply for South America and other foreign ports, thus throwing the burden of supply upon the United States, England and Canada, in all of which countries the manufacturing plant capacity is already under engagement or tentative option for potential construction work.

In other words, there is such an overwhelming construction movement developing in all parts of the world that building material consumers outside of the track that offers the least resistance to trade are scarcely able to attract more than passing interest from building material manufacturers.

The domestic market is able to absorb the entire plant capacity. The current whiffs of export inquiry in this and other Atlantic seaboard cities convincingly show the destitution of the world for building materials.

Adequate supply, rather than lowest possible price, now constitute the pith of nearly all negotiation.

It all approaches the pit of the angle where lies the ultimate solution of the housing problem, says The Dow Service Daily Building Reports. The problem has been so neglected during the last twenty months that it now stalks as a menace of national proportions, bigger than the power of municipalities, counties or even States to solve.

The housing crisis has become a national issue and as such it must be handled as a great national emergency. The speediest possible solution of the enigma is for the Federal Government to recognize it as such without further equivocation, to appropriate national funds under first mortgage and issue bonds against them for the people to subscribe to in amounts commensurate with their desire to acquire a home of their own. Such bonds would be tax exempt.

With such a form of building subsidy, building materials would then be accorded the freedom of the rails, just as war wares and munitions had the right of way with food and fuel when the country was facing the last great emergency.

SUPERIOR OIL TO EXPAND.

Reorganizaton Strengthens Control of Atlantic Refining Co.

Announcement has been made of the completion of plans for the expansion of the Superior Oil Corporation. The amount of stock which was originally to have been issued was decreased and holders of trust company certificates were offered the opportunity of taking up stock on the new basis or receiving back their purchase price of $19 a share. Little cash was accepted. The Atlantic Refining Company's control of Superior Oil has been strengthened.

Atlantic Refining now holds 527,500 shares, which have been deposited with it for two years until Aug. 1, 1922, under restrictions regarding their sale. The company has nominated a majority of Superior Directors for three years.

Halts Butterfield Accounting.

COLD SPRING, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Because papers were not served personally upon an incompetent heir, Daniel Butterfield, 2d, in Bloomingdale Asylum, action to approve the latest accounting of Albert F. Hagar, executor of Mrs. Julia Butterfield's large estate, has just been held up in Surrogate J. Bennett Southard's Court in Cold Spring. Graham Witschief, attorney for infants to share part of Mrs. Butterfield's fortune, had called attention to the fact that neither Butterfield nor the superintendent of the asylum had been served with notice, as required by law.

The Old CUSTOM HOUSE—Now the SUB-TREASURY

The stately Grecian Sub-Treasury was completed in 1840, and for twenty-two years was the Custom House of the Port of New York. From the foundation of the Republic the office of Collector at the Port of New York has been distinguished by the high character of those appointed to fill it. The first Collector after the Revolution was the sterling Patriot, General John Lamb. From 1797 to 1801 the Collectorship was held by Joshua Sands, the great Brooklyn landowner, who served as Captain in the Revolution, and out of his own resources supplied the Army with great quantities of uniforms and provisions. Sands afterward became the second President of the Merchants' Bank (now merged into the Bank of the Manhattan Company), serving from 1804 to 1808. The corner of Wall and Broad Streets was first the site of the City Hall, which afterward became the Capitol of the United States. Here the oath of office was administered to George Washington as first President of the United States.

DOMINICA THRIVES UNDER OUR CONTROL

NEAR SEVENFOLD INCREASE

Republic's Customs Loan to be Paid Thirty-three Years Before Due—110,000 Children in Schools.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels made public today a report which, in brief form, recites the record of the American military administration of the Republic of Santo Domingo. The report was written by Rear Admiral Thomas Snowden, U. S. N., the Military Governor of the republic. In the opinion of officials familiar with conditions in Santo Domingo, the record of achievement has never been surpassed, if equaled, in the history of military administration.

Under the American administration, says the Admiral's report, the internal revenues of the republic have increased from about $700,000 annually to $3,492,000 in 1919, while the forecast for 1920 is for receipts that will total about $4,500,000.

Taxes that were deemed unfair to the poor were eliminated and a tax on property introduced. The floating debt of the republic has been settled "in an equitable and just manner," and more than 9,000 claims that were filed against the Santo Dominican Government prior to the American occupation have been settled.

Payments of the bonded indebtedness of the republic have been regularly made and it is now evident that the $20,000,000 customs administration loan made in 1908 will be paid in full by 1925 instead of 1958, or thirty-three years before it is due, while the $4,000,000 loan of 1918 will be paid off by 1922, sixteen years before due.

In 1917 there were 12,000 children attending the schools of Santo Domingo. The number now exceeds 110,000. School buildings valued at $800,000 are under construction and it is planned to spend an additional $1,000,000 for the same purpose in 1921. The National University has been completely re-organized and technical and agricultural schools are to be established.

The alleged graft, dishonesty and inefficiency with which the old Santo Domingo Treasury was said to be honeycombed have been eliminated, the Secretary declared.

The national railways have been brought up to date, trunk highways constructed in all parts of the republic, a modern post office system installed, the harbors dredged, new customs houses built, pure bred stock imported to improve native herds, and the emigration service placed on a working and honest basis.

These, the report says, are some of the things that American rule has meant to Santo Domingo.

Replying to the question, "What fundamental things are necessary for the completion of the work of the present occupation before the military Government could be terminated?" Admiral Snowden says that present projects should be completed.

Certain basic laws must be promulgated which, he explained, are essential to a peaceable transfer of authority from the military Government to a government of the people. He mentions also the proposed substitution of the United States code of laws for the Napoleonic code now in use and, lastly, the fixing by arbitration of the boundary line between Haiti and Santo Domingo.

CITY BUS LINE FOR JAMAICA.

Service to Manhattan Starts Today Along Suspended Trolley Routes.

Grover A. Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, announced last night that a new city-owned bus line will be placed in operation at 7 o'clock this morning from Jamaica to Second Avenue, Manhattan. The line is for the benefit of commuters along the route of the Manhattan and Queens traction corporation cars which have suspended operation pending the settlement of a strike by the motormen and conductors.

The new bus route will be from Jamaica along Queens Boulevard through Kew Gardens, Forest Hills, Elmhurst, Winfield, and Corona across the Queensboro Bridge to Second Avenue, Manhattan.

A Fireproof Building, Wonderfully Located

APARTMENTS in Suites of 6 and 7 rooms are offered on the TENANT-OWNERSHIP PLAN from $11,500 to $17,500. On the payment of 5 YEARS' RENTAL in advance Tenant-Owners can "purchase" a one-twelfth ownership with every possible assurance of no assessments or rental during this period.

A number of the apartments originally offered have been sold to a conservative group of tenant owners.

Your investment will increase as the mortgages are reduced from the income derived from the rented apartments. In after years, your apartment may be sold or rented as desired.

RENTS are REASONABLE.

MORTGAGES run for 10 years.

THE ENTIRE PROPOSITION HAS BEEN THOROUGHLY INVESTIGATED AND APPROVED BY LEGAL AND REAL ESTATE EXPERTS.

PRISONERS' DEATHS LAID TO PNEUMONIA

State Commissioner Makes Public His Finding in Hart's Island Cases.

WARNS OF DRUG HANDLING

Would Restrict It to Assistant Physician—Declares Rules Were Broken.

Leon C. Weinstock, State Commissioner of Prisons, last night made public his findings in the investigation of the deaths of Philip Teufer and Samuel Raio, formerly inmates of the reformatory prison at Hart's Island. Charges made by Arthur A. Seiffert alleged that the management of the institution was lax; that Teufer was permitted to get drugs and in so doing he made a drink which the two partook of and both died.

Commissioner Weinstock finds that the men came to their deaths from pneumonia, but he recommends that in the future no drugs be permitted to be handled by any one but an assistant physician with a knowledge of pharmacy. He also urges that competent nurses be engaged to assist the resident physician.

Rules of the institution were not lived up to by Martin C. Breen, Acting Warden, and Dr. Edgar C. Joyce, resident physician, Commissioner Weinstock finds. He declares that inmate labor was diverted from regular duties, that one Sieffert, an inmate nurse, was permitted to extract teeth, that Teufer was permitted to compound medicines and that opportunity was given to inmates to obtain drugs and chemicals for their own use.

"I also find," says Mr. Weinstock, "that this was the result of a lack of appropriation by the Board of Estimate of New York City for additional help by the Commissioner of Correction and in appropriating merely the sum of $900 to obtain an additional resident physician, at which sum it was found impossible to obtain the help required. Under such conditions the resident physician was necessarily compelled to do the best he could with the assistance of inmate labor.

"It is a matter of surprise that in these days of high prices and scarcity of labor such an inadequate sum should have passed the board. It is recommended that the Commissioner of Correction make immediate application to the Board of Estimate for an appropriation sufficient to obtain the necessary skilled help required and thereby eliminate the necessity of employing of inmate labor."

In his investigation Mr. Weinstock found that two bottles had been found on Teufer's person. "The fact that two bottles, containing an unknown mixture, were found," says the Commissioner, "should have resulted in an investigation by the authorities of the reformatory to determnie the nature of the mixture which said bottles contained and a more vigorous supervision to prevent any recurrence of such incident."

In closing his recommendations, Mr. Weinstock said:

"All rules promulgated by the Commissioner of Correction relating to penitentiaries, prisons and reformatory institutions under his jurisdiction should be printed and distributed to the Warden, guards, keepers and other employes affected thereby, and the Warden of the institution should be held responsible for the observance of said rules by persons under his jurisdiction."

Child Eats Box of Pills, Dies.

Zullea Seidlock, 3 years old, of 167 Avenue C, died last night after eating a box of indigestion pills belonging to her mother, Mrs. Mary Seidlock. The mother found the child lying on the kitchen floor with the empty pill box beside her. She had climbed upon a chair and taken the pills from a shelf.

VENIZELOS LAUDED HERE.

The Greeks of New York City voiced their protest against the recent attack on Venizelos in a meeting yesterday of the United Thacian Association at Maennerchor Hall, 263 East Fifty-sixth Street. Fifteen hundred men and women crowded the hall, loudly applauding every mention of the Premier's name, and interrupting the speakers with cries of "Death to the traitors" and "Down with the King."

Dr. Socrates Dadakis, President of the Thracian Association and of the Pan-Hellenic Society, was Chairman, and the other speakers were the Rev. Demetrius Callimachos of the Greek Church in Brooklyn, Aristides E. Phoutrides of the University of Athens, Professor Carroll N. Brown of City College and Miran Vevsali, Armenian representative at Washington.

Resolutions of congratulation to Venizelos on his recovery were adopted. It was also voted to send messages to the United States Senate, President Wilson, Premier Lloyd George and Premier Millerand, thanking them for their good offices toward the Greek national aspirations.

PIER MEN AWAIT REPORT.

Will Meet Tonight to Learn Shipowners' Attitude.

The coastwise longshoremen, members of the International Longshoremen's Association, will meet at St. Veronica's Hall, Washington and Barrow Streets, tonight at 8 o'clock to hear a report from their leaders as to whether the steamship owners would agree to remove from the piers all non-union longshoremen if the union men, on a strike for the last five months, should return to work. The meeting was called first for yesterday afternoon, but was postponed when the officials found that they could not get in touch with the steamship owners until today. Several hundred longshoremen did not learn of the postponement until they went to the hall.

The threatened strike of firemen on the Staten Island ferryboats between St. George and the Battery was definitely called off at 8:40 o'clock yesterday morning. Police reserves from the Marine Division were on hand ready to take the places of the strikers. Many of the reserves were former firemen.

REISENWEBER GUESTS FLEE.

Ammonia Fumes Clear Restaurant When Cap Blows Off Tank.

A fireman was passing Reisenweber's Restaurant at Columbus Circle yesterday noon, when William Robinson, the restaurant's chief engineer, ran out and told him that a cap had blown off the twenty-ton ammonia tank in the cellar, which is used to manufacture ice and cool the building. The fireman and the restaurant employes were driven out of the basement by the ammonia fumes when they attempted to enter, and the guests dining on the ground floor left the room temporarily when the fumes began to reach them.

The rescue squad of the Fire Department was called and the members, wearing their gas masks, entered the cellar and screwed the cap firmly into place. The guests then resumed their interrupted meal.

Priority Asked for Gas Coal.

The Emergency Committee of the American Gas Association announced yesterday that the Interstate Commerce Commission would be urged to issue priority orders upon shipments of coal intended for use in making gas. It is the suggestion that these shipments have priority over everything but food. Another suggestion is that foreign coal shipments from Atlantic tidewater points be restricted until the Winter bins of New England are partly filled. Henry G. Bradlee, President of Store & Webster, points to a gas shortage in the coming Winter unless some such steps are taken.

Buy the Cheap Cuts and Save Money

THE Master-Butchers met in New York City last week and after long and earnest meditation decided that if the extravagant housewives would stop buying porterhouse and loins and would go in for chucks, short ribs and briskets they would save a lot of money. That was as near to a "fool proof" conclusion as any we've heard. Certainly no come back to that advice. But how do the cheap cuts compare in cost to milk. Chuck steak costs 25 cents a pound at the butchers. You discard 18% of it. The edible part is 60% water, making the cost of the solid food 76 cents per pound. A pound of solid food in Sheffield Milk costs 50 cents at any Sheffield store.

We are told by the scientists that the cheaper cuts are more nutritious than the finer parts of the beef. You may be sure that neither of them compare with milk as a food and besides cost more money.
